ISENHOWER, KEFAUVER WIN IN OREGON

eneral Gets Full Block Of GOP Delegates

PORTLAND, Ore. May 17 (AP)—A crushing avalanche f presidential primary votes arried Gen. Dwight D. Eisenower and Sen. Estes Kefauver to pledged delegation victories in Oregon today.

The Republicans, on the strength f returns midway in the slow ount, handed the full block of 18 OP national convention delegates Eisenhower with a mighty popular vote. His total was running t about 70 per cent of the Republican turnout for yesterday's balloting.

Kefauver, with no active opposition, came up with 74 per cent of he Democratic tally as a reward or getting out to meet the voters a his folksy way. He also got all .3 Democratic delegates as high man in the preferential polling. Two unwilling candidates, Justice William O. Douglas and Illinois Gov. Adalai Stevenson, shared what was left of the Democratic vote.

California's Gov. Earl Warren, a friendly neighbor who campaigned up and down the green-hilled state, was the only other Republican hopeful to make any kind of a showing — and he was far behind Eisenhower. Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio did not enter the primary, and drew a little write-in support so did not seek.

Eisenhower delegates rebuffed eight others who dodged the customary pledge to cast their convention ballot for the popularity poll winner. These eight supposedly were friendly to Taft. Three said they were.

Ex-Gov. Harold E. Stassen made a poor showing compared with the 307,000 votes he got in his 1948 Oregon primary fight against winning Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. In fact, both Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, who opposed their candidacies, topped Stassen.

Republican — Eisenhower 97,430; Warren 23,236; MacArthur, 10,726; Morse, 4,497; Stassen, 3,872; Taft, (incomplete write-in) 2,618.

Democratic — Kefauver, 89,289; Douglas, 16,536; Stevenson, 11,064.

Eisenhower and Kefauver carried all 36 counties. The early Taft write-in vote was only a reflection of his ultimate total; many precincts held back counting write-ins until after they finished with the regular tabulation.

The count was slowed by an especially long array of contests for state and local offices. But the results early confirmed an Associated Press survey of newsmen which placed Eisenhower and Warren in that order and forecast the Kefauver victory.

Eisenhower triumphed easily in his first western test over a field numbering Sen. Taft only as a write-in. Taft did not seek votes, but the general's supporters charged that eight unpledged delegate-candidates actually favored the Ohio senator. Three of these declared themselves for Taft; the rest have been silent.

Whatever their loyalties, this blank resorted to a seldom-used device to get on the ballot by petition to give them free choice at the convention. All others running for delegate on both tickets are pledged to the winner of the preferential vote.

Eisenhower headquarters raised a howl late in the campaign by endorsing their own slate of 10 top-name Republicans to compete for the eight contested places. The maneuver meant the dropping of other delegates favorable to Eisenhower — but the election count showed it was paying off.

Passman Announces In Congress Race

Statement On Candidacy Is Issued By U. S. Representative

Congressman Otto E. Passman of Monroe announced that he was a candidate for reelection to Congress subject to the Democratic Primary Election to be held July 29, 1952, and issued the following statement:

"I shall ask for re-election on my record in Congress and I say with humility, a record of accomplishment for my district and nation. I will discuss real issues and actualities and not confusing generalities. My campaign will be conducted on facts and not fiction. On account of my heavy responsibilities as a member of the powerful Appropriations Committee and my effort to help bring about a truce in Korea and peace in the world, my campaign, to a large extent, will be in the hands of the people of the Fifth District who have kept up with my record and recognize the importance of my remaining in Washington, especially at this very critical hour.

"I believe that the people of the Fifth District appreciate that my record of remaining on the job in Washington 98.5 per cent of the time for a five-year period may be the best record ever established by a Member of Congress from the South. I believe that the people will recognize that on account of my business experience I was placed on the most important Committee in the Congress—the Appropriations Committee—after the Louisiana delegation had tried unsuccessfully for years to get a member on the Appropriations Committee. As a member of the appropriations committee I have saved the taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars in unnecessary expenditures and at the same time have secured millions of dollars for projects which enhance the value of America.

"I ask the people to consider the great advantage I have as a Member of Congress with six years seniority and with four years seniority on the powerful Appropriations Committee. I believe they will take into account that if any former Member of Congress should be re-elected, he would go to Congress as a new Member, since no seniority for prior service in the Congress.

Chimpanzee Terrorizes Miami Area

MIAMI, Fla., May 17 (AP)—A 200-pound chimpanzee was killed by a burst of submachine gun bullets today after escaping from a private zoo, biting a caretaker, and terrorizing suburban Hialeah residents for an hour.

Hialeah Police Chief H. U. Warner fired the burst into the five foot animal as it charged Sgt. Glen Wilson, another Hialeah officer who had just wounded the beast with four .38 caliber revolver bullets.

The chimp who led police a frantic chase was "Congo," an inmate of the jungle zoo and owned by I. R. Watson of Tampa. He was placed in the zoo yesterday and was to have been delivered to Watson next week.

Congo escaped while zoo caretaker J. C. Smith was cleaning out the cage. He bit a large hunk of muscle out of Smith's upper left arm, vaulted a six foot fence and immediately attracted the attention of motorists on 79th Street.

The motorists honked their horns and yelled, apparently angering what Mrs. George Bogstead, wife of the zoo's owner, described as "an ordinarily peaceful animal."

Congo hopped on stopped cars and when the occupants rolled up the windows he grabbed the door handles and rocked the vehicles. Then he climbed on hoods and glared through the windshields until drivers put the cars in motion.

A Hialeah police car manned by Sgt. Wilson and Det. Capt. Charles Conners spotted Congo near a crowd of children and adult spectators and tried to capture him. Wilson advanced with a rope and then retreated hastily when the beast charged with bared fangs.

"He tried his darndest to get in the police car," Wilson said. "We rolled up the windows and he just grabbed hold and shook the car until it got to rocking like a boat."

Other police cars reached the scene and tried to drive him into a corner where he could be captured.

The ape made frequent dashes for groups of spectators, forcing them to run into nearby homes. A report reached police that he had bitten two persons on one of these forays. The report later proved false, but it forced Chief Warner to order Congo killed.

Conners and Wilson finally forced the chimp into a deadend street away from spectators. Congo turned on the advancing officer just as Chief Warner arrived with the submachine gun.

"I fired four shots into the beast's head," said Wilson. "It didn't even phase him." Then Chief Warner cut loose and Congo sank to the pavement.

Peddling Ordinance Will Be Considered

Tom Hays, chairman of the local state and national affairs committee of the Monroe-West Monroe Chamber of Commerce has called a meeting at 5 p. m., Monday. At the Chamber of Commerce Board room in the Virginia Hotel for the purpose of discussing the present city ordinance on door-to-door selling.

Since the subject of this ordinance should be of vital interest to both business people and residents of our city, this meeting is open to all interested parties and they are urged to attend and give their views. From the meeting, recommendations will be made to the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Jes' Ramblin'

A real family affair will be the commencement at Northeast State this year. A mother, Mrs. Margaret Johnson and her daughter, Miss Nancy Johnson, will recieve each a B. S. degree in elementary education while Mrs. Johnson's son, J. H. Johnson, Jr., will receive a B. S. degree in physical education.

We doubt if this record can be equalled hereabouts, perhaps no where in the country, in our opinion.

For the first time our four - year college will award degrees at the 1952 commencement in Brown auditorium. It will mark a new era for the institution. The 36 who will receive bachelor degrees will be as follows: Jason R. Johnson, Margaret R. Johnson, Nancy B. Johnson, Elizabeth Leake, Patsy Lee, Joseph Martone, Vivian La Verne Riddle, Guy A. Sievers, Clara E. Starnes, Raymond Sweet, Charles D. Vegnon, Cecile Ray Wilson, all of whom are from Monroe.

Boyet Scoffs At Charge He Is Playing Role Of Dictator

J. M. Boyet, superintendent of the Monroe City schools, stated Saturday that the charges of Mrs. James A. Noe, candidate for the city school board, that a "dictatorship" exists in the administration of the city schools, is without foundation in fact.

The charge was made in a radio address which was later printed in the public press and the candidate referred to "the quick temper and dictatorial attitude of Mr. Boyet," commented upon "his unfair and unwise leadership" and concluded that "he is decidedly lacking in the knowledge of human relations."

Mr. Boyet made it plain that he spoke as an individual and with no desire upon his part to influence any citizen in the choice of elected officials on the school board, but felt that there was a personal obligation on his part to answer charges which he considered as an invasion of his legal rights.

Boyet was named superintendent in 1948 after the retirement of Ernest L. Neville and has been in charge of the system for almost four years. At the time of his appointment he held an executive position with the state department of education. The city schools meet and surpass all standard educational requirements and have come to be recognized as one of the outstanding municipal systems in the south. Neville High School is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and the first nine grades of the city schools were recently selected on a national basis for standardized testing of new publications. Mr. Boyet's statement follows:

"I regret that it is necessary for me to make any public statement at a time when the citizens of Monroe are preparing to choose the members of their school board, but I do not believe that the people of our city would expect me to stand quietly by in the face of false charges and continued distortion of facts that have been made by radio and in print for the last ten days. I am speaking now as an individual and nothing which I shall say is

NEW ORLEANS DESCRIBED AS VICE CENTER

Crime Probers Picture City As Racketeer's Haven

NEW ORLEANS, May 17 (AP) — United States Attorney John McKay said today that the recent crime investigation by the U. S. grand jury has revealed New Orleans as a center of prostitution and hub of a widespread lottery racket.

McKay said in a statement that from the evidence, "It is apparent that New Orleans is the hub and distribution point of many women engaged in prostitution in Louisiana."

In Iberia Parish, there is a restricted district operated with the permission and sanction of the law enforcement authorities, he said. The same is true of New Orleans except that instead of restricted districts, some houses of prostitution have been found in residential districts.

In West Baton Rouge Parish, the statement said, gambling is permitted with the knowledge and permission of the law enforcement officials and some of them and "another public official" own and operate slot machines.

Gambling in St. Bernard is operated "openly and notoriously with the knowledge of the law enforcement officials. The parish is the keyspot of lottery operations in the metropolitan New Orleans area."

Though handbook operations have been curtailed in New Orleans, the grand jury reported it found evidence "that handbooks are now operating on a sneak basis at this time." Several handbooks were reported operating "likewise at this time" in Jefferson Parish.

The statement said evidence of "official misconduct" on the part of some New Orleans law enforcement officials was revealed. McKay said the evidence has been turned over to the criminal division of the Treasury Department.

The probe also learned that there is a link between nationwide gambling and the operation of one of St. Bernard Parish's largest gambling casinos. Most of the other gambling in the state, the report said, is operated by residents.

The jury learned that a bootleg wire service using telephones exclusively has replaced national handbook wire services recently driven out of business, McKay said.

Recent prosecutions have "apparently broken the back" of a major narcotics ring linking New Orleans and New York, McKay reported. The statement credited local and federal law enforcement officials and recent state and federal legislation with "drastically curbing" the activities of peddlers and dealers.

City, state and federal officials were commended for an "outstanding job" on the narcotics ring.

In the French Quarter of New Orleans, the statement said there has been in recent years a "definite influx of degenerates, and no adequate steps have been taken to cope with the situation.

"There is also strong evidence that sexual degenerates and prostitutes are also users of barbiturates and narcotics," the statement said.

In the rural parishes, McKay said, except for isolated instances, crime was found to be at a minimum.

In the two-month long investigation, scores of public officials, law enforcement officials and private citizens testified before the grand jury.

Ordered by former Attorney General J. Howard McGrath, the investigation was a follow-up to the Senate Crime Investigation Committee hearings.

Heart Attack Proves Fatal To John Ewing

CAPT. JOHN D. EWING

Veteran Journalist, Who Served As President Of News-Star—World And Publisher Of Shreveport Times, Dies While Flying Over Ruston

John Dunbrack Ewing, editor and publisher of the Shreveport Times, president of the News-Star—World, and president of radio station KWKH, died unexpectedly of a heart attack at 3:15 p.m. Saturday while flying in his private plane, "The Newsboy", from Pass Christian, Miss., to Shreveport.

He was returning home to serve as toastmaster at the Armed Forces week program in the American Legion clubhouse on Cross Lake, honoring Thomas K. Finletter, secretary of the Air Force.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Monday at St. Mark's Episcopal church with interment in Forest Park cemetery.

His death came as a sudden and severe shock to his associates in Shreveport and countless friends here and throughout the nation.

The sudden death of Capt. John D. Ewing, president of the News-Star—World Publishing Corp., and Editor and Publisher of the Shreveport Times, was a distinct shock not only to his associates on these newspapers but to his many friends in Monroe. Capt. Ewing suffered a heart attack yesterday while flying in his private plane over Ruston and was dead when the plane made an emergency landing there.

Capt. Ewing has visited Monroe many times. He had won the respect and friendship of many business leaders here who late yesterday expressed their regrets and sympathy to Wilson Ewing, Editor and Publisher of the News-Star—World, a brother of the deceased publisher.

Capt. Ewing had been president of the News-Star—World since the death of his father, the late Col. Robert Ewing, in 1931. Col. Ewing established the Morning World in October of 1929 and the News-Star was purchased in 1930.

Capt. Ewing had achieved a distinguished place in the nation's journalism. He served as president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association in 1938-39 and later was named chairman of its executive committee. He was a leader of positive character and forthright in his convictions, which won for him the respect and esteem of all with whom he was associated. His judgments as a newspaper executive were recognized as of a quality which contribute to successful journalism today.

Capt. Ewing, a graduate of the Virginia Military Institute, also had a brilliant war record. He was awarded the Croix de Guerre and the Purple Heart in World War I, when he served as a captain of infantry. He was one of the organizers of the American Legion at its original meeting in Paris, France, and not only served as Louisiana state commander of the Legion but was named to many important committees of the national organization. His work on the financial committee of the American Legion magazine was largely responsible for the success of that venture, for his publishing experience proved invaluable.

The community and state have lost a valuable citizen whose death will be mourned by thousands of persons, both in Louisiana and in many parts of the nation.

The business office of the News-Star—World will be closed on Monday afternoon in observance of the death of John D. Ewing.

Mr. Ewing, who was 60 years old, had been in excellent health.

"The Newsboy" was about 40 miles south of Ruston when Mr. Ewing was stricken. Aboard the plane were Eddie Hefley, pilot, Bill Wright, co - pilot, and Justin R. Querbes, Sr., of Shreveport, personal friend of Mr. Ewing. The heart attack came without warning and pilot Hefley brought the plane down at Ruston. A doctor who was summoned to the plane at Ruston said that a heart attack was the cause of Mr. Ewing's death. The body was brought to Shreveport late yesterday.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Henry Clay of Shreveport and a son, John Dunbrack Ewing, Jr., who is attending Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston, a sister, Mrs. Esther Ewing Brown of New Orleans, and three brothers, James Lindsay Ewing of New Orleans, Robert Ewing, Jr., of New Orleans and Wilson Ewing of Monroe. Two grandchildren also survive, Helen Hamilton Clay and Virginia Clay of Shreveport.

Mr. Ewing was decorated with the French Croix de Guerre by the late General Petain for bravery on Sept. 1, 1918, at Juvigny. He was also cited for the Distinguished Service Cross by Col. Robert McCoy, regimental commander.

In June, 1918, he attempted to obtain a transfer to aviation as a pursuit pilot. His application was finally disapproved by general headquarters because of lack of planes at the time. However, he had the full approval of Gen. Billy Mitchell, head of aviation in the American Expeditionary Force and first advocate of the bomber as a weapon of defense against battleships.

In May of 1918, Ewing flew over Germany with a French aviator in an observation plane. There, the plane encountered anti - aircraft fire from German fighters, but the plane eluded the pursuing fighters and returned safely to American lines.

Mr. Ewing often recalled that one of the highlights of his life was serving as an aide for an entire day in 1921 to the famous Marshall Foch of France. He knew the commander - in - chief of the victorious Allied armies intimately.

Mr. Ewing organized and started the Monroe Morning World, published daily in the morning in Monroe. The first issue came off the press on Sunday, Oct. 20, 1929.

By Nov. 30 of the next year, the newspaper bought out its competitor, which, until the entrance of Ewing into the newspaper field in Monroe had been successful as a six-day afternoon paper for 36 years.

The Ewing family still owns and controls the two Monroe newspapers and the Monroe Morning World is believed to be the only daily newspaper in the United States which started in the financial panic of 1929 to have lasted, and prospered into an established financial success.

Always a leader in civic and community affairs directed toward the betterment of Shreveport and the south, Mr. Ewing served for two years as chairman of a Shreveport committee which, in competition with cities throughout the south and southwest, worked successfully for the location of the army's Third Pursuit Group of aviation, now known as Barksdale Air Force Base, in this area.

At one time, the field was the largest army aviation field in America. It is still rated as one of the largest in the country.

Citizens of Shreveport, more than 800 strong, tendered Mr. Ewing a testimonial dinner in recognition of his services. He was also presented with a silver plaque, which still hangs in his office.

Mr. Ewing was also one of the leaders in the movement which brought reform government back to Louisiana some years ago and which resulted in prison terms for the ex - governor of the state as well as the ex - president, of Louisiana State University.

In July, 1939, Mr. Ewing was one of 21 special guests of Pan - American Airways in a trip in the famous "Yankee Clipper", since lost. The trip included North Atlantic areas, both east and west, and was the first North Atlantic round trip flight for commercial passengers.

The flight left New Orleans on a Friday afternoon and was in Paris, by the way of Newfoundland and Iceland, at 11:30 p.m. the following Sunday. The following Friday afternoon, Ewing was back in New Orleans, after spending two nights and one day in Paris and one day and one night in London, two nights in New York and half a day in Washington.

The then Prime Minister, Neville Chamberlain, Lord Beaverbrook Sir Anthony Eden, David Lloyd George, Sir Admiral Keyes of Jutland naval battle fame were only a few of the prominent dignitaries who entertained the group during its stay in London.

In 1948, Mr. Ewing was one of the guests aboard a Pan - American Constellation on the inaugural commercial air flight from New York to South Africa. In a tour of South Africa he visited many points of interest and was a guest of the late Gen. Jan Smuts at his home.

On Dec. 10, 1948, Mr. Ewing was among the business leaders tapped for membership in Omricon Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership fraternity, in the group's annual tapping exercises at Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va.

On Feb. 9, 1951, Mr. Ewing was elected chairman of the board of governors of the non - profit Alton Ochsner Medical Foundation at the start of its drive to raise $1,995,000. More than $3,000,000 of the sum was earmarked for construction of a new hospital to replace the foundation hospital in New Orleans.

He served as a director for the Kansas City Southern and Louisiana Arkansas Railroads.

Mr. Ewing was a 32nd degree Mason, a member of the Knights Templar and a Shriner. He was a member of the St. Mark's Episcopal Church and served as one of its vestrymen.

He held membership in Sigma Nu, Greek-letter college fraternity. He was also a member of the Boston Club of New Orleans, the Shreveport Country Club and many civic organizations.

From 1913 to the time of his military enlistment in 1917, he served as district inspector for Sigma Nu fraternity in an area embracing Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi.

Mr. Ewing was born in New Orleans on February 3, 1892, a son of the late Col. Robert and Katherine Dunbrack Ewing.

As a boy, he attended the public schools of New Orleans, the Dyers University School, a military school for boys, and entered Virginia Military Institute

One-Man Rule Of Schools In City System Charged

By BILL HARDIN

Aspirants to the Monroe city school board have hurled charges of "dictatorship" and "intimidation" at the present superintendent of the city school system and have stated at other times that teachers and even principals have followed "hints and suggestions" sent down from his office rather than what they considered best for the respective schools. In many cases, they say, the instructors acted because they feared the jeopardy in their jobs if they did not follow the suggestions.

In checking with various members of the school system, several instances were cited. The two outstanding, some said, occurred on September 21, 1950, and March 26 of this year.

Reportedly directed at all instructors, principals and other members of the city system was a statement by the superintendent on March 26 telling them not to "make the fatal mistakes of putting stumbling blocks in the way of our board members seeking reelection." Furthering his point, the superintendent told the meeting of Monroe City Teachers Association he had taught for 26 years and did not have to teach longer, if he desired not to do so. "I have taught 26 years; I don't have to teach in Monroe any longer, and neither do you," he stated.

Another intimidation alleged to have been hurled at the principals was on September 21, 1950, when a bulletin was sent to them stating that the board did not favor a blanket raise for principals "irrespective of the type and quality of service and the type of co-operation which the principal is giving from the Principal's Bulletin No. 2. It further stated that "it was ing." The quotations were taken

EISENHOWER, KEFAUVER WIN IN OREGON

General Gets Full Block Of GOP Delegates

PORTLAND, Ore. May 17 (AP)—A crushing avalanche of presidential primary votes carried Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Estes Kefauver to pledged delegation victories in Oregon today.

The Republicans, on the strength of returns midway in the slow count, handed the full block of 18 GOP national convention delegates to Eisenhower with a mighty popular vote. His total was running at about 70 per cent of the Republican turnout for yesterday's balloting.

Kefauver, with no active opposition, came up with 74 per cent of the Democratic tally as a reward for getting out to meet the voters in his folksy way. Ex-Gov. Harold E. Stassen made a poor showing compared with the 107,000 votes he got in his 1948 Oregon primary fight against winning Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. In fact, both Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, who opposed their candidacies, topped Stassen.

Republican — Eisenhower 97,430; Warren 23,826; MacArthur, 10,726; Morse, 4,497; Stassen, 3,872; Taft, (incomplete write-in) 2,818.

Eisenhower and Kefauver carried all 36 counties. The early Taft write-in vote was only a reflection of his ultimate total; many precincts held back counting write-ins until after they finished with the regular tabulaton.

Passman Announces In Congress Race

Congressman Otto E. Passman of Monroe announced that he was a candidate for reelection to Congress subject to the Democratic Primary Election to be held July 29, 1952, and issued the following statement:

"I shall ask for re-election on my record in Congress and I say with humility, a record of accomplishment for my district and nation. I will discuss real issues and actualities and not confusing generalities. My campaign will be conducted on facts and not fiction. I believe they will take into account that if any former Member of Congress should be re-elected, he would go to Congress as a new Member, since no seniority for prior service in the Con-

Chimpanzee Terrorizes Miami Area

MIAMI, Fla., May 17 (AP)—A 200-pound chimpanzee was killed by a burst of submachine gun bullets today after escaping from a private zoo, biting a caretaker, and terrorizing suburban Hialeah residents for an hour.

Hialeah Police Chief H. U. Warner fired the burst into the five foot animal as it charged Sgt. Glen Wilson, another Hialeah officer who had just wounded the beast with four .38 caliber revolver bullets.

The chimp who led police a frantic chase was "Congo," an inmate of the jungle zoo and owned by I. R. Watson of Tampa. He was placed in the zoo yesterday and was to have been delivered to Watson next week.

Congo escaped while zoo caretaker J. C. Smith was cleaning out the cage. He bit a large hunk of muscle out of Smith's upper left arm, vaulted a six foot fence and immediately attracted the attention of motorists on 79th Street.

The motorists honked their horns and yelled, apparenly angering what Mrs. George Bogstead, wife of the zoo's owner, described as "an ordinarily peaceful animal."

Congo hopped on stopped cars and when the occupants rolled up the windows he grabbed the door handles and rocked the vehicles. Then he climbed on hoods and glared through the windshields until drivers put the cars in motion.

A Hialeah police car manned by Sgt. Wilson and Det. Capt. Charles Conners spotted Congo near a crowd of children and adult spectators and tried to capture him. Wilson advanced with a rope and then retreated hastily when the beast charged with bared fangs.

"He tried his darndest to get in the police car," Wilson said. "We rolled up the windows and he just grabbed hold and shook the car until it got to rocking like a boat."

Other police cars reached the scene and tried to drive him into a corner where he could be captured.

The ape made frequent dashes for groups of spectators, forcing them to run into nearby homes. A report reached police that he had bitten two persons on one of these forays. The report later proved false, but it forced Chief Warner to order Congo killed.

Conners and Wilson finally forced the chimp into a deadend street away from spectators. Congo turned on the advancing officer just as Chief Warner arrived with the submachine gun.

"I fired four shots into the beast's head," said Wilson. "It didn't even phase him." Then Chief Warner cut loose and Congo sank to the pavement.

From the meeting, recommendations will be made to the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Jes' Ramblin'

A real family affair will be the commencement at Northeast State this year. A mother, Mrs. Margaret Johnson and her daughter, Miss Nancy Johnson, will recieve each a B. S. degree in elementary education while Mrs. Johnson's son, J. H. Johnson, Jr., will receive a B. S. degree in physical education.

We doubt if this record can be equalled hereabouts, perhaps no where in the country, in our opinion.

For the first time our four - year college will award degrees at the 1952 commencement in Brown auditorium. It will mark a new era for the institution. The 36 who will receive bachelor degrees will be as follows: Jason R. Johnson, Margaret R. Johnson, Nancy B. Johnson, Elizabeth Leake, Patsy Lee, Joseph Martone, Vivian La Verne Riddle, Guy A. Sievers, Clara E. Starnes, Raymond Sweet, Charles D. Vernon, Cecile Ray Wilson, all of whom are from Monroe.

Boyet Scoffs At Charge He Is Playing Role Of Dictator

J. M. Boyet, superintendent of the Monroe City schools, stated Saturday that the charges of Mrs. James A. Noe, candidate for the city school board, that a "dictatorship" exists in the administration of the city schools, is without foundation in fact.

The charge was made in a radio address which was later printed in the public press and the candidate referred to "the quick temper and dictatorial attitude of Mr. Boyet," commented upon "his unfair and unwise leadership" and concluded that "he is decidedly lacking in the knowledge of human relations."

Mr. Boyet made it plain that he spoke as an individual and with no desire upon his part to influence any citizen in the choice of elected officials on the school board, but felt that there was a personal obligation on his part to answer charges which he considered as an invasion of his legal rights.

Boyet was named superintendent in 1948 after the retirement of Ernest L. Neville and has been in charge of the system for almost four years. At the time of his appointment he held an executive position with the state department of education. The city schools meet and surpass all standard educational requirements and have come to be recognized as one of the outstanding municipal systems in the south. Neville High School is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and the first nine grades of the city schools were recently selected on a national basis for standardized testing of new publications. Mr. Boyet's statement follows:

"I regret that it is necessary for me to make any public statement at a time when the citizens of Monroe are preparing to choose the members of their school board, but I do not believe that the people of our city would expect me to stand quietly by in the face of false charges and continuel distortion of facts that have been made by radio and in print for the last ten days. I am speaking now as an individual and nothing which I shall say is

Crime Probers Picture City As Racketeer's Haven

NEW ORLEANS, May 17 (AP) — United States Attorney John McKay said today that the recent crime investigation by the U. S. grand jury has revealed New Orleans as a center of prostitution and hub of a widespread lottery racket.

McKay said in a statement that from the evidence, "It is apparent that New Orleans is the hub and distribution point of many women engaged in prostitution in Louisiana."

In Iberia Parish, there is a restricted district operated with the permission and sanction of the law enforcement authorities, he said. The same is true of New Orleans except that instead of restricted districts, some houses of prostitution have been found in residential districts.

In West Baton Rouge Parish, the statement said, gambling is permitted with the knowledge and permission of the law enforcement officials and some of them and "another public official" own and operate slot machines.

Gambling in St. Bernard is operated "openly and notoriously with the knowledge of the law enforcement officials. The parish is the keyspot of lottery operations in the metropolitan New Orleans area."

Though handbook operations have been curtailed in New Orleans, the grand jury reported it found evidence "that handbooks are now operating on a sneak basis at this time." Several handbooks were reported operating "likewise at this time" in Jefferson Parish.

The statement said evidence of "official misconduct" on the part of some New Orleans law enforcement officials was revealed. McKay said the evidence has been turned over to the criminal division of the Treasury Department.

The probe also learned that there is a link between nationwide gambling and the operation of one of St. Bernard Parish's largest gambling casinos. Most of the other gambling in the state, the report said, is operated by residents.

The jury learned that a bootleg wire service using telephones exclusively has replaced national handbook wire services recently driven out of business, McKay said.

Recent prosecutions have "apparently broken the back" of a major narcotics ring linking New Orleans and New York, McKay reported. The statement credited local and federal law enforcement officials and recent state and federal legislation with "drastically curbing" the activities of peddlers and dealers.

City, state and federal officials were commended for an "outstanding job" on the narcotics ring.

In the French Quarter of New Orleans, the statement said there has been in recent years a "definite influx of degenerates, and no adequate steps have been taken to cope with the situation.

"There is also strong evidence that sexual degenerates and prostitutes are also users of barbiturates and narcotics," the statement said.

In the rural parishes, McKay said, except for isolated instances, crime was found to be at a minimum.

In the two-month long investigation, scores of public officials, law enforcement officials and private citizens testified before the grand jury.

Ordered by former Attorney General J. Howard McGrath, the investigation was a follow-up to the Senate Crime Investigation Committee hearings.

CAPT. JOHN D. EWING

The sudden death of Capt. John D. Ewing, president of the News-Star—World Publishing Corp., and Editor and Publisher of the Shreveport Times, was a distinct shock not only to his associates on these newspapers but to his many friends in Monroe. Capt. Ewing suffered a heart attack yesterday while flying in his private plane over Ruston and was dead when the plane made an emergency landing there.

Capt. Ewing has visited Monroe many times. He had won the respect and friendship of many business leaders here who late yesterday expressed their regrets and sympathy to Wilson Ewing, Editor and Publisher of the News-Star—World, a brother of the deceased publisher.

Capt. Ewing had been president of the News-Star—World since the death of his father, the late Col. Robert Ewing, in 1931. Col. Ewing established the Morning World in October of 1929 and the News-Star was purchased in 1930.

Capt. Ewing had achieved a distinguished place in the nation's journalism. He served as president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association in 1938-39 and later was named chairman of its executive committee. He was a leader of positive character and forthright in his convictions, which won for him the respect and esteem of all with whom he was associated. His judgments as a newspaper executive were recognized as of a quality which contribute to successful journalism today.

Capt. Ewing, a graduate of the Virginia Military Institute, also had a brilliant war record. He was awarded the Croix de Guerre and the Purple Heart in World War I, when he served as a captain of infantry. He was one of the organizers of the American Legion at its original meeting in Paris, France, and not only served as Louisiana state commander of the Legion but was named to many important committees of the national organization. His work on the financial committee of the American Legion magazine was largely responsible for the success of that venture, for his publishing experience proved invaluable.

The community and state have lost a valuable citizen whose death will be mourned by thousands of persons, both in Louisiana and in many parts of the nation.

Veteran Journalist, Who Served As President Of News-Star—World And Publisher Of Shreveport Times, Dies While Flying Over Ruston

John Dunbrack Ewing, editor and publisher of the Shreveport Times, president of the News-Star—World, and president of radio station KWKH, died unexpectedly of a heart attack at 3:15 p.m. Saturday while flying in his private plane, "The Newsboy", from Pass Christian, Miss., to Shreveport.

He was returning home to serve as toastmaster at the Armed Forces week program in the American Legion clubhouse on Cross Lake, honoring Thomas K. Finletter, secretary of the Air Force.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Monday at St. Mark's Episcopal church with interment in Forest Park cemetery.

His death came as a sudden and severe shock to his associates in Shreveport and countless friends here and throughout the nation.

The business office of the News-Star—World will be closed on Monday afternoon in observance of the death of John D. Ewing.

Mr. Ewing, who was 60 years old, had been in excellent health.

"The Newsboy" was about 40 miles south of Ruston when Mr. Ewing was stricken. Aboard the plane were Eddie Hefley, pilot, Bill Wright, co - pilot, and Justin R. Querbes, Sr., of Shreveport, personal friend of Mr. Ewing. The heart attack came without warning and pilot Hefley brought the plane down at Ruston. A doctor who was summoned to the plane at Ruston said that a heart attack was the cause of Mr. Ewing's death. The body was brought to Shreveport late yesterday.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Henry Clay of Shreveport and a son, John Dunbrack Ewing, Jr., who is attending Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston, a sister, Mrs. Esther Ewing Brown of New Orleans, and three brothers, James Lindsay Ewing of New Orleans, Robert Ewing, Jr., of New Orleans and Wilson Ewing of Monroe. Two grandchildren also survive, Helen Hamilton Clay and Virginia Clay of Shreveport.

Mr. Ewing was decorated with the French Croix de Guerre by the late General Petain for bravery on Sept. 1, 1918, at Juvigny. He was also cited for the Distinguished Service Cross by Col. Robert McCoy, regimental commander.

In June, 1918, he attempted to obtain a transfer to aviation as a pursuit pilot. His application was finally disapproved by general headquarters because of lack of planes at the time. However, he had the full approval of Gen. Billy Mitchell, head of aviation in the American Expeditionary Force and first advocate of the bomber as a weapon of defense against battleships.

In May of 1918, Ewing flew over Germany with a French aviator in an observation plane. There, the plane encountered anti - aircraft fire from German fighters, but the plane eluded the pursuing fighters and returned safely to American lines.

Mr. Ewing often recalled that one of the highlights of his life was serving as an aide for an entire day in 1921 to the famous Marshall Foch of France. He knew the commander - in - chief of the victorious Allied armies intimately.

Mr. Ewing organized and started the Monroe Morning World, published daily in the morning in Monroe. The first issue came off the press on Sunday, Oct. 20, 1929.

By Nov. 30 of the next year, the newspaper bought out its competitor, which, until the entrance of Ewing into the newspaper field in Monroe had been successful as a six-day afternoon paper for 36 years.

The Ewing family still owns and controls the two Monroe newspapers and the Monroe Morning World is believed to be the only daily newspaper in the United States which started in the financial panic of 1929 to have lasted, and prospered into an established financial success.

Always a leader in civic and community affairs directed toward the betterment of Shreveport and the south, Mr. Ewing served for two years as chairman of a Shreveport committee which, in competition with cities throughout the south and southwest, worked successfully for the location of the army's Third Pursuit Group of aviation, now known as Barksdale Air Force Base, in this area.

At one time, the field was the largest army aviation field in America. It is still rated as one of the largest in the country.

Citizens of Shreveport, more than 800 strong, tendered Mr. Ewing a testimonial dinner in recognition of his services. He was also presented with a silver plaque, which still hangs in his office.

Mr. Ewing was also one of the leaders in the movement which brought reform government back to Louisiana some years ago and which resulted in prison terms for the ex - governor of the state as well as the ex - president, of Louisiana State University.

In July, 1939, Mr. Ewing was one of 21 special guests of Pan - American Airways in a trip in the famous "Yankee Clipper", since lost. The trip included North Atlantic areas, both east and west, and was the first North Atlantic round trip flight for commercial passengers.

The flight left New Orleans on a Friday afternoon and was in Paris, by the way of Newfoundland and Iceland, at 11:30 p.m. the following Sunday. The following Friday afternoon, Ewing was back in New Orleans, after spending two nights and one day in Paris and one day and one night in London, two nights in New York and half a day in Washington.

The then Prime Minister, Neville Chamberlain, Lord Beaverbrook Sir Anthony Eden, David Lloyd George, Sir Admiral Keyes of Jutland naval battle fame were only a few of the prominent dignitaries who entertained the group during its stay in London.

In 1948, Mr. Ewing was one of the guests aboard a Pan - American Constellation on the inaugural commercial air flight from New York to South Africa. In a tour of South Africa he visited many points of interest and was a guest of the late Gen. Jan Smuts at his home.

On Dec. 10, 1948, Mr. Ewing was among the business leaders tapped for membership in Omricon Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership fraternity, in the group's annual tapping exercises at Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va.

On Feb. 9, 1951, Mr. Ewing was elected chairman of the board of governors of the non - profit Alton Oschsner Medical Foundation at the start of its drive to raise $1,995,000. More than $3,000,000 of the sum was earmarked for construction of a new hospital to replace the foundation hospital in New Orleans.

He served as a director for the Kansas City Southern and Louisiana Arkansas Railroads.

Mr. Ewing was a 32nd degree Mason, a member of the Knights Templar and a Shriner. He was a member of the St. Mark's Episcopal Church and served as one of its vestrymen.

He held membership in Sigma Nu, Greek-letter college fraternity. He was also a member of the Boston Club of New Orleans, the Shreveport Country Club and many civic organizations.

From 1913 to the time of his military enlistment in 1917, he served as district inspector for Sigma Nu fraternity in an area embracing Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi.

Mr. Ewing was born in New Orleans on February 3, 1892, a son of the late Col. Robert and Katherine Dunbrack Ewing.

As a boy, he attended the public schools of New Orleans and Dyers University School, a preparatory military school for boys. He entered Virginia Military Institute

One-Man Rule Of Schools In City System Charged

By BILL HARDIN

Aspirants to the Monroe city school board have hurled charges of "dictatorship" and "intimidation" at the present superintendent of the city school system and have stated at other times that teachers and even principals have followed "hints and suggestions" sent down from his office rather than what they considered best for the respective schools. In many cases, they say, the instructors acted because they feared the jeopardy in their jobs if they did not follow the suggestions.

In checking with various members of the school system, several instances were cited. The two outstanding, some said, occurred on September 21, 1950, and March 26 of this year.

Reportedly directed at all instructors, principals and other members of the city system was a statement by the superintendent on March 26 telling them not to "make the fatal mistakes of putting stumbling blocks in the way of our board members seeking reelection." Furthering his point, the superintendent told the meeting of Monroe City Teachers Association he had taught for 26 years and did not have to teach longer, if he desired not to do so. "I have taught 26 years; I don't have to teach in Monroe any longer, and neither do you," he stated.

Another intimidation alleged to have been hurled at the principals was on September 21, 1950, when a bulletin was sent to them stating that the board did not favor a blanket raise for principals "irrespective of the type and quality of service and the type of co-operation which the principal is given from the Principal's Bulletin No. 88. It further stated that "it was ing." The quotations were taken

On June 8, 1913, he was graduated with the Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry. While a cadet, he served as captain of the 1913 varsity basketball team and as vice-president of Sigma Nu college fraternity. He was associate editor of "The Bomb," the school annual. He was graduated as a first lieutenant in the cadet corps and was a member of the college honor group.

From 1913 to 1915, he was circulation manager of the New Orleans Daily States, the newspaper on which his father had worked up through all departments, finally achieving sole ownership. His father served as editor and publisher of the Daily States and was one of the original joiners of the Associated Press and was serving as first vice-president of the Press Service at the time of his death on April 27, 1931.

In July, 1919, Mr. Ewing became associate publisher of the Shreveport Times. In 1931, he became president, editor and publisher of the Times. He was serving in that capacity at the time of his death. He also held the same offices with the Monroe News-Star—World from 1931 on.

Mr. Ewing served as president of the New Orleans States from May, 1931, to July, 1935. He was a former president of Radio Station KTBS, and from 1937 until his death, he was president of Radio Station KWKH.

Since May, 1931, he had been the sole trustee of his father's estate.

During 1939, Mr. Ewing served as president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association. He was named chairman of the board in the following year.

Before the organization's 1935 convention, he introduced the resolution which led to organization of what is now the Southland Paper Company of Lufkin, Texas. He served, not only as organizer of the association, but also as one of its first directors. The firm was the first commercially successful newsprint mill from long and short leaf pine in the world.

Ewing was one of the St. Louis caucus organizers of the American Legion. He was one of 186 active members of the Founders Club of the American Legion and one of the three who organized the American Legion monthly in 1921.

From 1921 to 1940, he served as a member of the Legion board of directors and from 1926 to his resignation in 1940, he served as its chairman. In 1921, he was unanimously elected state commander of the Louisiana department of the Legion.

Mr. Ewing had the distinction of having been elected a delegate to all the Legion's national conventions. He shared this honor with a mere handful of the Legion's million members. Throughout his membership in the organization, he was active on many committees.

He served on the Foreign Affairs committee which called on the president of the United States to adopt lend-lease and condemn Germany and Italy in 1940 and 1941.

In 1927, he toured Europe for six weeks with his late wife as one of 48 representatives of the American Legion. He was personally entertained by the late King George V of England, and the Duke of Windsor, then prince of Wales, who later became Edward VIII and abdicated his throne. The late King Albert of Belgium and King Emanuel of Italy were also among those who entertained Ewing and his group.

Mr. Ewing established an enviable military record, which first began when he enlisted at the first officers training camp at Fort Logan H. Roots, Little Rock, Ark., the day after the first world war was declared in 1917.

He was commissioned a captain of the Infantry Reserve Corps and was assigned to the 32nd "Red Arrow" division in September 1917. Two weeks later, he was sent to the special officers musketry school at Fort Sill, near Lawton, Okla., from which he was graduated eight weeks later.

He was then made a member of the 32nd Division Headquarters Staff and Musketry Instructor at Waco, Texas.

The 32nd Division embarked for overseas in January of 1918 and landed at Liverpool, England, in February. After a few weeks there, the unit crossed the English Channel from Southampton to Le-Havre France.

Ewing often recalled that his 26th birthday anniversary was spent aboard the liner Adriatic and his 27th anniversary aboard the liner Ryndam on the return trip to England from France.

His division was sent to the French Tenth Advanced Training area with division headquarters at Pravthoy. After six weeks of intensive trench warfare training the unit was sent to Alsace to the front line sector.

While there, Ewing requested assignment to the infantry company as captain and commander of Company H, 128th Infantry 64th Brigade. In June he moved with his group to the Chateau Thierry battle and subsequently to Juvigny, near Soissons, St. Mihiel and then the Argonne.

At Juvigny, he was promoted to operations and intelligence officer of his regiment. The 32nd with the first regular and second marine division, were the only three American divisions beyond the Rhine River in occupied Germany. These three units, with the 42nd Rainbow division in Coblenz proper, made up the famous third U. S. army "Shock Corps."

On several occasions, the regiment was cited by both French and American commanders.

He was with the regiment in Germany for two weeks and then sailed home on the last of January, 1919. He was honorably discharged at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va., on March 15, 1919.

Aboard the boat, Ewing was assistant adjutant to the then Major Frank Knox, later secretary of the navy and publisher of the Chicago Daily News.

The Ewing family's management of the Shreveport Times goes back to Aug. 15, 1908, when the late Col. Robert Ewing, father of John D. Ewing, purchased the paper. He was publisher of the New Orleans States at the time.

More than a year earlier, the paper had passed from its last individual management and editorship in the hands of a syndicate which had meantime been trying unsuccessfully to find a purchaser for it.

Col. Ewing was persuaded to inspect the property and finally to buy it. The paper had been established in 1870, at a time when Shreveport's population was less than 5,000. The newspaper's circulation at that time is not now known.

The First National Bank held notes for $35,000 against the Times property when Ewing agreed to buy it. The formalities of the sale consisted in the bank's taking possession of the property, with Col. Ewing paying the bank $35,000, receiving the newspaper property in return.

Settlement of other debts brought the purchase price up to $55,000, but virtually all mechanical equipment in the structure had to be replaced. The Times began almost immediately to take on new vigor. Its editorial page began to assert aggresive leadership in city, state and national issues.

Col. Ewing was one of seven men who managed the campaign of Woodrow Wilson in the Democratic presidential nomination race of 1912. He was offered a cabinet post under Wilson but declined to continue in the newspaper field.

Col. Ewing formed the Times Publishing Company when he purchased the property. He held the majority of the stock himself, but a minority block was split among W. C. Chevis, J. Walker Ross and A. W. Brown, all of The States.

In 1915, Ewing sent for his son, John, to come to Shreveport as associate publisher of The Times. John had already served as circulation manager of the New Orleans paper and also in its press and stereotype rooms in order to get a well - rounded newspaper foundation.

When John D. Ewing came to Shreveport, the city's population was approximately 35,000 and The Times had a daily circulation of 10,577 and a Sunday circulation of 17,019. When his father bought the paper, Shreveport's population was about 25,000, and The Times had a daily circulation of only 5,200 and a Sunday circulation of only 7,800.

Both Shreveport and The Times grew in parallel leaps and bounds, with diligent newspaper ever seeking a way to point the road to greater progress for a sympathetic public.

At the time of the younger Ewing's arrival here, The Times was just starting on one of its campaigns on behalf of Shreveport and its people. It was waging a fight for an adequate supply of pure water. The fight was won with the eventual voting of funds by the people for the acquisition and construction of Cross Lake as a reservoir, with additional expenditures approved at a later date when a public referendum was held to authorize other needed improvements.

Since his father's death, John D. Ewing has served as editor and publisher of The Times. He not only followed, but expanded the traditions of his father.

Mr. Ewing was a pioneer figure in the radio industry in the south and southwest. In 1935 he purchased KWKH, The Early Day Shreveport station which had spread the city's name across the nation under the direction of W. K. Henderson.

A few months before this The Times had purchased Station KTBS. Studios of both stations were moved to the commercial building, giving Mr. Ewing ownership of both the Columbia and NBC outlets.

In 1943, when the Federal Communications Commission ruled against multiple ownership of stations, Mr. Ewing sold KTBS to a group of Shreveport men and acquired Station KTHS at Hot Springs, Ark., in the deal. Recently he had received permission from the FCC to move KTHS to Little Rock, Ark., and vastly increase its power.

At his death Mr. Ewing was directing plans of his organization to expand into television for Shreveport, for which his application is now pending.

KWKH has grown steadily under his direction. On Nov. 12, 1939, it began operating with 50,000 watts power, one of a few in the nation of this size, and as powerful as any commercial broadcasting station. In November, 1948, KWKH added frequency modulation (FM) broadcasting.

On Sept. 2, 1950, the Columbia Broadcasting System devoted a national program to a salute to Mr. Ewing and KWKH on the station's 25th anniversary. One of the stars of this program was Gene Autry, the singing cowboy who himself is the owner of several radio stations and a close friend of Mr. Ewing.

I believe the people will consider the important work I have done in the field of flood control, having brought 54 million dollars into my district in six years which has increased the value of property in the district by 150 million dollars. The people will take into account that our flood control protection program in the Fifth District is only one-third complete. I am keenly desirous of carrying out the program which I got underway that has helped so many of our rural and urban people in the Fifth District.

Furthermore, I have turned back to the United States Treasury, in the interest of economy, many thousands of dollars from my secretary hire account. "I am by profession an educator and a school administrator and have known no other work for the past 26 years. I have served as principal of high schools and for the last eight years before coming to Monroe held an executive position with the state department of education.

"My record is an open one, and I urge its inspection. I was asked to give up my work in Baton Rouge and come to Monroe as superintendent of your city schools. I did not seek the position, but when I made a survey of your school system I am frank to say that I was delighted at the challenge and opportunity which it offered. I moved my family to Monroe in August of 1948, and in the past four years I have come to love this city and have put forth every possible effort to insure a proper administration of your school system.

"In 1948 there were 3,343 children in the city schools, today there are 5,028 and a constantly increasing attendance. In 1948 there were 119 teachers, today there are 172 teachers and 83 additional employes. We have been able to make extensive improvements in all existing school buildings and playgrounds, and today we have under construction two new elementary schools for white, one remodeled and reconstructed white elementary school and one large new colored school and plans have been completed and contract let for a physical education addition to Neville High School. I have great pride in our school system and the progressive city which has made it possible.

"When one has devoted his life to educational work, and has achieved executive positions in the school systems of other parishes and in the state system, it is rather a bitter experience to meet charges that one has established a 'dictatorship' in his field of work. I am now charged, in the midst of a political race, with 'unfair and unwise leadership' and it is indicated that I have wilfully wrecked a school system because of 'show of temper flares, injustices, unfair accusations and misinterpretation of even a casual remark'

"In the last 24 hours I have had calls from many of our teachers and citizens who have expressed a desire to make radio appearances, issue public statements or pass petitions which would disclose the truth about the political campaign which is now being waged. I have asked these people not to enter what is proving a very sorry conflict. I have been engaged in educational work long enough to know that our schools are conducted for our children, and they are without the power to vote or speak in their own behalf. We adults would indeed be behaving rather badly if we allow passion, prejudice and prejudgement to do great harm to a school system which we all love.

"Ronald L. Davis, Mike John and W. F. Taylor have offered their candidacies for re-election as school board members, and I have asked them not to turn aside from their public interest in the system as a whole to tangle with the present tar-baby diversion. They are good men who have given generously of their time and ability in unsalaried work, and if there must be a scape-goat in the present political arena then I do sincerely trust that my 26 years of educational service allows me a reputation which can and will weather the present storm.

"I am well aware of the fact that there is an organized faction within the city school system that is opposed to my continued administration. I know that for several months they have been preparing the campaign that is now being waged, and I know that they are determined to be in control of the schools and that they have given little consideration in the means by which such an end is to be reached.

"Among the 255 employes of the system I am certain that a number believe themselves to be more competent and efficient than I could ever be. That is an ever present executive problem, well known to every business man, but when I accepted the offer of your school board to become superintendent I knew that they placed the direct responsibilities on my shoulders and expected me to perfect and preserve a properly operating system. I did ask them if any teaching or executive member of the system was being alternatively considered as a possible superintendent, and I told them that I definitely did not desire to override or supplant any local candidate. I was assured that such was not the case, and it is rather disturbing to find out that old feelings and disappointments have come to the surface in these political times.

"When a small group of teachers and school executives decide that the system of the superintendent is not to their liking and deliberately set out to wage political campaigns then we can only meet with the unfortunate result which we now have at hand.

"The teachers in our schools are fully protected by the Teacher Tenure Act and can be discharged only after convincing public proof of incompetency, dishonesty or neglect of duty. There is no prohibition against political activity, they are free to express their opinions and urge their rights at all times. In the past four years only one teacher has appeared before the city school board to present any problem in connection with our schools. Also only one teacher has addressed a letter of specific complaint to me and he wrote regarding a change of class assignments at Neville High School.

"It was explained that the status attained was wholly within his field of specialization and he did not appear to make further protest before the school board.

"We are continually working out our problems in conference and on the basis of experience, I do not say that every final decision has been unanimous, but up to this political campaign, there was no indication of any attempt to do otherwise than to operate the schools for the proper use and benefit of our young people.

"Among 225 employees there is always some room for dissatisfaction, but there should be no reason for open conflict in a public system of education. There are far more loyal employees, far more men and women who are teachers by profession and who have the interest of schools in their hearts, than there are individuals who are ready to place personal issues above public good.

"I do regret that so small a minority have seen fit to organize a campaign and personally feed the fires of propaganda in an attempt to cause the citizens of Monroe to place them in positions of power through school board candidates who have made their commitments and pledges in a political campaign. I particularly regret that they have injected personalities in a school conflict program and have constantly supplied information which is not only false but designed to be misleading.

"My office is open at all times to those of you who are interested in school affairs. My files are complete and are ready for your inspection as citizens interested in your school system. I believe that you will be slow to turn your schools over to your system employees who are expressing personal feelings against and dissatisfaction with my services as the appointed head of your school system. What happens to me is relatively unimportant. What happens to your school system is a matter of great importance. Your children are the ones who will benefit from your school system, we adults have only personal gains and profits and it ill behooves us to sharpen our hatchets or seek conflict in a system which is not ours alone. The final decision is in your hands.

the feeling of the board present at the last meeting (September), that raises in the future should take into account the quality of service being rendered and whether a principal is cooperating with the program of the city school board as outlined in the policy statements submitted from the school board office." The bulletin was signed by the superintendent of schools for the city.

All bulletins from the superintendent's office are considered memoranda on which the principals, and consequently the instructors, act.

Although veiled, the superintendent stated that he could and would refuse raises for principals if they failed to cooperate with his program. A check of the salaries in the city system reveal that after the bulletin was issued only one principal received a pay increase.

In the instance where the principal received a salary raise, it was further revealed that the person had been appointed to the principalship since the present superintendent assumed his duties. Meanwhile five other principals with experience ranging from 18 to 45 years received no raise since the blanket increase of 1950.

Principals contacted said they were under the impression that any slight disagreement would be considered a display of non-cooperation with the "program. . .as outlined in policy statements." One principal said openly that his interference in the making up of teachers schedules in his school caused the superintendent to "notify me he was in charge." Up until the retirement of a former superintendent after a long tenure, the principal had no interference in the class work of teachers.

Another principal, who has headed a grammar school for one of the longest terms in the city system, related an incident when the superintendent instructed her to move a prayer from her office wall. The prayer, clipped from a magazine and framed a number of years ago, has caused little or no comment from others entering the office. The principal stated that she refused the removal because she considered it of no consequence other than "to make an issue of nothing."

In one of the lower grades at Neville a teacher, with sufficient credits, including a degree in teaching, is being held on the "temporary" basis while another was hired for the 1951-1952 session to teach the same subject on a permanent basis. At midterm of this year the teacher was still listed as "temporary."

Apparently the actual administration of the system is, to a large degree, left to the superintendent, with the board acting in an advisory capacity, except for the handling of monetary affairs and overall policies. Some of the teachers reportedly, in an effort to correct some of these practices, have approached the board members directly, only to be told later that all communication with the board must be handled directly through the "channel of command". Any information or requests from teachers must first be given to the principals, who in turn pass it on to the superintendent. He, then, may present it to the board for action. Many, who requested not to be named, said any requests for changes have been stymied by this action, with the consequences that the board never "had any real information of what was happening in the system below the superintendent's level."

HEART ATTACK

On June 8, 1913, he was graduated with the Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry. While a cadet, he served as captain of the 1913 varsity basketball team and as vice-president of Sigma Nu college fraternity. He was associate editor of "The Bomb," the school annual. He was graduated as a first lieutenant in the cadet corps and was a member of the college honor group.

From 1913 to 1915, he was circulation manager of the New Orleans Daily States, the newspaper on which his father had worked up through all departments, finally achieving sole ownership. His father served as editor and publisher of the Daily States and was one of the original joiners of the Associated Press and was serving as first vice-president of the Press Service at the time of his death on April 27, 1931.

In July, 1919, Mr. Ewing became associate publisher of the Shreveport Times. In 1931, he became president, editor and publisher of the Times. He was serving in that capacity at the time of his death. He also held the same offices with the Monroe News-Star—World from 1931 on.

Mr. Ewing served as president of the New Orleans States from May, 1931, to July, 1935. He was a former president of Radio Station KTBS, and from 1937 until his death, he was president of Radio Station KWKH.

Since May, 1931, he had been the sole trustee of his father's estate.

During 1939, Mr. Ewing served as president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association. He was named chairman of the board in the following year.

Before the organization's 1935 convention, he introduced the resolution which led to organization of what is now the Southland Paper Company of Lufkin, Texas. He served, not only as organizer of the association, but also as one of its first directors. The firm was the first commercially successful newsprint mill from long and short leaf pine in the world.

Ewing was one of the St. Louis caucus organizers of the American Legion. He was one of 186 active members of the Founders Club of the American Legion and one of the three who organized the American Legion monthly in 1921.

From 1921 to 1940, he served as a member of the Legion board of directors and from 1926 to his resignation in 1940, he served as its chairman. In 1921, he was unanimously elected state commander of the Louisiana department of the Legion.

Mr. Ewing had the distinction of having been elected a delegate to all the Legion's national conventions. He shared this honor with a mere handful of the Legion's million members. Throughout his membership in the organization, he was active on many committees.

He served on the Foreign Affairs committee which called on the president of the United States to adopt lend-lease and condemn Germany and Italy in 1940 and 1941.

In 1927, he toured Europe for six weeks with his late wife as one of 48 representatives of the American Legion. He was personally entertained by the late King George V of England, and the Duke of Windsor, then prince of Wales, who later became Edward VIII and abdicated his throne. The late King Albert of Belgium and King Emanuel of Italy were also among those who entertained Ewing and his group.

Mr. Ewing established an enviable military record, which first began when he enlisted at the first officers training camp at Fort Logan H. Roots, Little Rock, Ark., the day after the first world war was declared in 1917.

He was commissioned a captain of the Infantry Reserve Corps and was assigned to the 32nd "Red Arrow" division in September 1917. Two weeks later, he was sent to the special officers musketry school at Fort Sill, near Lawton, Okla., from which he was graduated eight weeks later.

He was then made a member of the 32nd Division Headquarters Staff and Musketry Instructor at Waco, Texas.

The 32nd Division embarked for overseas in January of 1918 and landed at Liverpool, England, in February. After a few weeks there, the unit crossed the English Channel from Southampton to Le-Havre France.

Ewing often recalled that his 26th birthday anniversary was spent aboard the liner Adriatic and his 27th anniversary aboard the liner Ryndam on the return trip to England from France.

His division was sent to the French Tenth Advanced Training area with division headquarters at Pravthoy. After six weeks of intensive trench warfare training the unit was sent to Alsace to the front line sector.

While there, Ewing requested assignment to the infantry company as captain and commander of Company H, 128th Infantry 64th Brigade. In June he moved with his group to the Chateau Thierry battle and subsequently to Juvigny, near Soissons, St. Mihiel and then the Argonne.

At Juvigny, he was promoted to operations and intelligence officer of his regiment. The 32nd with the first regular and second marine division, were the only three American divisions beyond the Rhine River in occupied Germany. These three units, with the 42nd Rainbow division in Coblenz proper, made up the famous third U. S. army "Shock Corps."

On several occasions, the regiment was cited by both French and American commanders.

He was with the regiment in Germany for two weeks and then sailed home on the last of January, 1919. He was honorably discharged at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va., on March 15, 1919.

Aboard the boat, Ewing was assistant adjutant to the then Major Frank Knox, later secretary of the navy and publisher of the Chicago Daily News.

The Ewing family's management of the Shreveport Times goes back to Aug. 15, 1908, when the late Col. Robert Ewing, father of John D. Ewing, purchased the paper. He was publisher of the New Orleans States at the time.

More than a year earlier, the paper had passed from its last individual management and editorship in the hands of a syndicate which had meantime been trying unsuccessfully to find a purchaser for it.

Col. Ewing was persuaded to inspect the property and finally to buy it. The paper had been established in 1870, at a time when Shreveport's population was less than 5,000. The newspaper's circulation at that time is not now known.

The First National Bank held notes for $35,000 against the Times property when Ewing agreed to buy it. The formalities of the sale consisted in the bank's taking possession of the property, with Col. Ewing paying the bank $35,000, receiving the newspaper property in return.

Settlement of other debts brought the purchase price up to $55,000, but virtually all mechanical equipment in the structure had to be replaced. The Times began almost immediately to take on new vigor. Its editorial page began to assert aggresive leadership in city, state and national issues.

Col. Ewing was one of seven men who managed the campaign of Woodrow Wilson in the Democratic presidential nomination race of 1912. He was offered a cabinet post under Wilson but declined to continue in the newspaper field.

Col. Ewing formed the Times Publishing Company when he purchased the property. He held the majority of the stock himself, but a minority block was split among W. C. Chevis, J. Walker Ross and A. W. Brown, all of The States.

In 1915, Ewing sent for his son, John, to come to Shreveport as associate publisher of The Times. John had already served as circulation manager of the New Orleans paper and also in its press and stereotype rooms in order to get a well - rounded newspaper foundation.

When John D. Ewing came to Shreveport, the city's population was approximately 35,000 and The Times had a daily circulation of 10,577 and a Sunday circulation of 17,019. When his father bought the paper, Shreveport's population was about 25,000, and The Times had a daily circulation of only 5,200 and a Sunday circulation of only 7,800.

Both Shreveport and The Times grew in parallel leaps and bounds, with diligent newspaper ever seeking a way to point the road to greater progress for a sympathetic public.

At the time of the younger Ewing's arrival here, The Times was just starting on one of its campaigns on behalf of Shreveport and its people. It was waging a fight for an adequate supply of pure water. The fight was won with the eventual voting of funds by the people for the acquisition and construction of Cross Lake as a reservoir, with additional expenditures approved at a later date when a public referendum was held to authorize other needed improvements.

Col. Ewing died in 1931, having meantime disposed of the New Orleans State. His estate was left equally to his six children with John D. as executor and trustee.

Since his father's death, John D. Ewing has served as editor and publisher of The Times. He not only followed, but expanded the traditions of his father.

Mr. Ewing was a pioneer figure in the radio industry in the south and southwest. In 1935 he purchased KWKH, The Early Day Shreveport station which had spread the city's name across the nation under the direction of W. K. Henderson.

A few months before this The Times had purchased Station KTBS. Studios of both stations were moved to the commercial building, giving Mr. Ewing ownership of both the Columbia and NBC outlets.

In 1943, when the Federal Communications Commission ruled against multiple ownership of stations, Mr. Ewing sold KTBS to a group of Shreveport men and acquired Station KTHS at Hot Springs, Ark., in the deal. Recently he had received permission from the FCC to move KTHS to Little Rock, Ark., and vastly increase its power.

At his death Mr. Ewing was directing plans of his organization to expand into television for Shreveport, for which his application is now pending.

KWKH has grown steadily under his direction. On Nov. 12, 1939, it began operating with 50,000 watts power, one of a few in the nation of this size, and as powerful as any commercial broadcasting station. In November, 1948, KWKH added frequency modulation (FM) broadcasting.

On Sept. 2, 1950, the Columbia Broadcasting System devoted a national program to a salute to Mr. Ewing and KWKH on the station's 25th anniversary. One of the stars of this program was Gene Autry, the singing cowboy who himself is the owner of several radio stations and a close friend of Mr. Ewing.

gress is considered. A Congressman's seniority depends on unbroken service in the Congress. I believe the people will consider the important work I have done in the field of flood control, having brought 54 million dollars into my district in six years which has increased the value of property in the district by 150 million dollars. The people will take into account that our flood control protection program in the Fifth District is only one-third complete. I am keenly desirous of carrying out the program which I got underway that has helped so many of our rural and urban people in the Fifth District.

"It is well known I have stubbornly opposed any increase in taxes and that I have practiced rigid economy. Furthermore, I have turned back to the United States Treasury, in the interest of economy, many thousands of dollars from my secretary hire account. I believe that my constituents will appreciate my stubborn resistance to all forms of socialistic legislation and corruption in government, and my opposition to the vicious foreign aid program that is wrecking the economy of our country.

Editorials and Comment

A Good Record

The mayor's race is coming to a close and Tuesday the voters of Monroe will select their choice for the next chief executive of our city.

Mayor John Coon is one of the candidates who has conducted his campaign on a level of dignity. His messages to the voters have been sane, sensible and factual, based on what has been accomplished during his tenure of office and without invectives against his opponents.

When reviewed impartially, Mayor Coon's record has been an excellent one. He has obtained more than a million dollars for street and road improvements, he led the fight for a four-year college here, he was chiefly responsible for property exemptions in the City of Monroe, he sponsored the program for the expansion and improvement of the fire department, he made improvements in the police department which prompted laudatory articles in publications of the Louisiana Peace Officers Association and the Louisiana Municipal Officers Association, and he has accomplished many other improvements during the short time that he has been mayor. One of his first acts was to appoint a citizens committee which includes representatives of business, labor and various other groups.

Mayor Coon has said that he will cooperate with any state administration as long as it will benefit the city. He was the choice of all factions when the unfortunate death of Mayor George Breece made it necessary to appoint a successor.

We think John Coon has made a good record as our Mayor and we believe he deserves a full elective term to complete the program which he has initiated.

The Difference!

Wilfred May, executive editor of the Commercial & Financial Chronicle of New York, recently went to Russia to report on the Moscow Economic Conference. He is one of the few Americans who have had the chance to see what life is now like in the Communist capital.

On his return, Mr. May was interviewed at length by the editors of U. S. News & World Report. One part of the interview dealt with the living standards of the masses of the Russian people—as distinct from the ruling class, which enjoys great luxury. A question was, "Is there much stuff on the shelves in the stores?" Mr. May answered, "There is nothing but queuing up at the stores all day long. They are all government stores and they cut off and on the tap of consumer goods. So people are queuing up for everything from theatre tickets to a bottle of milk. . . . There is queuing to the nth degree from 9 in the morning to 9 at night."

The kind of supplies and services a people can buy at the retail level provides a pretty accurate measure of a nation's life. In a free enterprise economy, such as ours, consumer demands and likes and dislikes determine what the factories make and the stores stock. Except in time of war or some other very grave emergency, everything is offered in abundance, and the most finicky shopper can find what he wants. The price is held by competition to the lowest figure consistent with the economic conditions of the day.

In a socialized or government-controlled economy, on the other hand, officials of the state decide what goods the people shall have, in what quantity they shall have them, and what price they shall pay. The inevitable result is poor goods, excessively-expensive goods—and standing for hours in queues in an effort to buy the necessities of life no less than a modest luxury or two.

Who Are Dragging Their Feet?

Shortly after the disastrous mid-west floods, the President flew across the stricken area. In the course of subsequent remarks, he charged that the governors of the region have been "dragging their feet" on the flood control problem.

This statement was immediately answered by Governor Kohler of Wisconsin. The fact is, the governor said, that the administration has been using the flood to gain political ends, and to urge "flood control programs which the Hoover Commission has branded as exceedingly wasteful." He added that the President should have studied conditions on the Wisconsin River, and continued: "Had Mr. Truman done so, he could have observed that there will be no flooding of cities on the Wisconsin River because of the dams and reservoirs constructed on the river with private capital.

"He could have observed that long before the Democrats seized on flood control as a political issue, and another means of forcing America into socialism, private enterprise in Wisconsin, with legislative authorization and encouragement harnessed the Wisconsin River, ended its floods, and put the river to work."

Twenty-one storage reservoirs have been built on the river—entirely without tax money! The water is stored during periods of flood danger, and subsequently used for hydroelectric power production. There are also 24 power dams on the stream, and the millponds behind them are raised or lowered as conditions dictate. The flood menace has been removed, even as the river's economic, scenic, and recreational values have been greatly increased.

Wisconsin has established a precedent that the whole nation could profitably follow.

Legion Night

Each year receipts of one baseball game are donated entirely to the American Legion Stadium fund to help retire the indebtedness on the fine stadium which the Legion built here. This year this game will be played on May 30, with the Monroe Sports playing the El Dorado Oilers.

Saul Adler, chairman of "Legion Night", who incidently has worked untiringly since the inception of the idea of a Legion stadium, has announced that if the attendance is as expected, the Post will have a good opportunity of paying off all the indebtedness against the stadium. He has mailed tickets to all Legionnaires in Monroe and they are asked to remit for them whether they attend the game or not.

Mr. Adler and his associates on the stadium committee are to be commended for building a splendid addition to the recreational facilities of this city. It resulted in bringing professional baseball back to Monroe, which has provided entertainment for thousands of persons here as well as from surrounding towns.

Legion Night deserves the support not only of Legionnaires but of others who appreciate the efforts of the local post.

Among its many troubles the administration has a new one of major proportions. The labor turnover is becoming terrific.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

GASTRONOMIC INTERLUDE

It will indeed be pleasant when the primaries, conventions and personal quarrels are over and we know who are the Presidential candidates. In the campaign for the general election, there is little hate or vindictiveness. A Republican is expected to be a Republican and a Democrat is expected to be a Democrat and life wends its vituperative way.

In the primaries it is different. In the first place, the candidates are friends, often of long standing. All the active workers have had personal associations and have often worked together in other years. And the fact is that they will join forces in the general campaign, advocating the candidate they now oppose with even greater vehemence.

The current bitterness will melt on the final day of the convention and those who swore on a thousand Bibles, as the saying goes, that they would never, under any circumstances vote for one or the other aspirants in their own party, will be loudest in their cheers when the nomination is made unanimous.

There will always be a few diehards, but on the whole the preliminaries seldom leave unforgetable hatreds.

For editors and columnists and such, this is a tough period, as what they put on paper will be held against them. As regards the Republican Party, this is particularly true, for many who are not professional politicians but only commentators on the affairs of the day, often do not care which Republican is nominated, if only someone drives the Truman gang out of the government. They do not wish to engage in vitriolic, vituperative personal partisanship from which they will have to retreat once the nomination is made. Furthermore, none of them hates Bob Taft or Ike Eisenhower, although they may favor one as against the other. They recognize that after July 12, they will support the will of the people in convention assembled.

On Mother's Day, I decided that I would drown my partisan sorrows in food. For the evening, I would forget primaries, statistics, Communists, supreme courts, Taft, Eisenhower and Kefauver and devote myself to old-fashioned German cooking. The family settled down in Luchow's to toast Mother who, Anglo-Saxon in her taste, orders incorrectly.

It turned out that Luchow's was celebrating its seventieth birthday and the place was more crowded than usual, but we got a table next to Milton Berle who was celebrating his mother's seventy-fifth Mother's Day or maybe it was a gag.

If there is anybody I would like to see defeated when he runs for President, it is this Uncle Miltie. I don't need any more uncles, but apparently my little daughter does. She adopted him, dated him, made him sign up, and when the clown kissed her on the forehead, she vowed she would not wash her face for a month. Imagine anyone falling for a guy like that when she has her handsome father to look at!

They had, on hand, their first menu, served on opening day in 1882. On that occasion they charged 75 cents for the whole meal; in 1952 they were charging $5.00 for the same dinner!

As nobody could rise, to say nothing about walk, after devoting ourselves to German cuisine, we sat and talked about those things that one talks about when the children are around, and an old-fashioned string orchestra played old-fashioned music which somehow we heard and enjoyed. A very good time was had by all and there were no arguments.

It was raining when we left and no taxis were on hand. So I swiped John Ringling North's car and I hope he got it back in due course. A circus man ought to be able to handle such emergencies without making a federal case out of it.

It was all very refreshing and nostalgic and nobody worried about who would be the next President as long as it would not be a piano player. A violinist we could take, but not a pianist.

Maybe, if Mother's Day came everyday, we could solve all our great problems by drenching them in good food and drink and the sheer joy of living. I wondered, when my mind slipped for a moment, what would happen if all the candidates sat down to Sauerbraten mit Kartoffel Kloesse and perhaps with a stein of Pilsen, if the prohibitionists will forgive me. Maybe the candidates would not want to be candidates anymore.

THE PROBLEM AHEAD

All sound thinking people in this country are of one mind in that there must be a complete reversal of the financial policies under which our government has been operating during recent years. They know that a continuation of these policies will lead to inevitable collapse of our free economy and a consequent collapse of our traditional form of government.

The fact that even many of these people do not realize, however, is the vital need that this reversal must be made soon. In actuality, we have been operating under a socialist form of economy—and one of the facts outstandingly demonstrated by history is that socialism continued in power for a sufficient length of time so weakens a nation that there is no chance for its recovery as a free nation; it must run its full dissolute course and wind up as a weak and impotent nation or start all over again under the iron hand of a dictator.

Another fact that many do not realize is what a return to a sound economy involves. A return to a balanced budget, a return to sound currency, based on tangible values, a return to a systematic plan of payment of the national debt are all basic factors in a return to a sound economy—but they all involve certain measures that will not be popular to many people. The "easy money" produced by the practices of recent years is like the dope habit; it is stimulating and exhilarating and the cure is not pleasant—but we all know that if it is indulged in long enough, there is then no hope of cure.

The question with us even now, then, is whether we still have a chance to cure ourselves of the "habit" in this country, regardless of what change may take place in the elections this fall.

That was the same question that faced the British in their last general election. It was even facing them in the elections of 1950; in fact, I had sound-thinking Conservatives tell me when I was there in 1949 that they preferred not to win the next election, that they had gone along under unwise financial policies for so long that they had ruined the economic and moral values of the people, that the "roof" was inevitably going to fall in on them some day and they preferred it fall while the Socialists were in office. Of course, I thought then, and I still think, that that is almost a cowardly attitude, but we must admit there is some reasonableness to it — and whatever administration comes into office next fall might well take heed of the implications involved.

As we all know, the Conservatives did finally regain control of the British Government in the fall of 1951, and while they have made heroic efforts to regain a sound economy for Britain, the situation right now looks desperate. It is a very serious question with them, even more so than it would be with us, as to whether they can recover their free economy. It was part of the Conservative platform that they would immediately denationalize the steel industry in Britain, but now, months later, they have not done so and it is a question whether they can do so. They have been forced to increase the austerity of British life rather than otherwise, and even though it has been done for a different purpose, the effects on the people have been just the same. Three different times during these months, the government has reduced the amount of British imports; at the same time it has diverted to the export market materials that were needed at home. It has reduced food and medical subsidies, which of course raised the cost of the living to the consumer. It has placed a new excess profits tax on British industry and is depriving private enterprise of the possibility of vitally needed construction and re-equipment.

All of these things had to be done in Britain but—have they been done in time?—their trade balance is still declining. The lesson is certainly now clear to them, and it will become increasingly clear to us—the cure for the socialistic dope habit is not easy and it is not pleasant.

Our Children

OTHER FACTORS

Many times I read the letter that says, "I know I must be to blame somewhere for this behavior. I've done the best I knew how. Where have I failed?" This because a child dawdles to an extent that handicaps him in school and everywhere, or because a child won't cheerfully do his plain duty, or is disobedient to the extent that he makes life miserable for his mother and father.

Let us use our common sense. Children come into the world "not in entire forgetfulness, not in utter nakedness," but endowed with traits and tendencies by a long line of ancestry. Often a grandfather or grandmother speaks in the child, and speaks loudly, strongly in his thoughts and deeds. Often a trait of his father, or his mother, somes through in greater force than they ever felt it in themsleves.

Some of these inheritances are expressed in graciousness, in terms of strength and beauty — the clouds of glory. Wordsworth speaks of in his beautiful Intimatimes, sadly enough, these traces of former lives are not acceptable to this generation. It is these that parents find so difficult to combat, these they blame themselves for, uselesely.

Society has set a standard of behavior that demands perfection and there is no perfection in anything on this earth. If there were, there would be no aspiration of the spirit, nothing to reach for, nothing to justify this life of toil and sorrow. It is reaching toward the heights that gives us a glimpse of glory, the struggle for the goal that gives us the will to live and the joy of achievement.

When a father and mother see that one of their children has a fault that is likely to hinder his joy in life the best thing to do, the only thing to do, is to study the condition search for the cause, get what help they can from the specialists, put forth their own strong characters to combat the weakness in the child, pray, work and hope. But shun the notion of personal blame for exhibition of traits foreign to family character and example.

Me must accept the child we have and make the best of the strengths he has and not blame ourselves when the child we dreamed of, hoped for, wanted so much, does not appear in the child we got. Nature does not consult fathers and mothers but goes her way according to her laws, laws we all must accept with what courage we can muster, with what faith we can sustain, with what hope we can keep alive. Teaching, example, based on love, works miracles. Blaming oneself lessens one's power just when it is needed most. Parents need "be strong and of good courage."

A bad habit in a child should be broken and replaced with a good one. Dr. Patri tells how to change habits in his leaflet P-10, "Changing Habits." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, care of this paper, P. O. Box 69, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

By Ethel McIntyre

For Women Only

"There is a time and place for every thing" however, there are times when circumstances, beyond our control, force us to participate in an incident when common sense warns "be somewhere else."

When the following tragedies occur in the life of some man, the first and safest rule, for every woman to abide by, guaranteed to keep peace in the family circle, is not to be there when it takes place. But if Lady Luck deserts you, leaving you stranded on the exact spot where the family car is hopelessly stuck in a mud hole, else developes a sulky mood eighteen miles from a service garage, refusing to turn one wheel without a tow-line with some other unit of power attached to it, or a balky mule has to be taught that stubbornness "doesn't pay," here are a few simple rules to remember.

First if you are lucky enough to have another male driver in the park, before the favorite team for the "man of the house" goes into action, and the motor in the car emits no sound when the starter turns it over, even though it has a new battery, the spark plugs hitting, and plenty of gas, you just pick each foot up in turn, place it down in front of the other, facing up the road you have planned to travel until distance transforms the car into an undistinguishable blur in the vision of the eye. When that far away and not before, stop dead still, catch your breath a moment and listen. If there is no static drumming through the air to mar the song of the birds and the bees, you may then sink to the ground, relax the muscles and think of-far-away-places.

Never desert another woman, left with the task of manipulating the steering gear, while the car is towed unless she resembles "The Goddess of Beauty" with the virtues of a saint; is neither mother, wife, daughter or sister, blessed with sufficient sense to play dumb, while trying to execute contradictory orders, such as, "don't use the breaks when you slow down, just push in on the clutch, followed by, watch out there, don't run over me. What the heck 'you think the breaks are for, and anyway if you don't know when to do what about a car, for gosh sakes get out of it and go turn your drivers license in."

When trying to abandon a mud hole, your latest model of power and beauty is resting in, just pray the starter won't work when the order comes to "get it going and pour the gas to her" while Hubby stands near the rear wheel. He will never be able to understand how you expect him to push with both eyes sealed with gumbo mud or wear a varigated suit to wherever he is going.

In the event that "Tobe the mule" has decided it is "Sat'day" anyway, and stubbornly refuses to budge another inch until the week end has past and tomorrow's Sabbath has become history, hope he has the instinct to fall down and play dead, while you entice Friend Husband into some fresh clothes and whisk him away to the environment enclosed within the walls of an air-conditioned theater. While on the way cross your fingers and hope the picture won't show a beautifully landscaped farm, with all the attractions of the country-side, fenced within the boundary line of it's rich and fertile acres.

One last bit of counsel for the woman fate places in the above mentioned situation. Remain outwardly calm, cool and collected. Try coughing if the pressure within the limited space concealed between the ribs threatens to explode with spasmodic combustion, caused from, "too much pumping in a too small area."

As I sum up the do's and don't's of the above statements, I find that there are really only two things to remember, first, never attempt to think, and second, do as you are told, it's not difficult — to remember at all.

What Others Say:

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

CREDIT CONTROLS

To a large majority of editors the economic situation warrants the suspension of installment buying controls and the ending of the Federal Reserve Board's voluntary credit restraint program for banks. But a rather large minority sees such moves as resulting from administration reluctance, more political than economic, to let prices seek lower levels. The majority view is that the FRB actions will aid in maintaining the level of economic activity required to support the national budget. Most editors favor continuance of FRB power to reimpose Regulation W on installment buying, if and when necessary.

Christian Science Monitor (Ind.): "The Federal Reserve Board's suspension of controls on installment buying looks like risky business to us. . . . Already the signs of a buying surge have appeared. . . True, the board faces a situation where parts of the national economy seem to be headed for deflation. Warehouses are brimming with certain types of civilian goods. Unemployment in some spots has caused economic and political pressures. Nearly everybody inveighs against inflation but promotes it when it suits his own interest."

Texarkana (Ark.-Tex.) Gazette (Ind.): "The Reserve Board's order, coming on the heels of previous action removing restrictions on non-defense loans by banks, reflects a general lessening of economic tension . . . The minor upsurge in sales that has occurred since restrictions on time payments were removed is about what was expected to happen, but the fact remains that not many dealers will sell automobiles or other consumer items that generally sell for sizable amounts on terms much more lenient than those that had been imposed by the government."

New York Herald Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "Mr. Truman undermined the total credit restraint program a month ago when he exempted inflationary state and municipal borrowing from the . . . program. . . . Many Congressmen have opposed the board's exercise of any re-straint at all on installment buying. . . . Business firms . . . in certain parts of the country have exerted unceasing pressure for suspension, on the theory that it is not high prices but strict credit terms that have dampened sales of some durable items. . . . What is involved is an attack on the impartial, flexible, discretionary powers of the principal monetary authority."

Norfolk (Va.) Virginian-Pilot (Ind.-Dem.): "From the beginning of the Korean War in June 1950 to the Spring of 1951, bank loans increased by more than $5 billion. The Federal Reserve Board reveals that business loans have increased only $1.5 billion since the initiation of the credit-control program. . . . Suspension of controls over installment buying has followed abolition of the banking controls in logical sequence. . . Goods affected by Regulation W are plentiful. . . . There may even have been some threat of a contraction in the economy, perhaps a greater threat at the moment than the threat of inflation.

St. Paul (Minn.) Pioneer Press (Ind.): "Mr. Truman has been shouting about the dangers of inflation for two years, and the first time there is a levelling off, and he begins to get some complaints, there is a rush to inject a quick shot in the arm. If prices must always go up or stay high, they obviously can never come down at least for long. That may make a lot of people happy but how about those who buy the bonds the government is selling . . . the prudent people who put money into insurance policies and all the others who live on more or less fixed incomes? They just get sold down the river."

Hartford (Conn.) Courant (Rep.): "There is no reason to disagree with the FRB. . . . It is not only true that the inflation threat, in so far as credit can control it, may be a thing of the past. But it is certain that many soft spots had begun to show in the national economy. Business, aside from the defense effort, has been slowing down. It is also true that we must keep business at a high level to carry the national budget without increasing the heavy tax burden on certain taxpayers. The broad view of the situation demands a spur at this time to purchasing. An inflated economy is necessary to an inflated budget."

Tampa (Fla.) Tribune (Ind.-Dem.): "In the absence of government regulations, dealers and finance companies may impose their own terms. If these terms are too easy, the volume of consumer credit may get out of hand and contribute to a new inflationary upsurge. . . . With expenditures for armaments scheduled to increase every month for the rest of the year, the danger of inflation remains. It is for this reason that the Federal Reserve Board requests Congress to extend its installment credit control powers, now due to expire June 30. It is a request which deserves the most careful consideration."

BASCOM TIMMONS In Washington

The National Press Club in Washington, with its auditorium seating upwards of 400 luncheon guests has long been a testing ground for political aspirants, where failure has exceeded success.

Wendell Willkie rolled down the oratorical runway there in April, 1940 to soar into the political stratosphere. His close friendship with many capitol newsmen was due in part to his feeling that the warm reception given him at the club on his first major speech gave his primary campaign its first real impetus.

Another political jet took the air there this week, to try his wings in an already crowded presidential flight—W. Averell Harriman, for 20 years the White House handyman, to such an extent that, as he himself said, scarcely anything has gone on thereabouts in which he has not had a hand during both the Roosevelt and Truman administrations.

The plain truth is that Harriman, as a speechmaker was the surprise of the campaign so far. Rated as shy and stuttering gentleman of 60, though he looks at least 12 years younger, the son of the late rail magnate was forthright and vigorous, pulled no punches and gave many of his auditors the impression that, if Senator Estes Kefauver should be stopped early in the Democratic convention, Harriman might turn out to be a contender.

That would be amazing, for not until President Truman announced his withdrawal was Harriman so much as mentioned, and he was then backed by the New York delegation, with a sigh of relief, because its leaders could find no other suitable candidate. Harriman is the political leaders' dream—worth an estimated $40,000,000, inexperienced in politics and willing to accept advice from experienced politicians.

Regardless of that, the only thing that could have pleased the Democratic national committee more than having one multimillionaire in the contest for the nomination is to have two.

It is extremely hard to envision "Ave" Harriman—some have dubbed him "Honest Ave, the White House hairsplitter"—as president of the United States. He somehow goes against the entire presidential tradition, and at this time he does not typify exactly what the voters seem to want. Besides the emphasis he places on aid to Europe as director of Mutual Security Administration probably wouldn't help him in a general election. But he broke out his lance and charged straight down the field in his first speech here.

He nominated himself as heir to all New Deal and Fair Deal policies from Lend-Lease on along the line, which no other Democrat has done with the possible exception of the aforesaid Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma. That was at least forthright though not calculated to get him the essential support of the south. On the civil rights question he said: "I will be for moving forward in the Civil Rights field; it is quite clear to me that it is a responsibility of the federal government; the executive branch can do more and congress must also take responsibility."

General Eisenhower, he said would be a prisoner of the Republican "old guard," who would be all around him. Asked whether he would have fired General MacArthur he replied in the affirmative, repeating the old administration charge that the general wanted to spread the war and thought we could end hostilities in the Far East by spreading the war. It was not substantiated by the MacArthur congressional investigation that General MacArthur wanted to do any such thing.

It has been pointed out that Harriman is not a handyman in the usual sense of the term, because he has held down successively eight important government jobs in eleven years, evidently some kind of a record. The main reason for this is that he drives himself unmercifully—a quality undoubtedly inherited from his railroad building father, who was said to have literally worked himself to death. All of his present and former associates testify to this. What is more, he gets things done and makes decisions promptly, after consulting everybody concerned.

If the big city Democrats from the north can't persuade Gov. Adlai Stevenson to take the burden of trying to block Senator Kefauver, nobody would be surprised if they turned to Harriman, at least for a couple of trial heats.

Editorials and Comment

A Good Record

The mayor's race is coming to a close and Tuesday the voters of Monroe will select their choice for the next chief executive of our city.

Mayor John Coon is one of the candidates who has conducted his campaign on a level of dignity. His messages to the voters have been sane, sensible and factual, based on what has been accomplished during his tenure of office and without invectives against his opponents.

When reviewed impartially, Mayor Coon's record has been an excellent one. He has obtained more than a million dollars for street and road improvements, he led the fight for a four-year college here, he was chiefly responsible for property exemptions in the City of Monroe, he sponsored the program for the expansion and improvement of the fire department, he made improvements in the police department which prompted laudatory articles in publications of the Louisiana Peace Officers Association and the Louisiana Municipal Officers Association, and he has accomplished many other improvements during the short time that he has been mayor. One of his first acts was to appoint a citizens committee which includes representatives of business, labor and various other groups.

Mayor Coon has said that he will cooperate with any state administration as long as it will benefit the city. He was the choice of all factions when the unfortunate death of Mayor George Breece made it necessary to appoint a successor.

We think John Coon has made a good record as our Mayor and we believe he deserves a full elective term to complete the program which he has initiated.

The Difference!

Wilfred May, executive editor of the Commercial & Financial Chronicle of New York, recently went to Russia to report on the Moscow Economic Conference. He is one of the few Americans who have had the chance to see what life is now like in the Communist capital.

On his return, Mr. May was interviewed at length by the editors of U. S. News & World Report. One part of the interview dealt with the living standards of the masses of the Russian people—as distinct from the ruling class, which enjoys great luxury. A question was, "Is there much stuff on the shelves in the stores?" Mr. May answered, "There is nothing but queuing up at the stores all day long. They are all government stores and they cut off and on the tap of consumer goods. So people are queuing up for everything from theatre tickets to a bottle of milk. . . . There is queuing to the nth degree from 9 in the morning to 9 at night."

The kind of supplies and services a people can buy at the retail level provides a pretty accurate measure of a nation's life. In a free enterprise economy, such as ours, consumer demands and likes and dislikes determine what the factories make and the stores stock. Except in time of war or some other very grave emergency, everything is offered in abundance, and the most finicky shopper can find what he wants. The price is held by competition to the lowest figure consistent with the economic conditions of the day.

In a socialized or government-controlled economy, on the other hand, officials of the state decide what goods the people shall have, in what quantity they shall have them, and what price they shall pay. The inevitable result is poor goods, excessively-expensive goods—and standing for hours in queues in an effort to buy the necessities of life no less than a modest luxury or two.

Who Are Dragging Their Feet?

Shortly after the disastrous mid-west floods, the President flew across the stricken area. In the course of subsequent remarks, he charged that the governors of the region have been "dragging their feet" on the flood control problem.

This statement was immediately answered by Governor Kohler of Wisconsin. The fact is, the governor said, that the administration has been using the flood to gain political ends, and to urge "flood control programs which the Hoover Commission has branded as exceedingly wasteful." He added that the President should have studied conditions on the Wisconsin River, and continued: "Had Mr. Truman done so, he could have observed that there will be no flooding of cities on the Wisconsin River because of the dams and reservoirs constructed on the river with private capital.

"He could have observed that long before the Democrats seized on flood control as a political issue, and another means of forcing America into socialism, private enterprise in Wisconsin, with legislative authorization and encouragement harnessed the Wisconsin River, ended its floods, and put the river to work."

Twenty-one storage reservoirs have been built on the river—entirely without tax money! The water is stored during periods of flood danger, and subsequently used for hydroelectric power production. There are also 24 power dams on the stream, and the millponds behind them are raised or lowered as conditions dictate. The flood menace has been removed, even as the river's economic, scenic, and recreational values have been greatly increased.

Wisconsin has established a precedent that the whole nation could profitably follow.

Legion Night

Each year receipts of one baseball game are donated entirely to the American Legion Stadium fund to help retire the indebtedness on the fine stadium which the Legion built here. This year this game will be played on May 30, with the Monroe Sports playing the El Dorado Oilers.

Saul Adler, chairman of "Legion Night", who incidently has worked untiringly since the inception of the idea of a Legion stadium, has announced that if the attendance is as expected, the Post will have a good opportunity of paying off all the indebtedness against the stadium. He has mailed tickets to all Legionnaires in Monroe and they are asked to remit for them whether they attend the game or not.

Mr. Adler and his associates on the stadium committee are to be commended for building a splendid addition to the recreational facilities of this city. It resulted in bringing professional baseball back to Monroe, which has provided entertainment for thousands of persons here as well as from surrounding towns.

Legion Night deserves the support not only of Legionnaires but of others who appreciate the efforts of the local post.

Among its many troubles the administration has a new one of major proportions. The labor turnover is becoming terrific.

While medical science is prolonging life, few persons want to live long enough for the national debt to catch up to them.

Ohio officials seized a case of limburger cheese which they claimed was spoiled. How'd you like to have a nose like that?

A scientist says there is a fly in South America that travels 800 miles an hour. Oh, sure, it'll be here when swatting season starts.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

GASTRONOMIC INTERLUDE

It will indeed be pleasant when the primaries, conventions and personal quarrels are over and we know who are the Presidential candidates. In the campaign for the general election, there is little hate or vindictiveness. A Republican is expected to be a Republican and a Democrat is expected to be a Democrat and life wends its vituperative way.

In the primaries it is different. In the first place, the candidates are friends, often of long standing. All the active workers have had personal associations and have often worked together in other years. And the fact is that they will join forces in the general campaign, advocating the candidate they now oppose with even greater vehemence.

The current bitterness will melt on the final day of the convention and those who swore on a thousand Bibles, as the saying goes, that they would never, under any circumstances vote for one or the other aspirants in their own party, will be loudest in their cheers when the nomination is made unanimous.

There will always be a few diehards, but on the whole the preliminaries seldom leave unforgetable hatreds.

For editors and columnists and such, this is a tough period, as what they put on paper will be held against them. As regards the Republican Party, this is particularly true, for many who are not professional politicians but only commentators on the affairs of the day, often do not care which Republican is nominated, if only someone drives the Truman gang out of the government. They do not wish to engage in vitriolic, vituperative personal partisanship from which they will have to retreat once the nomination is made. Furthermore, none of them hates Bob Taft or Ike Eisenhower, although they may favor one as against the other. They recognize that after July 12, they will support the will of the people in convention assembled.

On Mother's Day, I decided that I would drown my partisan sorrows in food. For the evening, I would forget primaries, statistics, Communists, supreme courts, Taft, Eisenhower and Kefauver and devote myself to old-fashioned German cooking. The family settled down in Luchow's to toast Mother who, Anglo-Saxon in her taste, orders incorrectly.

It turned out that Luchow's was celebrating its seventieth birthday and the place was more crowded than usual, but we got a table next to Milton Berle who was celebrating his mother's seventy-fifth Mother's Day or maybe it was a gag.

If there is anybody I would like to see defeated when he runs for President, it is this Uncle Miltie. I don't need any more uncles, but apparently my little daughter does. She adopted him, dated him, made him sign up, and when the clown kissed her on the forehead, she vowed she would not wash her face for a month. Imagine anyone falling for a guy like that when she has her handsome father to look at!

They had, on hand, their first menu, served on opening day in 1882. On that occasion they charged 75 cents for the whole meal; in 1952 they were charging $5.00 for the same dinner!

As nobody could rise, to say nothing about walk, after devoting ourselves to German cuisine, we sat and talked about those things that one talks about when the children are around, and an old-fashioned string orchestra played old-fashioned music which somehow we heard and enjoyed. A very good time was had by all and there were no arguments.

It was raining when we left and no taxis were on hand. So I swiped John Ringling North's car and I hope he got it back in due course. A circus man ought to be able to handle such emergencies without making a federal case out of it.

It was all very refreshing and nostalgic and nobody worried about who would be the next President as long as it would not be a piano player. A violinist we could take, but not a pianist.

Maybe, if Mother's Day came everyday, we could solve all our great problems by drenching them in good food and drink and the sheer joy of living. I wondered, when my mind slipped for a moment, what would happen if all the candidates sat down to Sauerbraten mit Kartoffel Kloesse and perhaps with a stein of Pilsen, if the prohibitionists will forgive me. Maybe the candidates would not want to be candidates anymore.

THE PROBLEM AHEAD

All sound thinking people in this country are of one mind in that there must be a complete reversal of the financial policies under which our government has been operating during recent years. They know that a continuation of these policies will lead to inevitable collapse of our free economy and a consequent collapse of our traditional form of government.

The fact that even many of these people do not realize, however, is the vital need that this reversal must be made soon. In actuality, we have been operating under a socialist form of economy—and one of the facts outstandingly demonstrated by history is that socialism continued in power for a sufficient length of time so weakens a nation that there is no chance for its recovery as a free nation; it must run its full dissolute course and wind up as a weak and impotent nation or start all over again under the iron hand of a dictator.

Another fact that many do not realize is what a return to a sound economy involves. A return to a balanced budget, a return to sound currency, based on tangible values, a return to a systematic plan of payment of the national debt are all basic factors in a return to a sound economy—but they all involve certain measures that will not be popular to many people. The "easy money" produced by the practices of recent years is like the dope habit; it is stimulating and exhilarating and the cure is not pleasant—but we all know that if it is indulged in long enough, there is then no hope of cure.

The question with us even now, then, is whether we still have a chance to cure ourselves of the "habit" in this country, regardless of what change may take place in the elections this fall.

That was the same question that faced the British in their last general election. It was even facing them in the elections of 1950; in fact, I had sound-thinking Conservatives tell me when I was there in 1949 that they preferred not to win the next election, that they had gone along under unwise financial policies for so long that they had ruined the economic and moral values of the people, that the "roof" was inevitably going to fall in on them some day and they preferred it fall while the Socialists were in office. Of course, I thought then, and I still think, that that is almost a cowardly attitude, but we must admit there is some reasonableness to it — and whatever administration comes into office next fall might well take heed of the implications involved.

As we all know, the Conservatives did finally regain control of the British Government in the fall of 1951, and while they have made heroic efforts to regain a sound economy for Britain, the situation right now looks desperate. It is a very serious question with them, even more so than it would be with us, as to whether they can recover their free economy. It was part of the Conservative platform that they would immediately denationalize the steel industry in Britain, but now, months later, they have not done so and it is a question whether they can do so. They have been forced to increase the austerity of British life rather than otherwise, and even though it has been done for a different purpose, the effects on the people have been just the same. Three different times during these months, the government has reduced the amount of British imports; at the same time it has diverted to the export market materials that were needed at home. It has reduced food and medical subsidies, which of course raised the cost of the living to the consumer. It has placed a new excess profits tax on British industry and is depriving private enterprise of the possibility of vitally needed construction and re-equipment.

All of these things had to be done in Britain but—have they been done in time?—their trade balance is still declining. The lesson is certainly now clear to them, and it will become increasingly clear to us—the cure for the socialistic dope habit is not easy and it is not pleasant.

OTHER FACTORS

Many times I read the letter that says, "I know I must be to blame somewhere for this behavior. I've done the best I knew how. Where have I failed?" This because a child dawdles to an extent that handicaps him in school and everywhere, or because a child won't cheerfully do his plain duty, or is disobedient to the extent that he makes life miserable for his mother and father.

Let us use our common sense. Children come into the world "not in entire forgetfulness, not in utter nakedness," but endowed with traits and tendencies by a long line of ancestry. Often a grandfather or grandmother speaks in the child, and speaks loudly, strongly in his thoughts and deeds. Often a trait of his father, or his mother, somes through in greater force than they ever felt it in themsleves.

Some of these inheritances are expressed in graciousness, in terms of strength and beauty — the clouds of glory. Wordsworth speaks of in his beautiful Intimatimes, sadly enough, these traces of former lives are not acceptable to this generation. It is these that parents find so difficult to combat, these they blame themselves for, uselsesly.

Society has set a standard of behavior that demands perfection and there is no perfection in anything on this earth. If there were, there would be no aspiration of the spirit, nothing to reach for, nothing to justify this life of toil and sorrow. It is reaching toward the heights that gives us a glimpse of glory, the struggle for the goal that gives us the will to live and the joy of achievement.

When a father and mother see that one of their children has a fault that is likely to hinder his joy in life the best thing to do, the only thing to do, is to study the condition search for the cause, get what help they can from the specialists, put forth their own strong characters to combat the weakness in the child, pray, work and hope. But shun the notion of personal blame for exhibition of traits foreign to family character and example.

Me must accept the child we have and make the best of the strengths he has and not blame ourselves when the child we dreamed of, hoped for, wanted so much, does not appear in the child we got. Nature does not consult fathers and mothers but goes her way according to her laws, laws we all must accept with what courage we can muster, with what faith we can sustain, with what hope we can keep alive. Teaching, example, based on love, works miracles. Blaming oneself lessens one's power just when it is needed most. Parents need "be strong and of good courage."

A bad habit in a child should be broken and replaced with a good one. Dr. Patri tells how to change habits in his leaflet P-10, "Changing Habits." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, care of this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

For Women Only

When the following tragedies occur in the life of some man, the first and safest rule, for every woman to abide by, guaranteed to keep peace in the family circle, is not to be there when it takes place. But if Lady Luck deserts you, leaving you stranded on the exact spot where the family car is hopelessly stuck in a mud hole, else developes a sulky mood eighteen miles from a service garage, refusing to turn one wheel without a tow-line with some other unit of power attached to it, or a balky mule has to be taught that stubbornness "doesn't pay," here are a few simple rules to remember.

First if you are lucky enough to have another male driver in the park, before the favorite team for the "man of the house" goes into action, and the motor in the car emits no sound when the starter turns it over, even though it has a new battery, the spark plugs hitting, and plenty of gas, you just pick each foot up in turn, place it down in front of the other, facing up the road you have planned to travel until distance transforms the car into an undistinguishable blur in the vision of the eye. When that far away and not before, stop dead still, catch your breath a moment and listen. If there is no static drumming through the air to mar the song of the birds and the bees, you may then sink to the ground, relax the muscles and think of-far-away-places.

Never desert another woman, left with the task of manipulating the steering gear, while the car is towed unless she resembles "The Goddess of Beauty" with the virtues of a saint; is neither mother, wife, daughter or sister, blessed with sufficient sense to play dumb, while trying to execute contradictory orders, such as, "don't use the breaks when you slow down, just push in on the clutch, followed by, watch out there, don't run over me. What the heck 'you think the breaks are for, and anyway if you don't know when to do what about a car, for gosh sakes get out of it and go turn your drivers license in."

When trying to abandon a mud hole, your latest model of power and beauty is resting in, just pray the starter won't work when the order comes to "get it going and pour the gas to her" while Hubby stands near the rear wheel. He will never be able to understand how you expect him to push with both eyes sealed with gumbo mud or wear a varigated suit to wherever he is going.

In the event that "Tobe the mule" has decided it is "Sat'day" anyway, and stubbornly refuses to budge another inch until the week end has past and tomorrow's Sabbath has become history, hope he has the instinct to fall down and play dead, while you entice Friend Husband into some fresh clothes and whisk him away to the environment enclosed within the walls of an air - conditioned theater. While on the way cross your fingers and hope the picture won't show a beautifully landscaped farm, with all the attractions of the country - side, fenced within the boundary line of it's rich and fertile acres.

One last bit of counsel for the woman fate places in the above mentioned situation. Remain outwardly calm, cool and collected. Try coughing if the pressure within the limited space concealed between the ribs threatens to explode with spasmodic combustion, caused from, "too much pumping in a too small area."

As I sum up the do's and don't's of the above statements, I find that there are really only two things to remember, first, never attempt to think, and second, do as you are told, it's not difficult — to remember at all.

What Others Say:

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

CREDIT CONTROLS

To a large majority of editors the economic situation warrants the suspension of installment buying controls and the ending of the Federal Reserve Board's voluntary credit restraint program for banks. But a rather large minority sees such moves as resulting from administration reluctance, more political than economic, to let prices seek lower levels. The majority view is that the FRB actions will aid in maintaining the level of economic activity required to support the national budget. Most editors favor continuance of FRB power to reimpose Regulation W on installment buying, if and when necessary.

Christian Science Monitor (Ind.): "The Federal Reserve Board's suspension of controls on installment buying looks like risky business to us. . . . Already the signs of a buying surge have appeared. . . True, the board faces a situation where parts of the national economy seem to be headed for deflation. Warehouses are brimming with certain types of civilian goods. Unemployment in some spots has caused economic and political pressures. Nearly everybody inveighs against inflation but promotes it when it suits his own interest."

Texarkana (Ark. -Tex.) Gazette (Ind.): "The Reserve Board's order, coming on the heels of previous action removing restrictions on non-defense loans by banks, reflects a general lessening of economic tension . . . The minor upsurge in sales that has occurred since restrictions on time payments were removed is about what was expected to happen, but the fact remains that not many dealers will sell automobiles or other consumer items that generally sell for sizable amounts on terms much more lenient than those that had been imposed by the government."

New York Herald Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "Mr. Truman undermined the total credit restraint program a month ago when he exempted inflationary state and municipal borrowing from the . . . program. . . . Many Congressmen have opposed the board's exercise of any re - straint at all on installment buying. . . . Business firms . . . in certain parts of the country have exerted unceasing pressure for suspension, on the theory that it is not high prices but strict credit terms that have dampened sales of some durable items. . . . What is involved is an attack on the impartial, flexible, discretionary powers of the principal monetary authority."

Norfolk (Va.) Virginian - Pilot (Ind.- Dem.): "From the beginning of the Korean War in June 1950 to the Spring of 1951, bank loans increased by more than $5 billion. The Federal Reserve Board reveals that business loans have increased only $1.5 billion since the initiation of the credit - control program. . . . Suspension of controls over installment buying has fol - lowed abolition of the banking controls in logical sequence. . . Goods affected by Regulation W are plentiful. . . . There may even have been some threat of a contraction in the economy, perhaps a greater threat at the moment than the threat of inflation.

St. Paul (Minn.) Pioneer Press (Ind.): "Mr. Truman has been shouting about the dangers of inflation for two years, and the first time there is a levelling off, and he begins to get some complaints, there is a rush to inject a quick shot in the arm. If prices must always go up or stay high, they obviously can never come down at least for long. That may make a lot of people happy but how about those who buy the bonds the government is selling . . . the prudent people who put money into in - surance policies and all the others who live on more or less fixed incomes? They just get sold down the river."

Hartford (Conn.) Courant (Rep.): "There is no reason to disagree with the FRB. . . . It is not only true that the inflation threat, in so far as credit can control it, may be a thing of the past. But it is certain that many soft spots had begun to show in the national economy. Business, aside from the defense effort, has been slowing down. It is also true that we must keep business at a high level to carry the national budget without increasing the heavy tax burden on certain taxpayers. The broad view of the situation de - mands a spur at this time to purchasing. An inflated economy is necessary to an inflated budget."

Tampa (Fla.) Tribune (Ind. - Dem.): "In the absence of government regulations, dealers and fi - nance companies may impose their own terms. If these terms are too easy, the volume of consumer credit may get out of hand and contribute to a new inflationary upsurge. . . . With expenditures for armaments scheduled to increase every month for the rest of the year, the danger of inflation re - mains. It is for this reason that the Federal Reserve Board requests Congress to extend its installment credit control powers, now due to expire June 30. It is a request which deserves the most careful consideration."

BASCOM TIMMONS In Washington

The National Press Club in Washington, with its auditorium seating upwards of 400 luncheon guests has long been a testing ground for political aspirants, where failure has exceeded success.

Wendell Willkie rolled down the oratorical runway there in April, 1940 to soar into the political stratosphere. His close friendship with many capitol newsmen was due in part to his feeling that the warm reception given him at the club on his first major speech gave his primary campaign its first real impetus.

Another political jet took the air there this week, to try his wings in an already crowded presidential flight—W. Averell Harriman, for 20 years the White House handyman, to such an extent that, as he himself said, scarcely anything has gone on thereabouts in which he has not had a hand during both the Roosevelt and Truman administrations.

The plain truth is that Harriman, as a speechmaker was the surprise of the campaign so far. Rated as shy and stuttering gentleman of 60, though he looks at least 12 years younger, the son of the late rail magnate was forthright and vigorous, pulled no punches and gave many of his auditors the impression that, if Senator Estes Kefauver should be stopped early in the Democratic convention, Harriman might turn out to be a contender.

That would be amazing, for not until President Truman announced his withdrawal was Harriman so much as mentioned, and he was then backed by the New York delegation, with a sigh of relief, because its leaders could find no other suitable candidate. Harriman is the political leaders' dream—worth an estimated $40,000,000, inexperienced in politics and willing to accept advice from experienced politicians.

Regardless of that, the only thing that could have pleased the Democratic national committee more than having one multimillionaire in the contest for the nomination is to have two.

It is extremely hard to envision "Ave" Harriman—some have dubbed him "Honest Ave, the White House hairsplitter"—as president of the United States. He somehow goes against the entire presidential tradition, and at this time he does not typify exactly what the voters seem to want. Besides the emphasis he places on aid to Europe as director of Mutual Security Administration probably wouldn't help him in a general election. But he broke out his lance and charged straight down the field in his first speech here.

He nominated himself as heir to all New Deal and Fair Deal policies from Lend-Lease on along the line, which no other Democrat has done with the possible exception of the aforesaid Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma. That was at least forthright though not calculated to get him the essential support of the south. On the civil rights question he said: "I will be for moving forward in the Civil Rights field; it is quite clear to me that it is a responsibility of the federal government; the executive branch can do more and congress must also take responsibility."

General Eisenhower, he said would be a prisoner of the Republican "old guard," who would be all around him. Asked whether he would have fired General MacArthur he replied in the affirmative, repeating the old administration charge that the general wanted to spread the war and thought we could end hostilities in the Far East by spreading the war. It was not substantiated by the MacArthur congressional investigation that General MacArthur wanted to do any such thing.

It has been pointed out that Harriman is not a handyman in the usual sense of the term, because he has held down successively eight important government jobs in eleven years, evidently some kind of a record. The main reason for this is that he drives himself unmercifully—a quality undoubtedly inherited from his railroad building father, who was said to have literally worked himself to death. All of his present and former associates testify to this. What is more, he gets things done and makes decisions promptly, after consulting everybody concerned.

If the big city Democrats from the north can't persuade Gov. Adlai Stevenson to take the burden of trying to block Senator Kefauver, nobody would be surprised if they turned to Harriman, at least for a couple of trial heats.

CAPT. JOHNSON NOW MISSING

Not Reported After Gallant Action In Warring Korea

Relatives here have received word that Capt. John W. Johnson, marine corps fighter pilot, of Harrisonburg, La. apparently died in action in Korea. Members of the family were notified in letters from two of Capt. Johnsons friends in Korea.

Letters from two pilots who served with Capt. Johnson came after official notification from the war department that the decorated hero of World War II was "missing in action."

According to reports, Capt. Johnson was on an assignment to bomb enemy rail lines at the time his Corsair fighter plane was shot down in action over enemy territory. However, the reports pointed out, there is still hope that the pilot survived.

Capt. Johnson, one of six brothers who served in World War II, is also the father of two small children. His wife and their children now reside in Santa Ana, Calif.

Johnson's brother, the late Lt. George W. Johnson, marine corps fighter pilot, was killed in action during World War II in the Pacific combat area.

He is the son of Mrs. Walter L. Johnson and the late Mr. Johnson, of Harrisonburg. The Johnsons are a prominent Catahoula parish family. He has six brothers. They are: Walter H. Johnson, Clarence B. Johnson and Hewitt B. Johnson, all of Monroe, Emmett E. Johnson, of Harrisonburg, Clifford B. Johnson, Lafayette and Robert E. Johnson, of New Iberia.

Prior to his service in Korea, Capt. Johnson was assigned to the Pentagon in Washington where he served with the top secrets department for two years. Before his reassignment to Korea, he attended a tactical ground school in Quantico, Va.

The letter from one of his fellow airmen read in part: "John and I were living (in the same quonset hut) and he was in very good spirits. His outlook towards combat was very good and I think it should be known; that although he was offered a desk job, he wanted to fly in combat and asked to be assigned to the fighter squadron instead of the ground job."

The letter said that exactly how Capt. Johnson was lost was not known, however "It's very probable he was hit in a dive by ground fire."

"I think," the pilot wrote, "for (his) children's sake they should know their dad lived up to his duty and ideals all the way. I feel a strong personal loss and can sincerely understand what you are going through now.

"It's times like these when you realize how sad a war really is—we lost so many fine pilots and so many boys I knew and liked."

Addressing Capt. Johnson's wife, the fighter pilot wrote, "Terry, there isn't much else I can say except that my deepest sympathy is extended to you and the children at this time and that all of us who knew and served with John are sharing in a small way some of your sorrow."

In a letter to the missing hero's mother in Harrisonburg, an officer of the casualty section of Marine Corps personnel affairs branch wrote, "the absence of definite information concerning the fate and whereabouts of your son necessitates that he be carried on the records of this headquarters as missing in action."

The letter continued, "While I must regretfully emphasize the fact that there is a possibility that Captain Johnson is in fact dead, the report from his organization indicates that there is insufficient evidence to warrant a conclusive determination of death at this time.

"The passage of time without further information is also justification for presumption of death," the marine casualty officer wrote, adding condolences.

CAPT. JOHNSON NOW MISSING

Not Reported After Gallant Action In Warring Korea

Relatives here have received word that Capt. John W. Johnson, marine corps fighter pilot, of Harrisonburg, La. apparently died in action in Korea. Members of the family were notified in letters from two of Capt. Johnsons friends in Korea.

Letters from two pilots who served with Capt. Johnson came after official notification from the war department that the decorated hero of World War II was "missing in action."

According to reports, Capt. Johnson was on an assignment to bomb enemy rail lines at the time his Corsair fighter plane was shot down in action over enemy territory. However, the reports pointed out, there is still hope that the pilot survived.

Capt. Johnson, one of six brothers who served in World War II, is also the father of two small children. His wife and their children now reside in Santa Ana, Calif.

Johnson's brother, the late Lt. George W. Johnson, marine corps fighter pilot, was killed in action during World War II in the Pacific combat area.

He is the son of Mrs. Walter L. Johnson and the late Mr. Johnson, of Harrisonburg. The Johnsons are a prominent Catahoula parish family. He has six brothers. They are: Walter H. Johnson, Clarence B. Johnson and Hewitt B. Johnson, all of Monroe, Emmett E. Johnson, of Harrisonburg, Clifford B. Johnson, Lafayette and Robert E. Johnson, of New Iberia.

Prior to his service in Korea, Capt. Johnson was assigned to the Pentagon in Washington where he served with the top secrets department for two years. Before his reassignment to Korea, he attended a tactical ground school in Quantico, Va.

The letter from one of his fellow airmen read in part: "John and I were living (in the same quonset hut) and he was in very good spirits. His outlook towards combat was very good and I think it should be known; that although he was offered a desk job, he wanted to fly in combat and asked to be assigned to the fighter squadron instead of the ground job."

The letter said that exactly how Capt. Johnson was lost was not known, however "It's very probable he was hit in a dive by ground fire."

"I think," the pilot wrote, "for (his) children's sake they should know their dad lived up to his duty and ideals all the way. I feel a strong personal loss and can sincerely understand what you are going through now.

"It's times like these when you realize how sad a war really is—we lost so many fine pilots and so many boys I knew and liked."

Addressing Capt. Johnson's wife, the fighter pilot wrote, "Terry, there isn't much else I can say except that my deepest sympathy is extended to you and the children at this time and that all of us who knew and served with John are sharing in a small way some of your sorrow."

In a letter to the missing hero's mother in Harrisonburg, an officer of the casualty section of Marine Corps personnel affairs branch wrote, "the absence of definite information concerning the fate and whereabouts of your son necessitates that he be carried on the records of this headquarters as missing in action."

The letter continued, "While I must regretfully emphasize the fact that there is a possibility that Captain Johnson is in fact dead, the report from his organization indicates that there is insufficient evidence to warrant a conclusive determination of death at this time.

"The passage of time without further information is also justification for presumption of death," the marine casualty officer wrote, adding condolences.

Automatic gas clothes dryers are compact enough to be installed in the kitchen or basement, handy to the washing machine, thereby saving the labor of carrying heavy loads of wet laundry.

HAS SKATING PARTY FOR KIDS ON BIRTHDAY

Gus Kallio, local wrestling promoter, entertained a large group of children with a skating party on his 61st birthday Friday. After skating and other entertainment, Kallio cut the birthday cake for the kids. (Staff Photo by Leon Noland, Jr.)

GUS KALLIO HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Skating Class Participates; His Life Has Been Highly Diversified

Gus Kallio, popular professional wrestling promoter of 312 Walnut street, Monroe had a big party in his honor May 16, when he attained the age of 61 years. The beginners' roller skating class was on that day completing its meeting on the Kallio rink until next fall, and this memorable occasion and Gus' birthday was seized as occasion for the birthday party.

A huge, many - tiered cake was baked and cut and the youngsters and Kallio enjoyed to the fullest degree the fun as they ate generously of cake and swilled down soft drinks.

Kallio, born in Finland 61 years ago, and where he became as a youth an amateur wrestler to be feared by all rivals, came to America in 1913.

He had a lively time as a husky young man ready to plunge into any occupation that a powerful young fellow could follow. From arrival in New York he went to Toronto, Canada where he stayed for some months; then he went farther north, up to Winnipeg; and next a Finish settlement in North Dakota claimed his attention at odd jobs and now and then a wrestling match thrown in for good measure.

In 1918, when the First World War was in progress, he worked in a coal mine in Red Lodge, Mont.

In October, 1921, Gus wrestled and won from Champion Jack Reynolds in Jack's own home town, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. This established Gus as a sure enough professional wrestler.

The oil boom at Homer, La., attracted Gus there and he staged numerous wrestling matches.

In 1923 he put on the first professional wrestling match ever held in Monroe with Bob Harmon referee.

Since March 15, 1939 he has staged weekly wrestling at his Walnut street arena which is highly popular with the younger set. He has an established reputation for conducting a clean place of amusement. No liquor is allowed and he is also not favorable to smoking, which characteristics have made him popular with parents of children in their teens.

Swartz School Has Trip To Baton Rouge

Students in the seventh and the eighth grades at Swartz school left Saturday morning in a chartered bus for Baton Rouge on a two-day trip. The party included about 40 in addition to chaperones.

When in the capital city they will visit plants of the Standard oil, the Louisiana towering capitol and other points of interest. The night will be spent in a dormitory on the L. S. U. campus.

Attendance Is Urged At Wildlife Hearing

J. J. Besson, president of the Louisiana Wildlife Association notified J. H. Thoman, president of the Ouachita parish Wildlife Association, late Saturday urging that a delegation appear Wednesday at 10 a. m. in Baton Rouge for a public hearing to clear the nine man commission.

Besson further urged that interested persons contact their senators and representative by postcard, wire or telephone concerning the matter.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

The backstage workers for Little Theatre's fifth and final production of the twentieth anniversary season, "Kiss and Tell," were starting about their jobs as the last week of rehersal dawns upon the large cast of fifteen actors and actresses.

Properties for the show are being assembled by Donald Bussey from the cast of "Laura." As all past property chairmen know this is much of a job, requiring as much imagination as fortitude along the way. So far no one has been assigned the job of handling the props during the run of the show —Do I hear an ambitious volunteer?

What continues to amaze me, is the entirely different sets that can and do take place on our small stage. Set construction has again been under the supervision of Chick Foster, and Dusty Rhodes ably assisted by cast members Joe Milner, Charles Swain and Bid Causey, as well as newcomer to town, George Bardwell. George Bardwell, brother of Little Theatreite Louise Klam, is also handling the sound effects for "Kiss and Tell."

So they are all down to that serious business of the last week before production. First curtain will go up on this hilarious play Wednesday evening, May 28 and it will run through Wednesday evening, June 4. It is a natural for super entertainment and has a laugh every sixty seconds. Mark your date book for a date with "Kiss and Tell."

Randon Notes . . . Very glad that Albert Ringo has recovered enough to supervise make-up for "Kiss and Tell." He will be assisted by actor and backstage worker Carl Slakter, who has long wanted to try his hand with stage make-up. . . . A special big thank you to Russell Kettenring who has been solving a big problem for Little Theatre. He has moved the big fan in the auditorium, which was in the wrong place, to the projection booth where it will pull cooling breezes over the entire room. He has also quieted the motor which will mean a lot to the audience as well as the actors. . . . Speaking of fans there are plans afoot to cool the coffee room and lobby, via the loan of fans from L. T. members, during the run of "Kiss and Tell." . . . Donald Bussey (Laura) and Joe Milner (The Play's the Thing) were chosen as two of the twelve big shots of Northeastern Campus. . . . Sara Ritter is back home after a short stay in the hospital. Glad you are on the recoup list, Sara. . . . It was quite a pleasure to hear June Shultz's vivacious accounts of life in New York. June also tells me that Little Theatre favorite Jim Reynolds is now in Yokohoma, Japan.

Little Theatre Sketch

Bert Root, Jr. . . . Almost but not quite a newcomer to Monroe, is making his acting debut with Little Theatre in the role of Navy commander, Uncle George, in "Kiss and Tell." Monroe seems to be a factor in Bert's life. He was born in Monroe, Mich., attended school in Toledo, O. and the Tome School for Boys at Port Deposit, Md. He received his B. A. degree in business administration from Kenyon College, at Gambier, Columbus, O.

Nine years of travel for a national mfg. of safety glass, took Bert to nineteen states of these United States, and incidentally introduced him to Monroe, La. where he became a friend of Henry O. Hartman, then owner of Monroe Glass, Co.

Following four years of active service with the quartermaster corps of the army, he was re - called to the African theater to serve in the civilian capacity of chief of identification for unknown deceased of World War II. This bureau was also responsible for all missing personnel. He spent two years in Africa and one year and a half in Europe. At the request of an editor in Upper Sandusky, O., he later prepared a series of lectures on this work and since coming to Monroe has given talks on the subject to local churches, the Lions Club, Rotary Club and the Optimist Club.

Bert has been owner and manager of Monroe Glass for the past year and a half. Next to Monroe, La. he considers Upper Sandusky, O., where his mother lives as his home. He says and I may quote him, "I have lived all over the United States and sincerely like Monroe better than any other place I know." It is alleged that he is a confirmed bachelor, (again quotations.

Active in the civic life of his adopted city, Bert is a member of the American Legion, teaches Sunday School at the First Presbyterian Church where he serves on the board of deaconate, and is Lion Tamer for the Lions Club. He is currently serving as chairman of the housing committee for the American Legion state convention to be held here July 24, 25, and 26th. He kiddingly stated that he plans to leave town on the 23rd for a few days to escape the complaints of disgruntled Legionnaires who will have to put up with his housing plans.

SODALITY HOLDS ITS ELECTION

Student Dance Set For St. Matthews Gym On May 22

Sodalists of St. Matthew's High School held their annual elections on Tuesday, May 13, with the Reverend Harlow Sheldon, director, presiding. The results of the voting was as follows: Prefect for the session 1952-53 Maria Maggio of Class '53; Vice - prefect, Mona Lee Tichell; secretary, Ann Jernigan; treasurer, Beatrice Varino.

The group planned a final party of the year on Friday, May 16. This was a benefit event and the proceeds from same will be used to finance the trip of two delegates of the Sodality to Dallas in July for one week's session of the summer school of Catholic action.

The Sodality - Student Council dance is scheduled for Thursday, May 22 in the school gymnasium with Ben Burton's orchestra for entertainment. And the junior-senior prom is to be held May 28 at the Country Club, again with Ben Burton's orchestra.

The copy of the school's annual or yearbook, entitled the Matthuan was mailed to the publishers this week. This year the staff chose Catholic Shrines of Louisiana as the theme of the yearbook. Miss Rosina Lisotta and Miss Phyllis Jo Nastasi, co-editor, state that they expect an attractive book, judging from the endless time and labor that artists and photographers spent in its compilation. With summer delivery, the completed annual will be in readiness only by the end of August, and students look forward toward procuring their copy.

VIEW THE RINGS

Prospective winners in the "Hillbilly Wedding in June" contest are shown in these scenes looking at the wedding rings they hope to win along with other prizes worth several thousands of dollars in the election that is now underway in West Monroe. The winning couple's identity will not be known until the night of the wedding on June 3 when all three couples will be married in a triple ceremony at Gentry's arena where the Ouachita Valley Jamboree, sponsors of the hillbilly wedding, will move their operations to make room for the vast crowd that is expected to attend the wedding. The couples are shown as they viewed the rings in the Watch Shop, on Wood street in West Monroe. The rings are being shown by H. E. Sanders at the Watch Shop, which will donate the rings to the winning couple. The couples are: (at top, left) Miss June Allen and Ochiltree Hancock; (top right) Miss Shirley Carter and Raymond Knox; (at bottom left) Miss Martha Ann Davis and Aubrey Gaston. St. Matthew's Church Undergoing Repairs

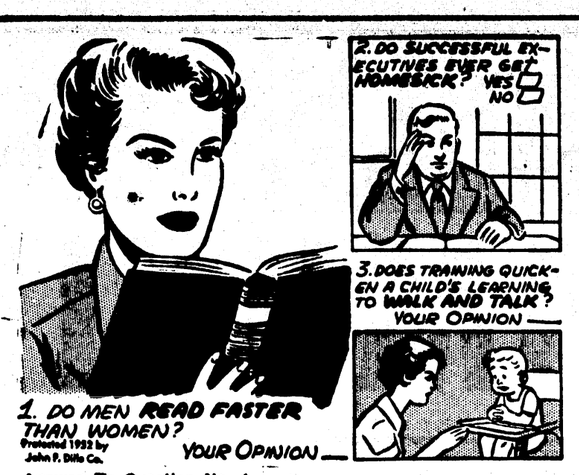
St. Matthew's Catholic Church is having a complete overhauling to make it suited to modern day conditions.

The interior plastering, cracked in places, is being restored and the entire interior is being air conditioned.

The exterior will be redressed where required and the brick work put into the best possible condition.

A very complete job is to be done on the interior of the church, as soon as the plasterers are through with their part of the work on the walls.



Answer To Question No. 1

1. Probably. Psychologist William P. Wood found that in reading improvement classes at the University of Cincinnati men not only read faster at the beginning but improved faster. He thinks men probably had greater "motivation" — improvement of their professional or business reading—while women wished merely personal improvement. Our booklet, "How To Read Faster and Better," will start you on the road to improvement. Sent at cost, 15 cents (coin only), plus self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Answer To Question No. 2

2. No, but unsuccessful ones do. The successful executive is "psychologically weaned," from his parents at an early age, leaves home and, if necessary, remains away without any qualms, although he may have great affection for his family. He doesn't depend on them or anybody. Executives can now be selected more successfully by psychological tests than by superiors or fellow workers.

Answer To Question No. 3

3. It is doubtful. Psychologist Arnold Gesell finds that identical twins learn to reach for spoons, grasp things, wave to people, etc. at almost the same hour. He trained one twin to climb steps and kept the other untrained. Yet, after several weeks, when the untrained one got a chance he scampered up the steps as ably as the trained one.

Our great New Booklet — How to double your reading speed. Read Faster and Better, by Albert Edward Wiggam, Sc. D., will: A remarkable key to Knowledge and success. Six simple but priceless rules sent without profit for 15 cents in coin. Address Dr. A. E. Wiggam, care of this newspaper. Enclose a 3 cents stamped self-addressed envelope.

The modern family uses two to four times as much hot water as a comparable family of 20 years ago, according to the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association. That's the reason why the average family now buys a 30-gallon automatic gas water heater or larger.

FAIR--ABLE

REMEMBER--?

Remember back in 1943 when Charlie McKenzie, then our new representative, found out that the New Deal was not all sweetness and light?

It's the popular thing to do, now. But it took courage back then for Charlie to blast at the Big Boys in Washington.

On July 25, 1943, he publicly protested government "incompetency, inefficiency and confusion . . . a red light danger signal for democracy as we in The South understand it."

Nine years later we're still finding out how terribly right Charlie McKenzie was. And he hasn't changed his mind, either.

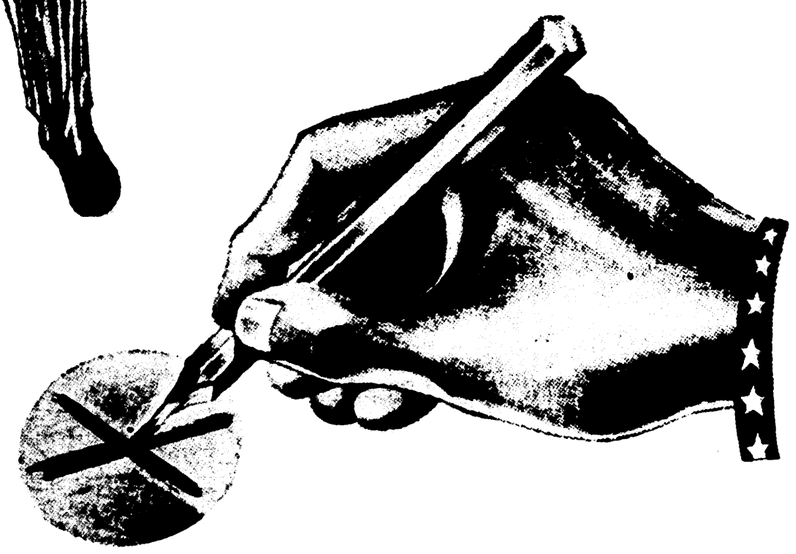
VOTE AS YOU PLEASE BUT PLEASE VOTE



KNOW THE ISSUES

It is of greatest importance that each citizen knows the issues in every campaign. This applies to the election of mayor, commissioners, school board members and all others.

Your one vote can count...

Many people feel "their vote will not count." Some say "What good will my one vote do?" "I don't know the candidates or anything about the issues, so I just won't bother."

Your one vote may make the difference between winning or losing a vital election of our city.

John Quincy Adams rose to the highest seat in the land because of one vote.

Rutherford B. Hayes was elected by one vote. His election was contested, and referred to an Electoral Commission. Again his margin of victory was one vote.

The States of California, Idaho, Oregon, Texas and Washington joined the Union by virtue of one vote.

The Draft Act of World War II passed the House of Representatives by one vote.

On March 18, 1952, mint juleps were made possible at the Kentucky Derby by a margin of one vote in the Kentucky House of Representatives.

In 1940, a United States senator was elected by margin of just 20 votes in the entire State of Texas.

This year Alaska lost its bid for Statehood by one vote.

Non-Partisan Effort

The slogan for 1952 is "Vote As You Please, But Please Vote." Americans must do their share in getting and keeping good government. A citizen who serves his community loves his community.

Teachers are Happy...

Why Change?

Decrying in no uncertain terms what they describe as destructive tactics now in operation and with the entire modern school system of the City of Monroe as target, teachers of these schools have given to the press the following paid advertisement:

"For a number of years, we have taught in the City Schools of Monroe; we have been loyal first to Mr. Neville during his time of service as Superintendent, and now to Mr. Boyet, our present Superintendent.

"We can say in all sincerity that we have the highest regard for Mr. Neville; as our Superintendent, he was all that a school system could ask for; far-seeing in his vision of future needs, considerate, loved, and respected by us all, and truly a builder of citizens to take their places in our proud city today. These citizens — many of them — stand out in due credit to a school system that moved along and kept pace with our growing city—thanks to the wonderful vision and practical planning of Mr. Neville.

"As time drew near for Mr. Neville to turn the helm of the City School System to a successor, he sought a man whom he considered one to continue the progress of our fine system; an educator with sincere purpose, integrity, and understanding of human nature. As we all know, Mr. Boyet was his choice, and for approximately three years now, he has given unstintingly of his time and ability to continue the progress of his predecessor. He has worked in complete harmony with the school board, which also served for some time under Mr. Neville.

"About the time Mr. Boyet became superintendent, the need for more schools, materials, equipment, and personnel stepped up in accelerated pace. Rapidly increasing enrollments necessitated immediate action; the skillful manner in which he and our school board met these needs, and continue planning to meet them is evidenced within the schools of our City System. They are decidedly an outstanding credit to any city.

"At this time the citizens of Monroe are being called on to vote for a City School Board; three members of our present board, Warren Taylor, Ronald Lee Davis, and Mike John are seeking reelection. These men are established business men of proven ability. They continue to work harmoniously with Mr. Boyet, as they did with Mr. Neville.

"It is to be regretted that some extremely unkind rumors and accusations have been made at this time. Everyone will agree that a school board election campaign should be above such tactics.

"How can children—out first consideration—be taught the rudiments of peaceful, happy, and successful living if the example is not set before them by their elders?

"Certainly our Superintendent, Mr. Boyet, has maintained his dignity and poise, continuing to go about his duties, ignoring the thrusts which have been flung during this current campaign.

"Even though Mr. Boyet has served only a short period of time, his educational policies, his knowledge of human relationships, and fair dealing, have merited for him high regard from his faculty.

"As members of the faculty, we fail to see all the discord recently attributed to the group, or the tears.

"Our schools are well equipped with materials of all types so that teachers may make a good job of teaching—after all, the business of educating and developing children in their various capacities is our chief concern. We must see the child as an individual and help him find his place in life as he grows in body, in mind, and in spirit while learning to live harmoniously with people.

"So, let us recognize the many fine things that have been done by Mr. Boyet and our present school board; the building program which is in progress requires the business ability of experienced business men, together with educational leadership such as our present school board and superintendent are demonstrating, as they carry on toward progress for the City of Monroe School System.

"In closing we must say that the majority of teachers in the City System are happy and are finding joy in their work.

"May they continue to do so!"

Teachers are Happy...

Why Change?

Decrying in no uncertain terms what they describe as destructive tactics now in operation and with the entire modern school system of the City of Monroe as target, teachers of these schools have given to the press the following paid advertisement:

"For a number of years, we have taught in the City Schools of Monroe; we have been loyal first to Mr. Neville during his time of service as Superintendent, and now to Mr. Boyet, our present Superintendent.

"We can say in all sincerity that we have the highest regard for Mr. Neville; as our Superintendent, he was all that a school system could ask for; far-seeing in his vision of future needs, considerate, loved, and respected by us all, and truly a builder of citizens to take their places in our proud city today. These citizens — many of them — stand out in due credit to a school system that moved along and kept pace with our growing city—thanks to the wonderful vision and practical planning of Mr. Neville.

"As time drew near for Mr. Neville to turn the helm of the City School System to a successor, he sought a man whom he considered one to continue the progress of our fine system; an educator with sincere purpose, integrity, and understanding of human nature. As we all know, Mr. Boyet was his choice, and for approximately three years now, he has given unstintingly of his time and ability to continue the progress of his predecessor. He has worked in complete harmony with the school board, which also served for some time under Mr. Neville.

"About the time Mr. Boyet became superintendent, the need for more schools, materials, equipment, and personnel stepped up in accelerated pace. Rapidly increasing enrollments necessitated immediate action; the skillful manner in which he and our school board met these needs, and continue planning to meet them is evidenced within the schools of our City System. They are decidedly an outstanding credit to any city.

"At this time the citizens of Monroe are being called on to vote for a City School Board; three members of our present board, Warren Taylor, Ronald Lee Davis, and Mike John are seeking reelection. These men are established business men of proven ability. They continue to work harmoniously with Mr. Boyet, as they did with Mr. Neville.

"It is to be regretted that some extremely unkind rumors and accusations have been made at this time. Everyone will agree that a school board election campaign should be above such tactics.

"How can children—out first consideration—be taught the rudiments of peaceful, happy, and successful living if the example is not set before them by their elders?

"Certainly our Superintendent, Mr. Boyet, has maintained his dignity and poise, continuing to go about his duties, ignoring the thrusts which have been flung during this current campaign.

"Even though Mr. Boyet has served only a short period of time, his educational policies, his knowledge of human relationships, and fair dealing, have merited for him high regard from his faculty.

"As members of the faculty, we fail to see all the discord recently attributed to the group, or the tears.

"Our schools are well equipped with materials of all types so that teachers may make a good job of teaching—after all, the business of educating and developing children in their various capacities is our chief concern. We must see the child as an individual and help him find his place in life as he grows in body, in mind, and in spirit while learning to live harmoniously with people.

"So, let us recognize the many fine things that have been done by Mr. Boyet and our present school board; the building program which is in progress requires the business ability of experienced business men, together with educational leadership such as our present school board and superintendent are demonstrating, as they carry on toward progress for the City of Monroe School System.

"In closing we must say that the majority of teachers in the City System are happy and are finding joy in their work.

"May they continue to do so!"

HATCHER HURLS ONE-HITTER YET LOSES GAME, 1-0

Gayle's Fourth Inning Single Decides Tense Mound Duel

GREENVILLE, Miss., May 17 (Special) — John "Red" Kenny, Greenville righthander, hurled the first no-hit no-run game of the 1952 Cotton States League season here tonight with the Monroe Sports, the 1951 pennant winners, as his victims. Greenville won the game, 1 to 0, over Monroe's Marv "Hoppy" Hatcher who almost matched Kenny's performance as he lost a heart-breaking one-hit performance of his own.

The mound duel between Kenny, 28-year-old hurler from Cedar Rapids, Ia., who is in his second year with the Bucks, and Hatcher, a youngster from Moultrie, Ga., was probably the greatest in Cotton States history. The game lasted only an hour and 26 minutes.

The game was wrapped up in the fourth inning when Hatcher served up his only base on balls of the game to Allen Green, Greenville shortstop. Green stole second. Mike Lastra grounded out, and Ben Cantrell lifted a long fly into center field, enabling Green to go to third after the catch.

"Gip" Gale, Bucks rightfielder, then came through with a "bleeder" past second base, scoring Green with the only hit of the game.

No other Bucks ever reached base on Hatcher, who, aside from the no-hit one-hit aspects, actually worked a better game than Kenny, but his teammates just couldn't solve Kenny's slants to give Hatcher the help he needed.

Kenny saw two Sports on bases in the third when Hatcher was safe on an error and Manager Charley Harrington was hit by a pitched ball. Kenny walked John Paul Jones in the fourth, issued free passes to Virgil Bivens and Harrington in the fifth, and walked Bivens again in the seventh for the only Sports to get on base, none getting further than second base.

The Sports, who registered the last Cotton States no-hitter last May 10 when Darvin Chrisco tossed his masterpiece against Hot Springs, had almost been the victims of a no-hitter earlier this season, May 1, at Monroe when Bill Jamieson, Pine Bluff, goseegged Monroe for eight innings only to have a pinchhitter, Gerald Puffer, break the spell with a double and score on a Jesse Van Winkle single as Monroe lost that game to the Judges, 4-1.

Van Winkle, Daehn Duel For Cotton State League Batting Leadership

By J. P. FRIEND

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., May 17 — (Special) — The defending champion Monroe Sports have not been able to make much headway thus far in the Cotton States League flag chase, but the slow start has not affected the batting prowess of two of their hired hands.

Nels Daehn, 22 - year - old rookie outfielder from Lansing, Ill., and Jesse Van Winkle, 24 - year - old second baseman from Friendswood, Tex., are hooked up in a lively struggle for the loop's highest plate honors for the period ending May 13 and released Saturday by the Friend News Service.

The rookie has a five - point lead over his more experienced mate with .370 to .365. Daehn toed the plate 35 times last week and and rapped out 13 hits, including two doubles and a three bagger for a two - point gain. The Texan was even busier with the willow. Out of 29 tries Jess scored 13 safeties, three of which were doubles, and a pair of triples that lifted his mace mark from .311 to a commanding .365. The spurt enabled him to tie with another Sport, John Paul Jones, a fellow Lone Star stater from Texas Christian University, in hits at 27.

Manager Tommy Davis, last week's pace setter, fell from his lofty .405 perch with a resounding thud, but finished with .354 and third place. Leon Waszk, Pine Bluff catcher, kept up his stiff rate with .342 and fourth, while Wally Rasmussen, Hot Springs fly chaser, picked up 18 points during the period to assume No. 5 with .324. Joe Stern did not see action for Hot Springs and maintained his .320 mark, for sixth. Troy Mitchell, Natchez receiver, kept his batting streak alive with seven more straight games, extending it to a dozen in a row, and the good work netted 27 decimals to .319 and seventh. Pine Bluff's Bob Hale, enjoyed a prosperous plate week with a 30 - point boost to .316. Ronny Dacko, Greenwood, had a 6 - 5 session on May 7 and it helped him to finish with .314 and ninth. Nick Siemasz, Greenwood, made a valient comeback after a lean week with 28 - 12, and roared back to .313 to round out the Big 10 hitters.

George Pompelia, Meridian outfielder, took over the scoring with nine runs during a sensational 30-13 for the week to lead with 24. Pel Austin, El Dorado, blasted four doubles to begin a fruitful 22-11 card, and slipped into a tie with Jim Schumacker, Hot Springs, and Hal Walther, Monroe, with eight two baggers each. John Tidwell, Greenwood, has four triples. Dolf Regelsky's pair of round trippers during Meridian's fourth loss of the season, Tuesday night, gave him a lead in that department with three. Pete Christy, El Dorado, has batted in 24. Siemasz has 42 total bases. Marty Devlin, Greenwood, leads the base stealers with seven thefts.

Laverne Schneider, Pine Bluff, and Joe Kopach, Meridian, are the only five - game winners without a loss. John Miskulin, Natchez lefty, has copped a quintet against one defeat. Jim Reynolds, Meridian, boasts 4 - 0, and teammate Bobby Harrison 3-0.

Eight other hurlers have come through with three triumphs, seven being docked with one loss. Those with 3-1 records are: Bill Jamieson, and Bill Hobbs, Pine Bluff: Ottis Jacobs, Monroe; Copeland Goss, Tommy Graham and George Bielik, El Dorado: and Bill Ford, Greenwood. Dick Collins, Hot Springs, has 3 - 2.

Greenwood's fastballer, John Forizs, is far out in front in strikeouts with 60 in only 42 1-3 innings. Tommy Graham and Danny McDevitt, Greenwood, are far back with 29 apiece. Forizs h has handed out the most free tickets, 34, while winning two and losing three.

MR. JOHN BOYET

A Friend of Children!

TO THE FRIENDS OF CHILDREN:

I have sat by and watched one in your midst, one that I have known personally for 15 years, one who has been a great benefactor to education, one who all educators in our state admire and recognize his ability, persecuted until I feel that in justice to all concerned, I should let the friends of any educational system, especially that of Monroe, know just what they are doing.

When Mr. John M. Boyet was selected as Superintendent of Monroe City Schools, I felt very grateful. I knew that he was well known in the state, (though least in Monroe). I knew that he was in the circle of state officials that ranked highest also in the high school circles he had no superior, and so I plead with you today to be very careful in your criticism and charges.

Mr. Boyet was born in Dubberly, La. December 28, 1904, son of Carrie Bell (Walker) and S. E. Boyet, educated in public schools in Dubberly, La., High School, Minden, La., graduated from Louisiana College, a Baptist College where our Baptist ministers and students are educated. He received his Masters Degree from Louisiana State University. On leaving school he served as Assistant Principal and coach Vinton High School. He was Principal of Vinton High School from 1928 to 1940. He left Vinton to accept a position in Baton Rouge in the State Department of Education. He was a member of the Executive Committee of Louisiana High School Athletic Association one year, Vice President one year, President four years. He was forced to resign the presidency when he accepted a position in the State Department, as this organization is a High School Organization. He served on the Louisiana Committee of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools for the Southern States for three years, 1937-1940. He has been a life member of the National Education Association since 1928. He was a member of the Vinton Rotary Club from 1927 to 1940; also served as member of North Baton Rouge Lions Club. He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa Fraternity, has been a member of Red Rod Rose since 1931.

Mr. Boyet was reared in a Christian home, as you will see, attended a Christian College, roomed with a brother of Rev. James Horton. He is a deacon in the Baptist Church and has been a Superintendent in the Baptist Sunday School.

He accomplished much for our high school students when he was President of the High School Athletic Association. He set up rules for safe guarding the health of our girls and boys. You can no longer play a contestant all day. Girls can only play for a period of 64 minutes per day in tennis or other State contested games. They must have health certificates before they can enter any contest. He was the instigator of our nationally rated officials. This has helped the games very much. Then for his work in the State Department, he made WHO'S WHO in a Biographical Encyclopedia of Southern People, featuring Albama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee. This volume is put out by the Press and called The Southerner.

I very much regret that to the end, that some one might promote themselves to higher positions, or that to satisfy petty personal prejudices, or even errors, one with such a background and ability to go forward in all that he undertakes, should be so criticised and persecuted, that the good people of Monroe dare do away with an excellent school board, school system and school executive.

Do we have anyone in the City of Monroe or even Louisiana, whose record can compare with this?

NOTE—Mr. Boyet is not aware of this ad — has never seen its contents.

By J. P. FRIEND

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., May 17 — (Special) — The defending champion Monroe Sports have not been able to make much headway thus far in the Cotton States League flag chase, but the slow start has not affected the batting prowess of two of their hired hands.

Nels Daehn, 22 - year - old rookie outfielder from Lansing, Ill., and Jesse Van Winkle, 24 - year - old second baseman from Friendswood, Tex., are hooked up in a lively struggle for the loop's highest plate honors for the period ending May 13 and released Saturday by the Friend News Service.

The rookie has a five - point lead over his more experienced mate with .370 to .365. Daehn toed the plate 35 times last week and and rapped out 13 hits, including two doubles and a three bagger for a two - point gain. The Texan was even busier with the willow. Out of 29 tries Jess scored 13 safeties, three of which were doubles, and a pair of triples that lifted his mace mark from .311 to a commanding .365. The spurt enabled him to tie with another Sport, John Paul Jones, a fellow Lone Star stater from Texas Christian University, in hits at 27.

Manager Tommy Davis, last week's pace setter, fell from his lofty .405 perch with a resounding thud, but finished with .354 and third place. Leon Waszk, Pine Bluff catcher, kept up his stiff rate with .342 and fourth, while Wally Rasmussen, Hot Springs fly chaser, picked up 18 points during the period to assume No. 5 with .324. Joe Stern did not see action for Hot Springs and maintained his .320 mark, for sixth. Troy Mitchell, Natchez receiver, kept his batting streak alive with seven more straight games, extending it to a dozen in a row, and the good work netted 27 decimals to .319 and seventh. Pine Bluff's Bob Hale, enjoyed a prosperous plate week with a 30 - point boost to .316. Ronny Dacko, Greenwood, had a 6 - 5 session on May 7 and it helped him to finish with .314 and ninth. Nick Siemasz, Greenwood, made a valient comeback after a lean week with 28 - 12, and roared back to .313 to round out the Big 10 hitters.

George Pompelia, Meridian outfielder, took over the scoring with nine runs during a sensational 30-13 for the week to lead with 24. Pel Austin, El Dorado, blasted four doubles to begin a fruitful 22-11 card, and slipped into a tie with Jim Schumacker, Hot Springs, and Hal Walther, Monroe, with eight two baggers each. John Tidwell, Greenwood, has four triples. Dolf Regelsky's pair of round trippers during Meridian's fourth loss of the season, Tuesday night, gave him a lead in that department with three. Pete Christy, El Dorado, has batted in 24. Siemasz has 42 total bases. Marty Devlin, Greenwood, leads the base stealers with seven thefts.

Laverne Schneider, Pine Bluff, and Joe Kopach, Meridian, are the only five - game winners without a loss. John Miskulin, Natchez lefty, has copped a quintet against one defeat. Jim Reynolds, Meridian, boasts 4 - 0, and teammate Bobby Harrison 3-0.

Eight other hurlers have come through with three triumphs, seven being docked with one loss. Those with 3-1 records are: Bill Jamieson, and Bill Hobbs, Pine Bluff: Ottis Jacobs, Monroe; Copeland Goss, Tommy Graham and George Bielik, El Dorado; and Bill Ford, Greenwood. Dick Collins, Hot Springs, has 3 - 2.

Greenwood's fastballer, John Forizs, is far out in front in strikeouts with 60 in only 42 1-3 innings. Tommy Graham and Danny McDevitt, Greenwood, are far back with 29 apiece. Forizs h has handed out the most free tickets, 34, while winning two and losing three.

"Anyone interested in helping nail up the fence at our Little League field is welcome to be on hand Sunday afternoon between 1 and 5 o'clock," Jack Hesketh, league secretary, said. "Just bring along a hammer, and if you don't have one, we'll have some spares handy."

Cash donations have slowed down again after a good return last week end, and there were no new contributions to announce yesterday. Contributions are being receivd by mail to "Monroe Little League Baseball, P. O. box 1293, Monroe."

MR. JOHN BOYET

A Friend of Children!

TO THE FRIENDS OF CHILDREN:

I have sat by and watched one in your midst, one that I have known personally for 15 years, one who has been a great benefactor to education, one who all educators in our state admire and recognize his ability, persecuted until I feel that in justice to all concerned, I should let the friends of any educational system, especially that of Monroe, know just what they are doing.

When Mr. John M. Boyet was selected as Supreintendent of Monroe City Schools, I felt very grateful. I knew that he was well known in the state, (though least in Monroe), I knew that he was in the circle of state officials that ranked highest also in the high school circles he had no superior, and so I plead with you today to be very careful in your criticism and charges.

Mr. Boyet was born in Dubberly, La. December 28, 1904, son of Carrie Bell (Walker) and S. B. Boyet, educated in public schools in Dubberly, La., High School, Minden, La., graduated from Louisiana College, a Baptist College where our Baptist ministers and students are educated. He received his Masters Degree from Louisiana State University. On leaving school he served as Assistant Principal and coach Vinton High School. He was Principal of Vinton High School from 1928 to 1940. He left Vinton to accept a position in Baton Rouge in the State Department of Education. He was a member of the Executive Committee of Louisiana High School Athletic Association one year, Vice President one year, President four years. He was forced to resign the presidency when he accepted a position in the State Department, as this organization is a High School Organization. He served on the Louisiana Committee of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools for the Southern States for three years, 1937-1940. He has been a life member of the National Education Association since 1928. He was a member of the Vinton Rotary Club from 1927 to 1940; also served as member of North Baton Rouge Lions Club. He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa Fraternity, has been a member of Red Red Rose since 1931.

Mr. Boyet was reared in a Christian home, as you will see, attended a Christian College, roomed with a brother of Rev. James Horton. He is a deacon in the Baptist Church and has been a Superintendent in the Baptist Sunday School.

He accomplished much for our high school students when he was President of the High School Athletic Association. He set up rules for safe guarding the health of our girls and boys. You can no longer play a contestant all day. Girls can only play for a period of 64 minutes per day in tennis or other State contested games. They must have health certificates before they can enter any contest. He was the instigator of our nationally rated officials. This has helped the games very much. Then for his work in the State Department, he made WHO'S WHO in a Biographical Encyclopedia of Southern People, featuring Aibama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee. This volume is put out by the Press and called The Southerner.

I very much regret that to the end, that some one might promote themselves to higher positions, or that to satisfy petty personal prejudices, or even errors, one with such a background and ability to go forward in all that he undertakes, should be so criticised and persecuted, that the good people of Monroe dare do away with an excellent school board, school system and school executive.

Do we have anyone in the City of Monroe or even Louisiana, whose record can compare with this?

NOTE—Mr. Boyet is not aware of this ad — has never seen its contents.

'Gorgeous George' Heads Wrestling Program At Kallio's Arena Tuesday

Perfumed Mat Star Faces Charley Laye In Main Event

Gus Kallio's Arena may take on a different smell Tuesday night when Gorgeous George, "the Human Orchid," takes on Charley Laye in a 90-minute main event bout here.

GORGEOUS GEORGE

George only has the ring sprayed when his majestic form appears, so Jack Kelly and Howard Cantonwine will have to go through their match without any perfume.

Gorgeous George, the perfumed, peroxided, Hollywood wrestler-actor, is expected to be a big drawing card and Kallio's, and the promoter is predicting a sell-out performance.

"We've already sold more seats," said Kallio last night, "than we sell some weeks right up through wrestling night. Gorgeous George is a good drawing card alright, and he's a good wrestler too."

George, who wears his long blondined hair down to his shoulders, is touted as "the most outstanding wrestler in the ring today" and he lives up to his reputation to a good extent.

A born showman, in or out of the ring, George has been known to tell interviewers, "Just call me Gorgeous please. I don't really believe that I am gorgeous but what is my opinion against that of million of fans."

Known more for his somewhat peculiar ways than for his ability to wrestle, George can handle himself with the best of them in the ring. His real drawing card, however, is the show he puts on.

Carrying with him always a personal valet, Jeffries, George has a plush carpet spread on the mat, has the air in the ring and surroundings sprayed profusely with strong perfume, and before each match he has his hair done in a beauty shop.

George's opponent, while not quite so showy, may make a good match for the perfumed tussler. Laye, when asked by Kallio if he would take the match, said he would except for two reasons. "I'd just like to see what I can do with him," he said, "and even if I lose, my share of the match will be plenty."

Kallio last night said that he had no fears of losing any money on the show. "George doesn't try to stick any promoter," he said. "He gets a 20 per cent rake off from the full proceeds and then splits the rest on a percentage basis."

"He will wrestle 40-60, 25-75, or 50-50, but he never wrestles a winner-take-all match."

Kallio added that he didn't lose any money by it either. "He ought to make at least a thousand dollars here Tuesday, and he wrestls every night if he wants to. He's got more bookings than he can fill."

Another feature of the blondined matman's tussles is his habit of throwing gold - plated "Georgie" pins to the ladies. "Georgie" pins are the beautiful man's substitute for bobby pins, and says George, "Be sure to call them Georgie pins."

The semi-final match, which will have a 60-minute time limit, between Cantonwine and Kelly is also expected to be a good show according to Kallio.

Kelly, a young scientific tussler who wrestles somewhat on the order of Jack Curtis, will meet a much heavier man in old - timer Cantonwine, a newcomer here, but is supposed to be much faster. Kelly made his last appearance here a few years back.

The doors will open at 7 p. m. the first match will get under way an hour later.

Kallio also announced last night that election returns on the city election will be announced at intervals while the match is in progress.

'Gorgeous George' Heads Wrestling Program At Kallio's Arena Tuesday

Perfumed Mat Star Faces Charley Laye In Main Event

Gus Kallio's Arena may take on a different smell Tuesday night when Gorgeous George, "the Human Orchid," takes on Charley Laye in a 90-minute main event bout here.

GORGEOUS GEORGE

George only has the ring sprayed when his majestic form appears, so Jack Kelly and Howard Cantonwine will have to go through their match without any perfume.

Gorgeous George, the perfumed, peroxided, Hollywood wrestler-actor, is expected to be a big drawing card and Kallio's, and the promoter is predicting a sell-out performance.

"We've already sold more seats," said Kallio last night, "than we sell some weeks right up through wrestling night. Gorgeous George is a good drawing card alright, and he's a good wrestler too."

George, who wears his long blondined hair down to his shoulders, is touted as "the most outstanding wrestler in the ring today" and he lives up to his reputation to a good extent.

A born showman, in or out of the ring, George has been known to tell interviewers, "Just call me Gorgeous please. I don't really believe that I am gorgeous but what is my opinion against that of million of fans."

Known more for his somewhat peculiar ways than for his ability to wrestle, George can handle himself with the best of them in the ring. His real drawing card, however, is the show he puts on.

Carrying with him always a personal valet, Jeffries, George has a plush carpet spread on the mat, has the air in the ring and surroundings sprayed profusely with strong perfume, and before each match he has his hair done in a beauty shop.

George's opponent, while not quite so showy, may make a good match for the perfumed tussler. Laye, when asked by Kallio if he would take the match, said he would except for two reasons. "I'd just like to see what I can do with him," he said, "and even if I lose, my share of the match will be plenty."

Kallio last night said that he had no fears of losing any money on the show. "George doesn't try to stick any promoter," he said. "He gets a 20 per cent rake off from the full proceeds and then splits the rest on a percentage basis."

"He will wrestle 40-60, 25-75, or 50-50, but he never wrestles a winner-take-all match."

Kallio added that he didn't lose any money by it either. "He ought to make at least a thousand dollars here Tuesday, and he wrestls every night if he wants to. He's got more bookings than he can fill."

Another feature of the blondined matman's tussles is his habit of throwing gold - plated "Georgie" pins to the ladies. "Georgie" pins are the beautiful man's substitute for bobby pins, and says George, "Be sure to call them Geogira pins."

The semi-final match, which will have a 60-minute time limit, between Cantonwine and Kelly is also expected to be a good show according to Kallio.

Kelly, a young scientific tussler who wrestles somewhat on the order of Jack Curtis, will meet a much heavier man in old - timer Cantonwine, a newcomer here, but is supposed to be much faster. Kelly made his last appearance here a few years back.

The doors will open at 7 p. m. the first match will get under way an hour later.

Kallio also announced last night that election returns on the city election will be announced at intervals while the match is in progress.

LOCKMAN HOMER IN EIGHTH STOPS CUB THREAT, 9-8

Dodgers Plaster Pirates, 12 To 7, To Maintain Pace

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Whitey Lockman clouted a two-run homer in the eighth inning today to give the New York Giants a 9-8 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Lockman's pressure blast enabled the Giants to maintain their tie with Brooklyn for the National League lead. The Dodgers already had trounced Pittsburgh, 12-7.

Davey Williams launched the payoff rally by doubling with two out off Bob Kelly, third Chicago pitcher. Lockman followed with his fourth homer to wipe out a 8-7 deficit, caused primarily by the Chicago home runs.

BUMS BLAST BUCS

BROOKLYN, May 17 (AP) — Ben Wade, 29-year-old rookie right-hander of the Brooklyn Dodgers, started off like a house afire today but then cooled off as the Brooklyn Dodgers trounced the Pittsburgh Pirates, 12-7.

Wade allowed only one hit and fanned nine men in the first six innings but was tagged for four home runs in the last three frames as Pittsburgh made a belated bid.

The triumph enabled the Dodgers to remain in a first place tie with the New York Giants, who beat Chicago, 9-8.

GIANTS, BUMS TIED FOR LEAD

LOCKMAN HOMER IN EIGHTH STOPS CUB THREAT, 9-8

Dodgers Plaster Pirates, 12 To 7, To Maintain Pace

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Whitey Lockman clouted a two-run homer in the eighth inning today to give the New York Giants a 9-8 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Lockman's pressure blast enabled the Giants to maintain their tie with Brooklyn for the National League lead. The Dodgers already had trounced Pittsburgh, 12-7.

Davey Williams launched the payoff rally by doubling with two out off Bob Kelly, third Chicago pitcher. Lockman followed with his fourth homer to wipe out a 8-7 deficit, caused primarily by the Chicago home runs.

BUMS BLAST BUCS

BROOKLYN, May 17 (AP) — Ben Wade, 29-year-old rookie right-hander of the Brooklyn Dodgers, started off like a house afire today but then cooled off as the Brooklyn Dodgers trounced the Pittsburgh Pirates, 12-7.

Wade allowed only one hit and fanned nine men in the first six innings but was tagged for four home runs in the last three frames as Pittsburgh made a belated bid.

The triumph enabled the Dodgers to remain in a first place tie with the New York Giants, who beat Chicago, 9-8.

LEMON IS FINALLY GIVEN SUPPORT FOR 9 TO 2 WIN

Red Sox Shaded By St. Louis Browns By 2-1 Count

CLEVELAND, May 17 (AP)— The Cleveland Indians gave Pitcher Bob Lemon more runs today than in all six of his previous starts this season by blasting three Washington National pitchers for 16 hits and a 9-2 victory.

The barrage of base hits, which restored to the Indians their two and a half game lead over the second - place Nats, included Homers by Larry Doby, Jim Hegan and Luke Easter, accounting for six runs.

When Lemon shutout St. Louis 1-0 on a two - hitter Sunday, it was the fifth game in which the Tribe scored no more than one run for him. Today they got him off to a four - run lead in the first inning.

Lemon allowed only six hits in hurling his fourth triumph of the season against two setbacks.

Castelanni And Graham Fight To 10-Round Draw

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)— Except for a few slashes around the eyes, nobody got hurted.

That's the story of last night's Madison Square Garden bristling 10 - round draw between Rocky Castellani of Luzerne, Pa. and Irish Billy Graham of New York's east side.

Graham came out with two cut eyes and Castellani had a mark over his left eye. But their reputations remained undamaged.

The kid from the hard coal towns is more firmly established as an improved middleweight. A TKO loss to Ernie Durando Jan. 11 is his only loss in his last 15 starts.

Graham, loser of a bitterly disputed split decision to Kid Gavilan in a welter title bout last August, remains the ranking contender in his own division after a stray into the middle class. Castellani weighted 155 to Graham's 147¾.

Neville, losing to Hahnville in the final yesterday afternoon, will now be able to add the state runner-up trophy to the Tigers' collection of trophies.

You, the People...
Must Make a Purchase Tuesday
You will trade your vote—your trust and your faith—for the management of your city. WHAT you buy will be known by midnight on May 20th. HOW you have bought will not be evident immediately.
There is no "or your vote back" guarantee on your purchase. All sales are final, and you must choose wisely. Select your merchandise as prudently and as thrifty as you do when you shop.
Decide on past performances, on reputation, on the record a man has in business. Ask yourself this question: "Will I get my vote's worth?"
Then go to the polling booth next Tuesday and buy your management.
Remember: You're going to live in the City of Monroe, so treat it as you would your own home. Buy only the best. You'll get the best run for your vote if you do.

LEMON IS FINALLY GIVEN SUPPORT FOR 9 TO 2 WIN

Red Sox Shaded By St. Louis Browns By 2-1 Count

CLEVELAND, May 17 (AP)— The Cleveland Indians gave Pitcher Bob Lemon more runs today than in all six of his previous starts this season by blasting three Washington National pitchers for 16 hits and a 9-2 victory.

You, the People...

Must Make a Purchase Tuesday

You will trade your vote—your trust and your faith—for the management of your city. WHAT you buy will be known by midnight on May 20th. HOW you have bought will not be evident immediately.

There is no "or your vote back" guarantee on your purchase. All sales are final, and you must choose wisely. Select your merchandise as prudently and as thrifty as you do when you shop.

Decide on past performances, on reputation, on the record a man has in business. Ask yourself this question: "Will I get my vote's worth?"

Then go to the polling booth next Tuesday and buy your management.

Remember: You're going to live in the City of Monroe, so treat it as you would your own home. Buy only the best. You'll get the best run for your vote if you do.

The hens, the property of Mrs. Eisner McCollough, were fed growing mash for the first two months and laying mash for the next six. Nothing happened so Mrs. McCollough switched to feeding them corn and table scraps. The hens started laying normal-sized eggs until the recent oversized ones showed up.

DESK, DERRICK CLUB CONVENES

Plans For First National Convention Of Group Hold Interest

Members of the Desk and Derrick Club gathered at Tom Hicks' camp on Cheniere Lake last Wednesday evening for their regular monthly meeting, which featured a barbecue supper and an unusually interesting program. Shelby Cage, of United Gas Corporation, presented a most enlightening film entitled "Dependable Natural Gas Service Doesn't Just Happen." Following the showing of the film, Mr. Cage answered the many questions which it brought forth and discussed various aspects of natural gas production and pipeline construction.

The business meeting was presided over by Club President Louise H. Caldwell, and plans were developed for several projects to be undertaken in the near future. A warm welcome was extended to four new members: Nan Norman and Marjorie Holloway of Sun Oil Company in Delhi, La., and Marie Tolson and Janice Haile of Crescent Drilling Company in Monroe.

Since its organization late last year, the Desk and Derrick Club has enjoyed an interesting series of educational and entertaining programs. Many of the monthly dinner meetings feature guest speakers, each of whom discusses some phase of the oil and gas industry. Among the speakers who have appeared before the organization are John H. Crump, E. T. Nichols and M. W. Montgomery, and Derrick's regional directors.

The Monroe club was recently privileged to join the Jackson and Shreveport Desk and Derrickers on a trip through Sun Oil Company's field at Delhi, La. Upon arrival at Sun's camp a few miles from Delhi, the three clubs were treated to a barbecue prepared and served on the tree-shaded lawn by Sun personnel. The remainder of the day was spent in inspecting Sun's facilities, with employes of the company serving as guides.

On April 1, 1952, the Monroe club, having met all necessary requirements, was granted its certificate of admission into the Association of Desk and Derrick Clubs of North America, which embraces member clubs in all sections of the United States, as well as clubs in Canada.

Claiming the interest of the group at the present time are the plans being made for the first national Desk and Derrick convention to be held in Houston on September 12 and 13. Convention headquarters will be in the Shamrock Hotel, and the two-day meeting promises to be an exciting experience for all Desk and Derrick members. Several members of the Monroe club are planning to attend.

Members of the local club are: Gretchen (Pepper) Bubb, Louise H. Caldwell, Maria Cascio, Allie Marie Coates, Rosemary Colligan, Mary Elizabeth Cornett, Rosalda Fowler, Kiki Gatzoulas, Kay Gillum, Elizabeth Eugenia Goff, Peggy Grigsby, Sara Guy, Janice Haile, Ruth Elaine Hearne, Marjorie Holloway, Dorothy Horton, Mary Humble Fluesmeier, Blanche Langston, Virginia Lolley, Nan Norman, Bertha Patterson, Dorothy Jean Pickens, Helen Renwick, Betty Jo Smith, Ninon Tanguis, Faye Todd, Paula M. BARGAIN DAY IS SLATED MONDAY

Merchants throughout the Twin Cities will observe a Community Bargain Day Monday by offering merchandise at special reduced prices. Sponsored by the retail merchant division of the Monroe-West Monroe Chamber of Commerce, the event is being held prior to Father's Day, graduation and summer vacations, thus given customers to get needed articles at the low prices.

Dave Silverstein, chairman of the retail division, said "the merchants of the Twin Cities are cooperating to give the shopping public of this area, which includes the territory in several parishes adjacent to Monroe and West Monroe some of the best bargains ever offered. They are cooperating with one another to insure one fine goods on bargain for the Community Day.

"Monroe and West Monroe are shopping centers for a radius of nearly 100 miles," he said, adding, "there are more fine stores in the Twin Cities for the size of population than almost any other city of its size in the United States."

According to a national advertising agency, Silverstein pointed out, the local trade area is second in the state of Louisiana for the availability of goods to the shoppers.

Merchants have been preparing for a number of weeks for the event, bringing in a large assortment of stock which will appeal to all persons. Some have pointed out that stocks are larger now than for any previous sale at any time of the year.

BARGAIN DAY IS SLATED MONDAY

Merchants throughout the Twin Cities will observe a Community Bargain Day Monday by offering merchandise at special reduced prices. Sponsored by the retail merchant division of the Monroe-West Monroe Chamber of Commerce, the event is being held prior to Father's Day, graduation and summer vacations, thus given customers to get needed articles at the low prices.

Dave Silverstein, chairman of the retail division, said "the merchants of the Twin Cities are cooperating to give the shopping public of this area, which includes the territory in several parishes adjacent to Monroe and West Monroe some of the best bargains ever offered. They are cooperating with one another to insure one fine goods on bargain for the Community Day.

"Monroe and West Monroe are shopping centers for a radius of nearly 100 miles," he said, adding, "there are more fine stores in the Twin Cities for the size of population than almost any other city of its size in the United States."

According to a national advertising agency, Silverstein pointed out, the local trade area is second in the state of Louisiana for the availability of goods to the shoppers.

Merchants have been preparing for a number of weeks for the event, bringing in a large assortment of stock which will appeal to all persons. Some have pointed out that stocks are larger now than for any previous sale at any time of the year.

Tigerettes To Ring Curtain Down On Biggest Season

Banquet Thursday Night Looms As Impressive And Colorful

Closing one of their most colorful and extensive seasons in years, the Neville Tigerettes will gather together Thursday night at the Virginia Hotel for their traditional banquet. This will mark the closing of one of the most colorful and extensive years ever enjoyed by the colorful group of girls from Neville High School.

The Tigerettes in this 1951-52 session appeared in fall shows not only here in Monroe but in Shreveport, Homer, Haynesville, Ruston, and Baton Rouge. Their extended tour of Baton Rouge for three days will live long in the memory of the girls, for they not only marched at a football game and at Louisiana State University's homecoming festivities, but they enjoyed tours of the entire capital city area for three days. This spring the Tigerettes were anxious not to slow down in the least, and they kept right on going with new and colorful features in their program.

There have been Tigerettes marching and rehearsing the entire year — all in anticipation of bigger and better things this Spring. The girls are currently distributing here in Monroe and over the entire State a colorful booklet depicting their growth and expansion in these past three years. The booklet was one of their new additional features in their program, and was designed and edited entirely by the girls.

The annual spring drills held by the Tigerettes this season were climaxed by their appearance in the 'Holiday In Dixie' in Shreveport April 30. In this gala Shreveport festival the Neville girls were the feature attraction of the opening day both a street show and parade. Returning home, the talented drill group switched their interest from precision drill to their stage show "The South Shall Rise Again'—an all-girl minstrel revue which was presented recently at the Neville auditorium to a packed house. All the 170 members were in this old time minstrel, and the traditions of the Old South were raised again that night by these girls. In addition to all these new and varied activities by the widely - acclaimed group from Neville High School, the Tigerettes will begin distribution this week of their 2,200 Neville Tigerette Community Birth - day calendars here in Monroe.

The funds secured from this clever calendar have been increased to such a large extent in recent seasons that almost the entire Tigerette program is supported by these calendars. These specialists in precision drill have been hard at work the year round, and now Thursday they will close the season officially with their impressive banquet.

The Tigerette banquet has grown to be one of the highlights of the spring season at Neville High School. On hand for their last Tigerette activity will be the thirty graduating Tigerettes. In the best of Tigerette traditions, these thirty seniors will bid adieu to the squads that they have marched in for four years. Graduating from the group are the following girls: Barbara Barker, Dolores Wallace, Katharine Guerriero, Jane Underwood, Georgia Blanchard, Nina Lou Burroughs, Barbara Breckenridge, Elizabeth Cretney, Diane Ducote, Carolyn Peters, Bettye Bamford, Anna Mary Johnson, Jo Ann Rizzo, Barbara Kelso, Terri Sue Tidwell, Roslyn Lubel, Diana Noel, Anne Hornberger, Rosemary McGinn, Jo Ann McDonald, Mary Lou Kern, Kitty Fox, Anne Stratford, Mary Lou Harris, Billie Marie Fincher, Joel Sugar, Amalie Nichols, Barbara Sammons.

Providing a contrast in senti - ments at the banquet Thursday night will be sixty one new Tigerettes who will be formally initiated. As has been the Tigerette tradition for years, each of the new girls will render a musical selection for the entertainment of the old timers. These Tigerettes -to-be have been at work for weeks in preparation for their entertainment of the older girls. The formal installation of officers and initiation have grown through the years to mean more and more to each group as they pass on.

With such a grand season just behind them, the Tigerette ban - quet this Thursday looms as one of the most impressive and colorful.

MRS. JACK HOWARD HOSTESS TO MONROE LITERARY CLUB

The Monroe Literary Club met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. W. L. (Jack) Howard, with Mrs. J. D. Kelly, co-hostess.

Mrs. J. S. Worley, club president, presided, and led the group in reading the club collect. Roll call was answered by each member telling an interesting fact about India. The treasurer, Mrs. A. B. Colmer, and Mrs. A. M. Kite, the chairman of the program committee, reported.

Mrs. D. A. Altick, program chairman, introduced the speaker of the day, Dr. Margaret Coon, who was born in India, and lived there for some years. Dr. Coon is assistant pathologist at the St. Francis Sanitarium.

Dr. Coon reviewed "Interview with India," by John Frederick Muehl. She said in part: "Mr. Muehl is a great admirer of Ghandi, and this book is the story of his adventures and experiences as he interviewed the Hindu population in India, and came face to face with the creed called "Hinduism." He was a guest of the state, but his object was to visit the villages and small towns as well as the state. With his "Coolie" (a low cast Hindu), he moved southward and westward through India, and had an intimate view of the life of the lowly Hindu. He found wretched villages where the entire population lived in utter filth and squalor — with such narrow streets that a pedestrian could touch the sides of the mud wall buildings on both sides of the street at the same time. Animals wandered along with humans, side by side, milling in roads which serve also as open sewers.

Every farmer is destitute and starving. He realizes only one fourth of what he raises, and is constantly in debt. He has no hope of ever getting out of debt to the merchant cast, and accept his fate stoicly. All the farmers live in absolute misery and fear, and never have or expect any enduring joy. They believe their suffering to be retribultion of the gods, and whatever the suffering, it is merited by a former life they lived.

Mr. Muehl found one village on the coast where a group of industrious fishermen lived together — where cleanliness prevailed and where there was enough for all to eat. Communism is well entrenched in India, and one state of India is already entirely Soviet."

Dr. Coon's talk was very well received, and her charming personality added greatly to the pleasure of the afternoon, as she answered many questions about her personal recollection so of India, and about her parents who are missionary workers there at the present time.

The hostesses served summer refreshments to five guests: Dr. Coon, Mrs. Barbara Regan, Mrs. Eloise Cann, Mrs. Morris Phillips, and Mrs. Ivy McDonald, and to the following members: Mrs. J. H. Drake, Mrs. J. S. Worley, Mrs. M. G. Ward, Mrs. A. M. Kite, Mrs. C. E. Coe, Mrs. C. D. McAdams, Mrs J. E. Baugh, Mrs. C. T. Piger, Mrs. D. Girl Scout News

The news these days is all of Fly-Ups and Courts - of Awards, weiner roasts and trips to camp for a day or for an overnight.

Troop 36 almost had the disappointment of not getting to go to camp for the day on Saturday before last. The early morning rain stopped them for awhile, but they finally made it, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Coats, Mrs. Gordon Crawford and Mrs. J. T. Bragan. Probably everybody in town was delighted when the day turned off so cool, but it meant that these Brownies, who had gone out on a truck, had to come back in cars—not half as much fun, we are sure.

Still on the subject of the cool Saturday, we are sure that twenty-four mothers and their scout daughters know why a sweater is always listed as necessary equipment for an overnight. The overnighters on Friday were prepared for the cool Saturday. These girls from the '52 club enjoyed an overnight under the leadership of Mrs. John L. Overton, Mrs. Bill Heffernan and Miss Annis Klie: Jimmie Lee Bamburg, Amy Hood, Frances Ruth Phillips, Louise Lester, Wanda Mouton, Charlotte Pankey, Dar Lynn Gilbert, Sharon Peters, Natalie Roy, Betty Lou Overton Nancy Martin, Barbara McCurry, Doris Sanders, Mary Jo Strausser, Barbara Cloyd, Diane Duffy, Jo Ann Thompson, Linda Cruse, Bobbie Gilbert, Jean Harrell, Linda Peters, Shelley Goodwin.

Troop 32, Mrs. W. H. Luton leader, had a backyard cookout one night last week that seems to have been a great success. As we've said before growing girls like to eat, so the combination of food, and outdoor fire, and good companionship is irresistable.

The mothers of the girls and the council members who attended the Mother's Day tea given by Troop 11 had a good opportunity to see the results of the work done for the past several months in three program fields. No caller could doubt that good training and planning lay behind the perfection that showed in every detail of arrangements. More perfect hostesses we've never seen. Credit reflects up to the adults who worked with the girls and who had the patience to let them do everything themselves.

Coming events for this week that we've heard of are Fly-up ceremonies for Troops 7, 23 and 24 and a court of awards for Troop 2. Troop 10 had its Court of Awards Friday. Next week we'll let you in on the details.

We're enjoying the peak of the Calavo avocado season these days. The fruit is very choice and in perfect condition for salads and sandwiches. Use one that has become too soft for slicing in a salad dressing. Mash the avocado and combine with enough French dressing to give the desired consistency. Try this on a citrus fruit salad.

Jimmie Rose Harrison Fourth Rose Festival Queen In Little Rock

She is the niece of Mrs. J. W. Rushing, 106 Linderman Ave., of West Monroe, Louisiana.

Smiling through tears when notified of her impending coronation she was asked to make a statement.

"I'm so excited I can't talk!" she replied.

A few moments later, preceded by her court, she walked on the auditorium stage and was crowned by Kenneth Lancaster, president of Little Rock Young Business Men's Association, sponsor of the event.

A senior in Little Rock High School, Queen Jimmie Rose is active in outdoor sports and has talent as pianist. Her real hobby however, is sketching, and she plans to enter college and study commercial art.

She was selected from a field of seven princesses. The others were Dixie Sugg, Sarah Grace, Lou Hale, Jane Norton and Nena Crook.

Members of the Festival sponsoring Young Business Men's association made up the judges' panel. On hand for the 8 p. m. contest were the Festival's three earlier queens; Mrs. Flora Carson Young, 1949; Miss Margaret Ann Stubbs, 1950, Miss Eena Schneider, 1951.

Wilma Baxter 14, was named Junior Queen of the Rose Festival and Tommy Ashcraft 15, was selected Junior King. She is the daughter of Mrs. Thelma Baxter of 2017 Spring Street. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Ashcraft of 406 Rock Street. Both are students of East Side Junior High School.

Also in attendance at the show were Mayor A. E. Abernathy of Pasadena, California and Mrs. Abernathy who arrived for the three day Greater Little Rock Festival. The new Rose Queen will return the visit New Year's Day for Pasadena's Tournament of Roses.

The queen candidates were graded on the basis of attractiveness, poise, personality and diction. They appeared in "After Five" dresses furnished by M. M. Cohn Co., and in evening gowns furnished by Pfeifers of Arkansas. Suits worn during the Festival by the princess have been furnished by the Gus Blass Co.

The 1952 Rose Festival Banquet was held at the Hotel Marion and Mayors of Arkansas cities were guests of honor. The annual Queen's Ball climaxed the Festival held in the Auditorium with Shep Fields and his orchestra playing.

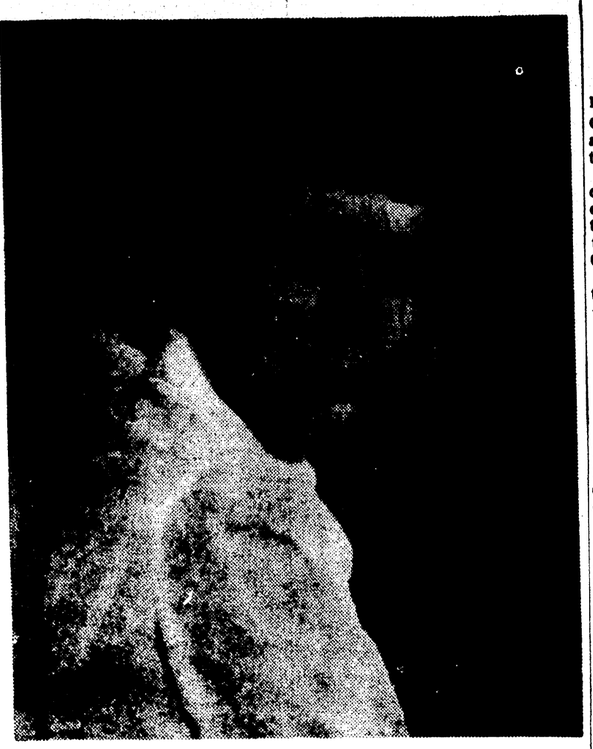
The Queen is widely known in and near Monroe where she has a host of relatives and friends.

CANNING SECRET

PARIS (SF) — Canning of food by the hermetic sealing process was invented in France late in the 16th century, primarily as a move to preserve the food needed to feed Napoleon's armies.

This is a favorite dessert of the young crowd. Turn a baked custard out of its baking cup and serve with a generous topping of chocolate sauce with silvered toasted almonds scattered over the top.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED



Miss Patricia Louise Willis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrell Penny Willis, of Houma, formerly of Monroe, is engaged to Mr. Raymond Anthony Saadi, son of Mr. F. K. Saadi, of Houma. The wedding will take place June 7, at St. Francis de Sales Church in Houma.

The home of Mrs. E. C. Donnell in Crowville was the setting for the miscellaneous bridal shower honoring Miss Sally Harper, of Crowville. Hostesses on the occasion were Mrs. Donnell, Miss Elaine Sills, and Mrs. Phil Killian.

The lovely bride - elect, wearing a trousseau model of pale blue nylon with black accessories, was presented a pink carnation corsage by the hostesses. At one end was the punch bowl presided over by Miss Betty Jo Thornhill who was wearing a pink pique spring model.

The bride - elect received many lovely gifts of a miscellaneous nature, including crystal, china, and silver in her chosen patterns.

Velma Colvin Has Article Published In 'School Arts'

TALLULAH, La., May 16 (Special) — Members of the teaching profession in Madison Parish take justifiable pride in the recognition accorded one of ther co - workers, Miss Velma Colvin, whose contribution to a national art magazine, School Arts, was published in the May issue. The article, "Creative Art in the Third Grade," was based on Miss Colvin's work in her class room during the 1950-51 session and carries a reproduction of a painting of one of her pupils. This interesting and thought provoking discussion reveals the value of art training in school, which "is not to make artists" but to help children realize that they have ideas, can arrange and organize them in visible form, and can receive a great deal of pleasure and satisfaction from creating something worthwhile from their ideas.

A large freshly baked chocolate cupcake makes a good dessert, if you serve it this way. Cut a cone-shaped section from the top of each cake. Fill the hole with whipped cream and finely chopped walnuts and replace the top, pointed side up. A few slices of canned cling peachs arranged on a plate around the bottom of each cake will add even more to its good looks and wonderful taste.

Girl Scout News

The news these days is all of Fly-Ups and Courts - of Awards, weiner roasts and trips to camp for a day or for an overnight.

Troop 36 almost had the disappointment of not getting to go to camp for the day on Saturday before last. The early morning rain stopped them for awhile, but they finally made it, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Coats, Mrs. Gordon Crawford and Mrs. J. T. Bragan. Probably everybody in town was delighted when the day turned off so cool, but it meant that these Brownies, who had gone out on a truck, had to come back in cars—not half as much fun, we are sure.

Still on the subject of the cool Saturday, we are sure that twenty-four mothers and their scout daughters know why a sweater is always listed as necessary equipment for an overnight. The overnighters on Friday were prepared for the cool Saturday. These girls from the '52 club enjoyed an overnight under the leadership of Mrs. John L. Overton, Mrs. Bill Hefferman and Miss Annis Klie: Jimmie Lee Bamburg, Amy Hood, Frances Ruth Phillips, Louise Lester, Wanda Mouton, Charlotte Pankey, Dar Lynn Gilbert, Sharon Peters, Natalie Roy, Betty Lou Overton Nancy Martin, Barbara McCurry, Doris Sanders, Mary Jo Strausser, Barbara Cloyd, Diane Duffy, Jo Ann Thompson, Linda Cruse, Bobbie Gilbert, Jean Harrell, Linda Peters, Shelley Goodwin.

Troop 32, Mrs. W. H. Luton leader, had a backyard cookout one night last week that seems to have been a great success. As we've said before growing girls like to eat, so the combination of food, and outdoor fire, and good companionship is irresistable.

The mothers of the girls and the council members who attended the Mother's Day tea given by Troop 11 had a good opportunity to see the results of the work done for the past several months in three program fields. No caller could doubt that good training and planning lay behind the perfection that showed in every detail of arrangements. More perfect hostesses we've never seen. Credit reflects up to the adults who worked with the girls and who had the patience to let them do everything themselves.

Coming events for this week that we've heard of are Fly-up ceremonies for Troops 7, 23 and 34 and a court of awards for Troop 2. Troop 10 had its Court of Awards Friday. Next week we'll let you in on the details.

Jimmie Rose Harrison Fourth Rose Festival Queen In Little Rock

She is the niece of Mrs. J. W. Rushing, 106 Linderman Ave., of West Monroe, Louisiana.

Smiling through tears when notified of her impending coronation she was asked to make a statement.

"I'm so excited I can't talk!" she replied.

A few moments later, preceded by her court, she walked on the auditorium stage and was crowned by Kenneth Lancaster, president of Little Rock Young Business Men's Association, sponsor of the event.

A senior in Little Rock High School, Queen Jimmie Rose is active in outdoor sports and has talent as pianist. Her real hobby however, is sketching, and she plans to enter college and study commercial art.

She was selected from a field of seven princesses. The others were Dixie Sugg, Sarah Grace, Lou Hale, Jane Norton and Nena Crook.

Members of the Festival sponsoring Young Business Men's association made up the judges' panel. On hand for the 8 p. m. contest were the Festival's three earlier queens; Mrs. Flora Carson Young, 1949; Miss Margaret Ann Stubbs, 1950, Miss Eena Schneider, 1951.

Wilma Baxter 14, was named Junior Queen of the Rose Festival and Tommy Ashcraft 15, was selected Junior King. She is the daughter of Mrs. Thelma Baxter of 2017 Spring Street. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Ashcraft of 406 Rock Street. Both are students of East Side Junior High School.

Also in attendance at the show were Mayor A. E. Abernathy of Pasadena, California and Mrs. Abernathy who arrived for the three day Greater Little Rock Festival. The new Rose Queen will return the visit New Year's Day for Pasadena's Tournament of Roses.

The queen candidates were graded on the basis of attractiveness, poise, personality and diction. They appeared in "After Five" dresses furnished by M. M. Cohn Co., and in evening gowns furnished by Pfeifers of Arkansas. Suits worn during the Festival by the princess have been furnished by the Gus Blass Co.

The 1952 Rose Festival Banquet was held at the Hotel Marion and Mayors of Arkansas cities were guests of honor. The annual Queen's Ball climaxed the Festival held in the Auditorium with Shep Fields and his orchestra playing.

The Queen is widely known in and near Monroe where she has a host of relatives and friends.

NO RAILROADS

Sinkiang province in China has no railroads.

We're enjoying the peak of the Calavo avocado season these days. The fruit is very choice and in perfect condition for salads and sandwiches. Use one that has become too soft for slicing in a salad dressing. Mash the avocado and combine with enough French dressing to give the desired consistency. Try this on a citrus fruit salad.

CANNING SECRET

PARIS (SF) — Canning of food by the hermetic sealing process was invented in France late in the 16th century, primarily as a move to preserve the food needed to feed Napoleon's armies.

This is a favorite dessert of the young crowd. Turn a baked custard out of its baking cup and serve with a generous topping of chocolate sauce with silvered toasted almonds scattered over the top.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Velma Colvin Has Article Published In 'School Arts'

TALLULAH, La., May 16 (Special) — Members of the teaching profession in Madison Parish take jujstifiable pride in the recognition accorded one of ther co - workers, Miss Velma Colvin, whose contribution to a national art magazine, School Arts, was published in the May issue. The article, "Creative Art in the Third Grade," was based on Miss Colvin's work in her class room during the 1950-51 session and carries a reproduction of a painting of one of her pupils. This interesting and thought provoking discussion reveals the value of art training in school, which "is not to make artists" but to help children realize that they have ideas, can arrange and organize them in visible form, and can receive a great deal of pleasure and satisfaction from creating something worthwhile from their ideas.

A large freshly baked chocolate cupcake makes a good dessert, if you serve it this way. Cut a cone-shaped section from the top of each cake. Fill the hole with whipped cream and finely chopped walnuts and replace the top, pointed side up. A few slices of canned cling peachs arranged on a plate around the bottom of each cake will add even more to its good looks and wonderful taste.

Carroll Woman's Club Installs Officers At Meeting

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., May 16 (Special)—Officers installed to serve the Carroll Woman's Club for the 1952-53 club year, at the Thursday meeting, were Mrs. R. S. Reed, president; Mrs. W. B. Ragland, first vice president; Mrs. Grady Wyly, second vice president; Mrs. I. O. Morris, recording secretary; Mrs. M. M. Walsworth, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. H. Maben, treasurer; Mrs. H. T. Van Fossen, editor; Mrs. C. R. Brown, publicity; Mrs. B. L. Eastepp, parliamentarian; Mrs. T. J. Slagle, pianist. Mrs. J. H. Gilfoil, III, was the installing officer and used the installation service framed by Mrs. Iva Miller Holt, a former member. Each officer was presented a shoulder corsage, pinned on by the page, Mrs. William Norris Wyly, and made by Mrs. A. S. Herzog.

Mrs. Gilfoil's remarks to Mrs. Reed were, in part, "Your fellow members have accorded you the highest office within their power to give, and in so honoring you have placed within your keeping the high standing which they as a group enjoy. It will be your duty to maintain this standard by faithful and efficient guidance through the various phases of the year's activities; to bring to the members a wealth of knowledge on the activities of the community and to strive at all times to sustain within your group a true spirit of friendliness."

Mrs. Reed's gracious response proved knowledge of the responsibilities before her, and a determination to carry them through with the assistance of other officers and committee members.

Mrs. Reed appointed the following committee chairmen: Mrs. R. K. Howard, American Homes; Mrs. A. S. Herzog, youth conservation and education department; Mrs. T. J. Slagle, Fine Arts; Mrs. O. S. Brown, legislation; Mrs. Percy Ragland, international relations; Mrs. D. F. Davis, public affairs; Mrs. E. H. Ragus, welfare; Mrs. J. E. Peeler, Clubwoman magazine. Program, Mrs. W. B. Ragland, Mrs. R. N. Amacker, Miss Valera Cammack, Miss Eunyce Howard. Club activities, Mrs. T. J. Slagle, Mrs. Grady Wyly, Mrs. W. H. Maben, Mrs. Charles Herring, Mrs. K. E. Mangum. Finance, Mrs. W. H. Maben, Mrs. W. B. Ragland, Mrs. Grady Wyly. Revision of the constitution, Mrs. J. H. Gilfoil, III, Mrs. W. N. Wyly, Mrs. John Rolfe Howard. The executive board will consist of all elective officers.

In the business session it was voted to adopt the installation ceremony as framed by Mrs. Holt and print it in the year book.

Mrs. Walsworth was authorized to purchase cards and stamps for mailing remembrances to sick and absent members.

Mrs. Herzog was given a rising vote of thanks for making the lovely corsages used in the installation. Mrs. Ragland, outgoing secretary, thanked for her year of faithful service, was presented with a fiber reticule containing a box of stationary by the president. Mrs. Ragland offered her services and assistance to Mrs. I. O. Morris, newly installed secretary. Mrs. W. T. Mitchiner's value as a club member was impressed and all joined the president in her expression of pleasure in having Mrs. Mitchiner a member. Mrs. Herzog, chairman of Allied Youth, sponsored by the club, reported on the recent trip to Fort Worth by six boys of Lake Providence, and the source of information imparted by F. B. I. speakers, ex-football professionals, and heads of Alcoholics Anonymous. Mrs. Reed reported on attendance at the Moral and Civic Foundation meeting in Alexandria, and the value and work of such a group.

Resolution framed by the group to be sent to the next state legislature was: "Resolved that this body believes it to be unsound that a legislator or public official should do business with the state or any subdivision, for a profit. That we ask Governor-elect Kennon, our own legislators and the press to support such legislation in the coming session at Baton Rouge."

The resolution was formed at the request of State Senator M. Eloi Girod, Lafayette, whose campaign was based on fostering legislation that would take away the FAT profits (on the side) out of politics as it is fundamental that the men who make the laws for all the people should not be allowed to make big profits while they are in office. "Public office is a public trust, not the natural road to provate profits," pointed out Senator Girod.

TALLULAH, La., May 16.—(Special)— "Winter Wonderland" was the theme of the banquet at the community club given by the juniors of the Tallulah High School in honor of the graduating seniors. The event was under the direction of Mrs. J. Roy Medlin and Mr. M. A. Phillips, junior class sponsors.

The spacious ball room, entrance hall and lounge had been converted into a veritable winter fairy - land. Snow men stood at every vantage point and reindeer, snow-covered trees and sleds decorated one area. The stage at one end of the ball room had a backdrop of blue sky dotted with silver stars, the moon and a facsimile of "the Northern Lights." On the stage stood an enormous snowman and a silvered tree. Silvered magnolia leaves decorated the mantle and beneath were placed ralistic penguins and several large black seals. An interesting feature was the igloo at the entrance through which guests had to pass in a stooping position before to enter the wonderland.

Tables for the banquet were arranged in the ball room, each covered with a snow white cloth and centered with small silvered branches sparkling with snow and a single white candle. Placecards represented miniature white boots with silver skates and the attrac-ach had a blue cove decorated with a winter scene and a white cotton snow man. Inscribed on the back were the words, "Winter Wonderland, 1952."

John Earl Martin, junior class president welcomed the seniors and Wallace Hargon gave the response. Alta Gwynne Garrison presented the class history; Cecil Forrest, the Prophecy, and Flora Montgomery, the class will. The appropriate "Star Dust" was sung by Helen Logue, and the program was concluded with the entire assembly singing "Winter Wonder - land" as Peggy Brunson and Doc Reardon gave the pantomine presentation of the song.

The classes took this occasion to present gifts to their sponsors. Mrs. Medlin received a mahogany silver chest; Mr. Phillips, a traveling case. Mrs. H. B. Ivy was presented with a tea service; and Mrs. George Addison, a Lazy Susan.

After the banquet the hall was cleared, and as dancing began, four large bags suspended from the ceiling were opened, and quantities of snowballs fell upon the gay dancers, adding much to the merriment of the happy young people. There were over a hundred in attendance.

Freshly baked homemade cupcakes are popular for a picnic dessert. Make the cakes with packaged mix, if you like, and bake them in paper baking cups. Leave the cakes in the cups and frost them. Then dip them frosting-side down in finely chopped walnuts, coating generously with the nuts. These will pack and carry easily and arrive at the picnic in perfect condition.

The Watson Home Demonstration Club Has Celebration

"Fine fellowship and good food go hand in hand when the people of a community desire to meet together." That is exactly what happened when the patrons of Watson School assembled in the cafeteria on Thursday night, in celebration of National Home Demonstration Week. A full evening of entertainment was in store for each one who came for the occasion. Four of Miss Mary Jo Spear's piano students gave selections just before supper was served. At 7:30 p. m. one hundred and fifty guests were served a nice plate supper of chicken, salads, desert, and punch by the twenty five home demonstration women present.

At 8:30 p. m. Mrs. J. G. Peacock, president of the Watson Home Demonstration Club, opened the program with the singing of "America" and a prayer. Mrs. W. J. Kelley, historian, gave some highlights on the work of the home demonstration clubs. She presented the aim and showed what each club did locally, state-wide, nationally, and internationally to carry out this aim.

Carroll Woman's Club Installs Officers At Meeting

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., May 16 (Special)—Officers installed to serve the Carroll Woman's Club for the 1952-53 club year, at the Thursday meeting, were Mrs. R. S. Reed, president; Mrs. W. B. Ragland, first vice president; Mrs. Grady Wyly, second vice president; Mrs. I. O. Morris, recording secretary; Mrs. M. M. Walsworth, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. H. Maben, treasurer; Mrs. H. T. Van Fossen, editor; Mrs. C. R. Brown, publicity; Mrs. B. L. Eastepp, parliamentarian; Mrs. T. J. Slagle, pianist. Mrs. J. H. Gilfoil, III, was the installing officer and used the installation service framed by Mrs. Iva Miller Holt, a former member. Each officer was presented a shoulder corsage, pinned on by the page, Mrs. William Norris Wyly, and made by Mrs. A. S. Herzog.

Mrs. Gilfoil's remarks to Mrs. Reed were, in part, "Your fellow members have accorded you the highest office within their power to give, and in so honoring you have placed within your keeping the high standing which they as a group enjoy. It will be your duty to maintain this standard by faithful and efficient guidance through the various phases of the year's activities; to bring to the members a wealth of knowledge on the activities of the community and to strive at all times to sustain within your group a true spirit of friendliness."

Mrs. Reed's gracious response proved knowledge of the responsibilities before her, and a determination to carry them through with the assistance of other officers and committee members.

Mrs. Reed appointed the following committee chairmen: Mrs. R. K. Howard, American Homes; Mrs. A. S. Herzog, youth conservation and education department; Mrs. T. J. Slagle, Fine Arts; Mrs. O. S. Brown, legislation; Mrs. Percy Ragland, international relations; Mrs. D. F. Davis, public affairs; Mrs. E. H. Ragus, welfare; Mrs. J. E. Peeler, Clubwoman magazine. Program, Mrs. W. B. Ragland, Mrs. R. N. Amacker, Miss Valera Cammack, Miss Eunyce Howard. Club activities, Mrs. T. J. Slagle, Mrs. Grady Wyly, Mrs. W. H. Maben, Mrs. Charles Herring, Mrs. K. E. Mangum. Finance, Mrs. W. H. Maben, Mrs. W. B. Ragland, Mrs. Grady Wyly. Revision of the constitution, Mrs. J. H. Gilfoil. III, Mrs. W. N. Wyly, Mrs. John Rolfe Howard. The executive board will consist of all elective officers.

In the business session it was voted to adopt the installation ceremony as framed by Mrs. Holt and print it in the year book.

Mrs. Walsworth was authorized to purchase cards and stamps for mailing remembrances to sick and absent members.

Mrs. Herzog was given a rising vote of thanks for making the lovely corsages used in the installation. Mrs. Ragland, outgoing secretary, thanked for her year of faithful service, was presented with a fiber reticule containing a box of stationary by the president. Mrs. Ragland offered her services and assistance to Mrs. I. O. Morris, newly installed secretary. Mrs. W. T. Mitchiner's value as a club member was impressed and all joined the president in her expression of pleasure in having Mrs. Mitchiner a member. Mrs. Herzog, chairman of Allied Youth, sponsored by the club, reported on the recent trip to Fort Worth by six boys of Lake Providence, and the source of information imparted by F. B. I. speakers, ex-football professionals, and heads of Alcoholics Anonymous. Mrs. Reed reported on attendance at the Moral and Civic Foundation meeting in Alexandria, and the value and work of such a group.

Resolution framed by the group to be sent to the next state legislature was: "Resolved that this body believes it to be unsound that a legislator or public official should do business with the state or any subdivision, for a profit. That we ask Governor-elect Kennon, our own legislators and the press to support such legislation in the coming session at Baton Rouge."

The resolution was formed at the request of State Senator M. Eloi Girod, Lafayette, whose campaign was based on fostering legislation that would take away the FAT profits (on the side) out of politics as it is fundamental that the men who make the laws for all the people should not be allowed to make big profits while they are in office. "Public office is a public trust, not the natural road to provate profits," pointed out Senator Girod.

Tallulah High School Juniors Give Banquet Honoring Seniors

TALLULAH, La., May 16.—(Special)— "Winter Wonderland" was the theme of the banquet at the community club given by the juniors of the Tallulah High School in honor of the graduating seniors. The event was under the direction of Mrs. J. Roy Medlin and Mr. M. A. Phillips, junior class sponsors.

The spacious ball room, entrance hall and lounge had been converted into a veritable winter fairy - land. Snow men stood at every vantage point and reindeer, snow-covered trees and sleds decorated one area. The stage at one end of the ball room had a backdrop of blue sky dotted with silver stars, the moon and a facsimile of "the Northern Lights." On the stage stood an enormous snowman and a silvered tree. Silvered magnolia leaves decorated the mantle and beneath were placed ralistic penguins and several large black seals. An interesting feature was the igloo at the entrance through which guests had to pass in a stooping position before to enter the wonderland.

Tables for the banquet were arranged in the ball room, each covered with a snow white cloth and centered with small silvered branches sparkling with snow and a single white candle. Placecards represented miniature white boots with silver skates and the attracach had a blue cove decorated with a winter scene and a white cotton snow man. Inscribed on the back were the words, "Winter Wonderland, 1952."

John Earl Martin, junior class president welcomed the seniors and Wallace Hargon gave the response. Alta Gwynne Garrison presented the class history; Cecil Forrest, the Prophecy, and Flora Montgomery, the class will. The appropriate "Star Dust" was sung by Helen Logue, and the program was concluded with the entire assembly singing "Winter Wonder - land" as Peggy Brunson and Doc Reardon gave the pantomine presentation of the song.

The classes took this occasion to present gifts to their sponsors. Mrs. Medlin received a mahogany silver chest; Mr. Phillips, a traveling case. Mrs. H. B. Ivy was presented with a tea service; and Mrs. George Addison, a Lazy Susan.

After the banquet the hall was cleared, and as dancing began, four large bags suspended from the ceiling were opened, and quantities of snowballs fell upon the gay dancers, adding much to the merriment of the happy young people. There were over a hundred in attendance.

The Watson Home Demonstration Club Has Celebration

"Fine fellowship and good food go hand in hand when the people of a community desire to meet together." That is exactly what happened when the patrons of Watson School assembled in the cafeteria on Thursday night, in celebration of National Home Demonstration Week. A full evening of entertainment was in store for each one who came for the occasion. Four of Miss Mary Jo Spear's piano students gave selections just before supper was served. At 7:30 p. m. one hundred and fifty guests were served a nice plate supper of chicken, salads, desert, and punch by the twenty five home demonstration women present.

At 8:30 p. m. Mrs. J. G. Peacock, president of the Watson Home Demonstration Club, opened the program with the singing of "America" and a prayer. Mrs. W. J. Kelley, historian, gave some highlights on the work of the home demonstration clubs. She presented the aim and showed what each club did locally, state-wide, nationally, and internationally to carry out this aim.

Mr. D. E. Owens, school board member, was present and introduced Mr. W. W. Ward, parish school superintendent. After presenting his wife and children, Mr. Ward gave a short talk encouraging the community to stand behind the teachers and help the schools.

MRS. R. B. PILAUT REVIEWS 'JANE MECON' AT MAY MEETING OF THE BONHOMIE BOOK CLUB

The Bonhomie Book Club met in the home of Mrs. A. J. McCready, 1602 North 4th street, with Mrs. Robert Irby as co-hostess.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Hal Quentin Layman, Mrs. E. L. Hoskins, vice president, presided. The meeting was called to order and the club collect read in unison. The roll call and the minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Roland Waldroup, recording secretary. Mrs. A. J. Mc - Cready, corresponding secretary, read a card of thanks from the president for flowers sent during her illness. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. O. C. Lanier. The club voted to donate a sandbox at the present to the Bernatein Park project. Plans for the annual meeting to be held May 24th with Mrs. E. L. Hoskins, 206 Stone avenue, were completed.

After the brief business session, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. R. B. Pilaut, the program chairman. In the absence of Mrs. L. H. Leverette, Mrs. McGee discussed briefly, "Music's Contribution to the American Way of Life." She said in part, music made its contribution long before man had any way of keeping records. Men had music before they knew how to read or write. Their clapping hands and stomping feet were their first musical instruments, the human voice of course, was a very important instrument. Music al - ways had rhythm, regular beat and sound. The sound meant something — because the human body itself is a rhythmic thing. Rhythm is something that people can understand. Music is important to people because it was one way that they could talk to one another. Music was so important to ancient man that he believed his Gods had sent it to him. The oldest civilized people believed that music had come from heaven. Music has helped people share their feelings and to trust each other. All clubs in all states have been asked to stress the raising of the standard of the music in the schools. We consider that the best antidote for fear is the community, musically inspired, singing faith in country, in home and in God.

After this discussion, Mrs. R. B. Pilaut, in a most gracious manner, gave a very intellectual review of the book, "Jane Mecon," Franklin's Favorite Sister, by Carl Van Doren. Mrs. Pilaut says that Carl Van Doren draws a picture of Benjamin Franklin's favorite, but little known sister, Jane Mecon. Carl Van Doren was one of the most versatile of American literary men. His sudden death July 1, 1950, makes one realize how spacious was the place he occupied in American letters. His interest covered many fields, scholar, editor, existing teacher, his own writings included criticism, essays, and an autobiography. No one will quickly forget the charm of his picture of an Illinois boyhood in "Three Worlds," history and biography. The book by which he is best known — his distinguished life of Benjamin Franklin. Crane Brinton said "It was biography in the grand manner."

Mr. Van Doren has done his work — tragically his last work, with all the skill and charm his readers have learned to expect. This unpretentious book is more than a footnote for his big Benjamin Franklin. Mr. Van Doren was too civilized a man to be interested only in the great of his chosen period. Jane Mecon and her humble life, as he knew was as truly a part of America's past as her celebrated brother. It took a sensitive and kindly man as well as a scholarly one to rescue her from oblivion.

Carl Van Doren was, in his own way and century, as American as his beloved Franklin was in his. as American as the middle west that gave him birth or as the New York where so much of his adult life was lived. His abilitiy enteintegrity, his warmth and understanding, his intellectual force and passionate scholarship resulted in a body of work which is his legacy to the American people.

Those present to enjoy the program and the delicious refresh - ments were, Mrs. E. L. Hoskins, Mrs. Oc. Lanier, Mrs. R. B. Pilaut, Mrs. Robert Irby, Mrs. Warren Beard, Mrs Roland Waldroup, Mrs. Geo. Forman, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. A. J. McCready and Mrs. McGee.

Only the family and a few close friends were present at the wedding.

After the ceremony the family and members of the wedding party gathered at the Mariemont Inn in a nearby suburb for a wedding dinner. The table centerpiece was an arrangement of pink roses and white snapdragons.

As main dishes and substituting for meals. In salads, deserts, and appetizers and canapes. She made and served cheese fingers which were quickly made.

The many flavors, colors and interesting shapes of cheese, besides the fact that they are easily digested and cooked make them a valuable addition to our everyday eating. The library has many good cheese cook books on this.

DELTA KAPPA GAMMA ENTERTAINS AT HOME OF MRS. C. C. NELSON

Members of Omega Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma were entertained Saturday afternoon, May 3, in the attractive home of Mrs. C. C. Nelson of Winnsboro with co-hostesses, Mrs. Elaine Stewart and Mrs. Eula Batey.

During the business meeting a report from the chairman of the committee on nominations was read and accepted and the following officers elected to serve for the coming year: President — Miss Marguerite Landis; first vice-president — Miss Kathlyn Goforth; second vice - president — Miss Virginia Johnson; recording secretary —Mrs. W. B. Glover; corresponding secretary — Mrs. L. L. Miller; treasurer — Miss Polly Price; parliamentarian — Mrs. Louis R. Westerburg.

An announcement was made of the national convention of Delta Kappa Gamma on August 11-16, at Chicago, Ill.

Pursuing further the study on Inter-cultural appreciation, a means of promoting harmonious relations among Delta Kappa Gamma chapters, Mrs. Walter Richardson, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Lucille Woolridge, Grayson, and Miss Mamye Louise Wilkes of Columbia who had chosen Sweden and Cuba, respectively, as topics for the afternoon session.

Mrs. Woolridge, in a very forceful manner, explained why 99 per cent of the people in Sweden today are literate. There is a strong bond of close cooperation between the church and the state to promote learning because both institutions, equally alike, sense the value of education in preserving their democratic monarchy form of government. Education has been free and compulsory since 1842 in Sweden and the greatest stride forward for women has been made during the past decade.

Miss Wilkes, in an interesting report on the educational system of Cuba, emphasized the separation of the church and the state there. She further pointed out that the greatest progress in schools had been made since 1902 after Cuba was liberated from Spain in 1898 and set up her Republican form of government and the national state took charge. On a comparative basis, salaries are much lower in Cuba, school terms longer; yet greater emphasis is placed upon personal hygiene, medical examinations, and special provisions for handicapped children.

Members of Omega Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma were entertained Saturday afternoon, May 3, in the attractive home of Mrs. C. C. Nelson of Winnsboro with co-hostesses, Mrs. Elaine Stewart and Mrs. Eula Batey.

During the business meeting a report from the chairman of the committee on nominations was read and accepted and the following officers elected to serve for the coming year: President — Miss Marguerite Landis; first vice-president — Miss Kathlyn Goforth; second vice - president — Miss Virginia Johnson; recording secretary —Mrs. W. B. Glover; corresponding secretary — Mrs. L. L. Miller; treasurer — Miss Polly Price; parliamentarian — Mrs. Louis R. Westerburg.

An announcement was made of the national convention of Delta Kappa Gamma on August 11-16, at Chicago, Ill.

Pursuing further the study on Inter-cultural appreciation, a means of promoting harmonious relations among Delta Kappa Gamma chapters, Mrs. Walter Richardson, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Lucille Woolridge, Grayson, and Miss Mamye Louise Wilkes of Columbia who had chosen Sweden and Cuba. respectively, as topics for the afternoon session.

Mrs. Woolridge, in a very forceful manner, explained why 99 per cent of the people in Sweden today are literate. There is a strong bond of close cooperation between the church and the state to promote learning because both institutions, equally alike, sense the value of education in preserving their democratic monarchy form of government. Education has been free and compulsory since 1842 in Sweden and the greatest stride forward for women has been made during the past decade.

Miss Wilkes, in an interesting report on the educational system of Cuba, emphasized the separation of the church and the state there. She further pointed out that the greatest progress in schools had been made since 1902 after Cuba was liberated from Spain in 1898 and set up her Republican form of government and the national state took charge. On a comparative basis, salaries are much lower in Cuba, school terms longer; yet greater emphasis is placed upon personal hygiene, medical examinations, and special provisions for handicapped children.

Miss Helen Ernestine Morgan Weds Thelbert Eugene Holtzclaw

Bridal Couple Exchange Vows Of Impressive Service At Rayville Methodist Church

At six o'clock in the evening on Friday, May 9, in the Rayville Methodist Church, Miss Helen Ernestine Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morgan of Rayville, became the bride of Mr. Thelbert Eugene Holtzclaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Holtzclaw of Ruston.

The beautiful sanctuary of the church was softly flooded by chords of nuptial music, masterfully rendered by Mr. Raymond Bolton at the richly toned pipe organ. The beauty of the church itself was enhanced by a background of more than one hundred gleaming cathedral tapers, which accented the Gothic lines of the sanctuary and which were lighted by surpliced acolytes, Bobby Calvert and Ray Cox.

Basket standards of white gladioli and fern were placed in the chancel, forming a floral background for the wedding scene, and focusing dramatic interest on the lovely white altar. White gladioli, tied with white ribbons, marked each pew.

The bride's attendants were identically attired in gowns of white organdy over aqua taffeta. These were fashioned with a moulded bodice and a wide V neckline, accented by a deep bertha of eyelet organdy. The bouffant gathered skirts had a deep band of the embroidered organdy forming a peplum effect in a deep V. They wore bandeaus of aqua lilacs across the back of their hair, and the pale aqua of their ensembles was perfectly accentuated by crescent bouquets of Red Delight roses with wide satin ribbon streamers of aqua, backed by loops of the same ribbon. Serving her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Robert Calvert, and Miss Josephine Mendolia and Mrs. Allen Buie were bridesmaids.

The little flower girl, Betty Calvert, niece of the bride, wore a full skirted white organdy frock, trimmed in eyelet embroidered organdy, with a sash of agua satin ribbon. She wore a bandeau of nylon with stephanotis on each side, and carried a small nosegay of Red Delight roses and stephanotis, tied with aqua ribbon.

Serving his brother as best man was James N. Holtzclaw. Groomsmen were John Morris, Jr., and Bernard Waite, with Robert Calvert and W. L. Yancey, Jr., as ushers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in traditional white, accented by the pearl and diamond sunburst brooch which was the wedding gift of her father to her mother, and worn by both her mother and her sister on their wedding gowns.

For her wedding day the bride chose a gown of white organdy over taffeta, fashioned with a moulded bodice and a decollete neckline filled in with a nude illusion yoke, outlined by a band of shirred eyelet embroidered organdy. Tiny covered buttons extended down the back to the deep V waistline marked by a narrow hand rolled cord. Short ledge sleeves were complemented by mitts of white organdy which tapered to petal points over her hands. The extremely full gathered skirt was accented by a deep V band of eyelet embroidered organdy which formed an apron effect in front and extended to the back of the skirt and down the length of the graceful fan-shaped train in two wide panels.

Her veil of imported French illusion extended in layers beyond her fingertips from a crownless calot of eyelet embroidered organdy. Her bridal bouquet was of phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis.

The bride's parents were hosts at a reception after the wedding at their home, the entire lower floor of which was beautifully decorated with floral arrangements of white stock, gladioli and candytuft. Receiving with the bridal couple and their bridesmaids were Mrs. Morgan becomingly attired in a floor length model of peacock blue crepe with hat and gloves of pink, and corsage of gardenias, and Mrs. Holtzclaw, in mauve lace with a matching flowered hat, aqua gloves and a corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. Lasley Richardson presided over the silver punch bowl at the beautifully appointed bridal table, covered by white damask and centered with white roses and snapdragons. Specimen gardenias accented each of the four corners, and the highlight of interest was the three-tiered wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom. Flanking the centerpiece glowing tapers in silver candelabra, each candle tied with bows of tulle holding a small spray of lillies of the valley.

Assisting in extending the courtesies were Mrs. Weekley Bradford, Miss Ruth Whatley, Mrs. Carey Ellis, Jr., Mrs. W. M. Green, Mrs. Bernard Waite, Mrs. Lee Ineichen, and Miss Nitsey Guynes. Mrs. Oliver Lowery was in charge of the guest book.

Mrs. Holtzclaw wore for traveling, a suit of navy pima cloth, with matching accessories, and a corsage of white orchids, when the newly married couple left for a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast. They will return soon to make their home in Rayville.

Mrs. Holtzclaw is an alumna of Stephens College and the University of Arkansas. Mr. Holtzclaw received his bachelor's degree from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and his Masters degree from the University of Arkansas. He now holds the position of assistant superintendent of schools with the Richland Parish school system.

Miro Book Club Members Plan May Luncheon Meeting

Final Social Event Of Club Year Will Be Held At Lotus Club

The regular meeting of the Miro Book Club was held in the home of Mrs. R. L. Wood, at 2:30 p. m., Monday.

Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, president, presided over a full membership meeting. The Collect was read in unison and the Salute to the flag was led by the president who, then, graciously welcomed the new member, Mrs. Roy Cole. The various committee chairmen were enthusiastic in reporting on their different assignments.

Mrs. Mulhearn expressed her appreciation for the cooperation she has received from her many chairmen, to whom she attributed the success of the past year. Mrs. Moore, moved that a rising vote of thanks be given to Mrs. Mulhern and her staff in recognition of the able leadership to which was due the enthusiasm of all the members of the Miro Book Club toward any project during the past year. This mark of appreciation was graciously received by Mrs. Mulhern who promised the continuation of her support and cooperation in any project of the club for the next year.

The next meeting, the last, May 19, will be a luncheon meeting held at the Lotus Club with Miss Frances Flanders as a guest of the club. This will be a social meeting, and Mrs. Mulhern requested the members to forget books and programs, also to come in party attire with all responsibilities brushed aside and exchange ideas for summer plans; in short to thoroughly enjoy the one social meeting which brings to a close an interesting and successful year's work.

When all business was expedited, Mrs. Mulhern turned the meeting over to Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, program chairman. Mrs. Tidwell prefaced her remarks on the program by asking the whole hearted support of the club for the success of the library tax and then, presented the library film in color.

This proved to be most interesting, seeing the vast amount of work accomplished in the library and especially to see the eager faces of those visiting the library fully aware that they can find any type of information they seek whether it is the deeper subjects of good reading or the lighter fiction which is read purely for pleasure. It was interesting to note children being trained in the art of good reading for mind development and then, in contrast to find some who are very aged finding pleasure and relaxation in the twilight of their life by reading good books. The Bookmobile on arrival at the scheduled points brought crowds of eager readers to secure their part from this educational storehouse of information.

Mrs. Tidwell, next, presented Mrs. D. M. Moore and Mrs. John Pracher who gave in narrative form "Civic Participation in Our Community."

Mrs Moore explained in a short introductory remark why the subject was not given as a Forum, the true element of which being discussions on the topics presented. The careful research work done along with the statistics given elicited no question but a most intent attention of the listeners. Here are some of the informations the members brought away with them. Mrs. Moore opened her talk by a very enlightening remark: Believing that widespread and continued participation of citizens in government is essential in a democracy and believing that informations must precede participation, an attempt is made to give briefly the structures and operations of city government and some of its enterprises. Her subjects were: Our City Government, Utilities, an outline on Public Health and the Benefits to our Entire Parish Population of 74,276. Finances and its sources in order to support our city were quoted from the figures of the last audit. The city operates under a commission government. Our charter under Act 47 of 1900 as amended by state legislature of Louisiana and the commission form of government act of 1912 and the revised statute of 1950. This commission government has jurisdiction over all municipal problems and when its council meets, its meetings are open to the public.

We operate certain services jointly with special governmental agencies such as health department. A city budget is prepared by the city commission. The money appropriated by the city council is subject to the authority of the state law and limited by state legislature. Our money comes from a general tax fund. Most interesting details for any Monroe citizen were given.

Mrs. Moore, then, introduced Mrs. Pracher who told of fire and police protection and "transportation," giving authentic informations furnished from each of these departments. The speaker then displayed a map of the city showing the exact location of the fire stations, telling us why the changes are being made. Mrs. Pracher further explained how these men are selected, how they must stand a civil examination before being employed. The Merit system assures us of better qualified employees. The Civic Participation program was brought to a close with "Transportation." The transportation system is nearly always in the red and has to receive help from the general fund. Plans for the improvement in this particular work are under way and promise to be very successful in changing its present color red to black.

The social hour followed this very important talk. Mrs. Wood served a delicious salad course and was assisted in the afternoon's courtesies by her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Atkinson and her two attractive granddaughters, Linda and Mary Ann.

Those attending were: Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. J. W. Murphey, Mrs. A. B. Myatt, Mrs. George Temple, Mrs. Roy Cole, Mrs. Irving Wolff, Mrs. F. L. A Man Who Builds And Gives Service

THIS IS THE SECOND OF A SERIES OF ARTICLES STATING THE FACTS REGARDING THE IMPROVEMENT OF MONROE'S PUBLIC UTILITIES.

THE STORY OF THE IMPROVEMENT OF MONROE'S ELECTRIC POWER DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM

When I took office some four yeors ago the Electric Power Distribution System was over loaded and in a run-down condition. Today, the majority of the improvements recommended by Ford, Bacon and Davis have been accomplished and all improvements recommended will be completed at an early date and there will be no low voltoge area in our city.

When I took office there was only one 13,000 volt feeder line from the Power Plant to the business area of our city which extended down North Sixth Street from the Power Plant to the business area. We now have four additional 13,000 volt feeder lines from the Power Plant to the business area. Two new lines down the bank of the Ouachita River to the business area. A new line from the Plant to Forsythe Avenue and along Forsythe Avenue to Eighteenth Street, thence to DeSiard and west to the business area. A new line from the Power Plant down North Eighth and North Tenth Streets to the business area.

Three new 1500 KVA substations have been installed. One at the intersection of Breard Street and the Ouachita River, another at Mississippi and Alabama streets, and another at Texas Avenue and South Fourth Streets.

Many other distribution line improvements have been made such as the installation of twenty - two new automatic capacitors throughout the system for the purpose of correcting and maintaining the power factor. Mony miles of new lines have been constructed, including nine miles of 2400 volt lines, fifty-three miles of lines for new service, and 150 miles of lines have been rebuilt, as well as the construction of nearly three miles of underground lines throughout the business district.

In addition, two way short-wave radio equipment has been installed in aur maintenance trucks and cars in order to better meet conditions in emergencies.

All electricity is presently metered with the exception of that used by the City of Monroe ond aur city schools, which is accurately accounted for. A system of inspection and repair of electric meters is now in operation.

The Electric Distribution System is in first class condition and adequate ta serve a growing Manroe.

All this without any additional tax.

Promises are easy; this is performance. Vote for a man who hos proven himself as a man of progress andi who pledges himself to continue to improve and aperate your utilities on a business basis with the best possible service to the Public.

A Man Who Builds And Gives Service

THE STORY OF THE IMPROVEMENT OF MONROE'S ELECTRIC POWER DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM

When I took office some four years ago the Electric Power Distribution System was over loaded and in a run-down condition. Today, the majority of the improvements recommended by Ford, Bacon and Davis have been accomplished and all improvements recommended will be completed at an early date and there will be no low voltage area in our city.

When I took office there was only one 13,000 volt feeder line from the Power Plant to the business area of our city which extended down North Sixth Street from the Power Plant to the business area. We now have four additional 13,000 volt feeder lines from the Power Plant to the business area. Two new lines down the bank of the Ouachita River to the business area. A new line from the Plant to Forsythe Avenue and along Forsythe Avenue to Eighteenth Street, thence to DeSiard and west to the business area. A new line from the Power Plant down North Eighth and North Tenth Streets to the business area.

Three new 1500 KVA substations have been installed. One at the intersection of Breard Street and the Ouachita River, another at Mississippi and Alabama streets, and another at Texas Avenue and South Fourth Streets.

Many other distribution line improvements have been made such as the installation of twenty - two new automatic capacitors throughout the system for the purpose of correcting and maintaining the power factor. Many miles of new lines have been constructed, including nine miles of 2400 volt lines, fifty-three miles of lines for new service, and 150 miles of lines have been rebuilt, as well as the construction of nearly three miles of underground lines throughout the business district.

In addition, two way short-wave radio equipment has been installed in our maintenance trucks and cars in order to better meet conditions in emergencies.

All electricity is presently metered with the exception of that used by the City of Monroe and our city schools, which is accurately accounted for. A system of inspection and repair of electric meters is now in operation.

The Electric Distribution System is in first class condition and adequate to serve a growing Monroe.

All this without any additional tax.

Promises are easy; this is performance. Vote for a man who has proven himself as a man of progress and who pledges himself to continue to improve and operate your utilities on a business basis with the best possible service to the Public.

Because ripe olives are always high on the list of favorite foods at our house, we often start off a guest dinner with an olive cocktail. Cut pitted ripe olives into quarters and combine with an equal amount of sliced celery. Serve in cocktail glasses with a generous topping of your favorite cocktail sauce and a sprinkling of finely chopped chives.

If scrambled eggs are on the menu for next Sunday morning's brunch, try them this way for a real treat. Cook the egg - milk mixture over low heat until soft and creamy. Then cut a Calavo avocado into bite - sized cubes and stir into the eggs. Remove from heat immediately and serve hot.

For sprung luncheons we like to serve our pretties' salads. This one is easy to do. Put two golden canned cling peach halves together with a ball of softened cream cheese in the middle. GIRL SCOUT TROOP ENTERTAINS WITH TEA AT KELLOGG HOME

Throughout the reception rooms were flower arrangements of daisies, yellow calla lilies and sweet William. These were the work of the girls who had worked on a flower badge.

The 23 girls of the troop, wearing pastel evening dresses and corsages which they had made, alternated in the receiving line, in serving in the dining room, and in showing exhibits. On display were the notebooks made by the group working on the hostess badge. These showed what the girls had learned about silver and china and table arrangements.

The group working on the wild flower badge had notebooks showing the 25 or more flowers each girl had learned from actual observation. Besides flowers, there were a few common weeds and a few herbs the girls had learned to recognize.

A third display was made up of sketches and paintings made by the girls who worked on the drawing and painting badge. On a poster were the badges which were awarded the girls after the guests had gone.

Invited guests were mothers of the girls, members and leaders of troop 10, and members of the Girl Scout Council. Leaders of the troop, Mrs. Paul Blackmon, Mrs. Frank Smith and Mrs. Seymour Solomon, assured the guests that girls of the refreshment committee had made the dainty sandwiches and cookies themselves and with a grownup to advise, had shopped for the things they could not make.

GIRL SCOUT TROOP ENTERTAINS WITH TEA AT KELLOGG HOME

Throughout the reception rooms were flower arrangements of daisies, yellow calla lilies and sweet William. These were the work of the girls who had worked on a flower badge.

The 23 girls of the troop, wearing pastel evening dresses and corsages which they had made, alternated in the receiving line, in serving in the dining room, and in showing exhibits. On display were the notebooks made by the group working on the hostess badge. These showed what the girls had learned about silver and china and table arrangements.

The group working on the wild flower badge had notebooks showing the 25 or more flowers each girl had learned from actual observation. Besides flowers, there were a few common weeds and a few herbs the girls had learned to recognize.

A third display was made up of sketches and paintings made by the girls who worked on the drawing and painting badge. On a poster were the badges which were awarded the girls after the guests had gone.

Invited guests were mothers of the girls, members and leaders of troop 10, and members of the Girl Scout Council. Leaders of the troop, Mrs. Paul Blackmon, Mrs. Frank Smith and Mrs. Seymour Solomon, assured the guests that girls of the refreshment committee had made the dainty sandwiches and cookies themselves and with a grownup to advise, had shopped for the things they could not make.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE CITY OF MONROE

I am asking your support and your vote in my candidacy for election to the office of Mayor of the City of Monroe. I have served as your Mayor since November 17, 1949 and in that period of time you have had an opportunity to see and know the changes which have been made in our City. I am proud of my record as your Mayor. I am promising you that I shall continue the constructive program in which we are now engaged and that I shall give the same careful consideration to every new problem and shall work with your elected officials toward a proper solution of these problems. During the past few weeks there has been a rather wilful distortion of the present City Administration, but you will recall that not a one of the misrepresentations was in any sense backed up by facts. I believe the people of the City of Monroe will pass judgement on my administration by looking at the true facts. Since November of 1949 the City of Monroe has gone forward with tremendous strides and I have a natural interest in completing the program of work which was commenced during my administration. In order that you may know my attitude and position on these matters, I am listing them below:

1) COMPLETION OF THE SEWERAGE SYSTEM:

At the time I assumed office the people of Monroe demanded sewerage and I took immediate steps to give our citizens the benefits to which they were entitled. The Bond Issue was initiated and approved by the people after I assumed the office of Mayor. The work on sewerage has been largely completed during my term of office and I am asking the opportunity to finish that job and I think the people of Monroe know the benefits in good health and sanitation that will come out of this long delayed program.

2) COMPLETION OF WATER PLANT AND WATER DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM:

At the time I assumed the office of Mayor, the Water Plant and the Water Distribution System was facing an emergency condition, both as to purity of water and adequate water for fire protection. I started my work through a Citizens' Committee and the contracts have now been let and the plans of the engineers completed and that work is ready to go forward at this time.

Purification of our water has been completed and we have been removed from the black list of the Interstate railroad carriers and I believe the people of this city are well aware that the improvements which we are making have been needed for the last twenty-five years but have never before been afforded by any City Administration.

3) COMPLETION OF ELECTRICAL DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM:

The people of Monroe know the work which had to be done on the Municipal Power Plant and this work was started by the late Mayor George E. Breece but was completed under my administration and we now have the finest plant in the South and an adequate reserve of power for many years to come. We are still working on the electrical distribution system, the engineering plans have been made and your Administration is ready to complete the work.

4) RAILROAD OVERPASS PROBLEM:

In the years since 1949 I have been working with City officials, State officials and Federal officials in an effort to bring about a proper solution of this problem. The cost will be tremendous. Some streets may have to be relocated and the City would have to condemn very valuable commercial property. My opponents speak of this problem as one which can be solved overnight, but such is not the case. I am opposed to any further taxes on our people and I do not want to see them act on any bond issue which involves unreasonable costs. I am just as much interested in this problem as any citizen of Monroe and I believe that within the next four-year period we will be able to solve this problem, and as your Mayor I shall make every effort toward that end.

5) CONTINUED EXTENSION AND BEAUTIFICATION OF PUBLIC GROUNDS:

During my term as your Mayor we have made great improvements in the public properties of the City and have added beauty to its parks. You can see the evidence of this work as you drive through Forsythe Park and Bernstein Park and you can see that we are still at work. At the present time the City is developing a park in the east side of the City for our colored people and this will include full recreational facilities and a swimming pool, with the same beautification as in our other parks.

6) CONTINUED IMPROVEMENT OF CITY SCHOOLS:

The people of Monroe well know the condition in which our schools found themselves in the immediate post-war years. There was simply not space to take care of the children. There had been no real construction of schools in more than twenty years. During my term as your Mayor we made a complete survey of the School System and we have started a construction program which will total $2,500,000.00 and which will give our schools adequate facilities not only for the present time but for many years to come. This work needed to be done, it had not been done and it is now in a partially completed stage and can and should be finished with the same efficiency involved to date.

7) PUBLIC HEALTH AND RECREATION:

During my term of office there has been an increased budget for our City Health Department, and Doctor Carroll Summers, our Chief Health Officer, has been able to obtain additional help and has carried out a constructive program. Sanitation throughout the City has been improved, and for the first time garbage is handled through covered vehicles rather than in the old open vehicles and we have additional plans for continued mosquito control and have continued sanitation throughout the City.

8) CONTINUED IMPROVEMENT OF FIRE DEPARTMENT:

During the past four years we have greatly increased fire protection in the City of Monroe, and you should be aware of that fact by the decrease in your fire insurance premiums. Ask the Ouachita Parish Insurance Exchange what this amounts to in your case. The Citizens' Committee presently has charge of the final expansion of this program and is expending $650,000.00 and when this work is completed, this City can meet every test imposed by the State and National Board of Fire Underwriters. This work was undertaken during my administration and I would like the opportunity of continuing with the Citizens' Committee and seeing it completed. The efficiency of the members of the Monroe Fire Department is known and cited through the entire South and with their training and experience we are in a fortunate position.

9) CONTINUED EXPANSION OF POLICE DEPARTMENT:

Since assuming office, there have been a considerable number of employees added to the Police Department, and the entire second floor of the City Hall has been modernized to afford fully adequate office space and this floor is occupied entirely by the Police Department and the City Court. There have been steady purchases of new equipment and we have established an identification bureau. We have instituted schools of instruction for the training of our officers. Continued expansion of our program will require additional finances but it is our intention to maintain the Police Department to afford efficient and impartial enforcement of law in this City.

10) COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY:

We are acutely aware that we must interest commerce and industry in this area and we have rendered every courtesy to new industry and shall continue to work with their officials and with the groups who are making inspection tours of this area.

11) CONTINUED TRAFFIC IMPROVEMENTS:

The last four years have seen the first really sincere effort to improve traffic on the streets of this City and we have consulted State and Federal authorities in an effort to work out a proper handling of traffic. It may be that we shall have to learn from experience but certainly the people of Monroe know what has been accomplished in the last few years and we ask their counsel and advice in this matter. During my administration North Third Street and North Fourth Street have been widened and now serve as important arteries for traffic. We have plans for the same type of widening on other streets and this is the first comprehensive action along such lines since Monroe became a City.

12) GOOD FEELING BETWEEN CAPITAL AND LABOR:

The City has a working agreement with all its employees and the City has lived up to agreements and I believe that we have a more loyal and efficient group of municipal employees than is found in most cities. The Legislature of Louisiana has passed an enabling act to allow pension plans for municipal employees and we have met with various groups of employees and it is our hope that we may soon be able to set up a wise and properly financed pension plan for our employees. Through the appointment of Citizens' Committees we have had a happy blending of business men, professional men, representatives of the trades and ladies of our city in working out our City problems. These groups have worked with the public interest at heart rather than selfish aims.

13) MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM:

The construction of a Municipal Auditorium has been recommended by the City Recreation Committee and by many other business groups, and we had started our plans toward that direction when construction was restricted by the Korean War. We believe that Monroe needs a Municipal Auditorium and we shall watch construction developments closely and take such steps as may be allowed under existing regulations.

JOHN E. COON

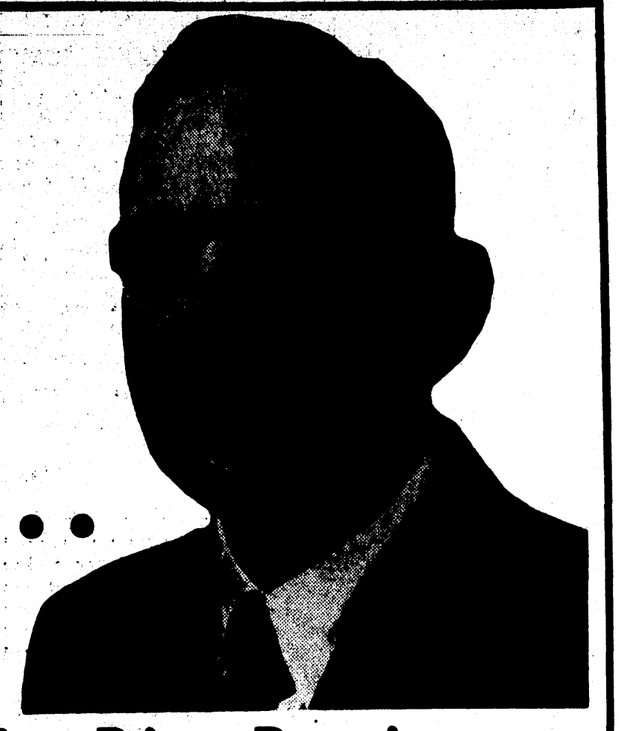
MAYOR OF MONROE

LET'S TALK FRANKLY...



City Business is Big Business
It's Also Your Business

DID YOU KNOW?

Because of poor business administration, the City of Monroe will have $416,000.00 less this year than before to spend on its regular operations. That amount is pledged annually out of the earnings of the power plant to pay our new bonded debt. This amounts to about 1/5 of the City's regular income.

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?

Unless the operation of the City's business is put on a sound basis—like any business should—the City will need more funds for its routine operations. I am opposed to additional taxes in any form, and so are you. This means that we must practice strict economy, and stop spending more than we make. We must eliminate the "unaccounted for" water, the waste of electricity, and the losses in our bus system. Unless these things are done, we face more trouble.

HOW DO YOU WANT THE CITY RUN?

On a political basis? I think not, and for that reason, ask for your vote and support. I propose to operate the City's electric, water and bus systems as any business SHOULD be run; to get the City out of the RED and into the BLACK.

STATEMENT OF FRED F. MILLSAPS

I am an independent candidate, and have made no promise to anyone except to give Monroe the best administration of which I am capable and to devote my full time to the office if elected.

I have lived in this community all of my life. My entire business experience of forty-one years, all in Monroe, has been devoted to the care and custody of money entrusted to me by thousands of citizens of Monroe and environs. I stand upon my reputation for character and ability.

I think you will agree that my experience and training gives me greater qualifications than any other candidate to handle the city's finances. If elected I will seek to accomplish the following:

1. A careful supervision of all meters to be sure that all citizens pay according to the city's rates. Application of commercial or domestic rates where they rightfully apply.
2. Inaugurate a program to do away with our wasteful method of city lighting, thereby reducing the amount of current used for city lighting by three-fourths and providing better illumination.
3. Eliminate the wastage in our water system by repairing leaks and proper metering.
4. Overhaul our bus system in order to put it on a paying basis.
5. Install a central purchasing department for the city which will make all purchases on competitive bids, according to law.
6. Join in the appointment of a City Advisory Committee.
7. Manage the city's finances on a sensible, businesslike basis.
8. Operate the city's utilities as you would operate your business—to provide dividends, and not as a political machine.

College Heights Garden Club Members Enjoy Morning Meeting

Event Held At Bayou Home Of Mrs. J. W. Swift Mrs. W. E. Whetstone Is Guest Speaker At May

The College Heights Garden Club met on May 8th on the bayou terrace at the home of Mrs. J. W. Swift, an honorary member of the club. Mrs. Swift, as Assistant Home Demonstration agent for the parish, furnishes the garden clubs of the area with a valuable horticulture report each month and is most helpful at all times with programs and in helping to settling any problem which may arise.

Mrs. Walter E. Knapp, presided as the new president and as her first official act, presented the past-president, Mrs. Edwin Rowan, with a gold Alladin's lamp with philodendron growing at the base. New members introduced at this time were Mrs. L. B. Breed and Mrs. W. V. Roy, Mrs. W. O. Webb was welcomed as a guest.

Mrs. W. E. Whetstone presented the program for the day on corsages in a very interesting and informative manner. She had a large chart showing detailed steps in corsage making explaining each step as she went along. She also said that corsages may be made with almost any lovely flower but that beauty is only one of the necessities. The lasting quality of the flower and durability of the corsage must be taken into account. Never use freshly cut blooms. Give them a cold drink for about four hours because after the corsage is made they get no more water. During the conditioning time the petals and other parts drink all the water they can hold. Wet cotton patted on is also helpful.

There are two basic types of corsages; the backbone type and the nosegay, or bunch type.

Mrs. Whetstone discussed and demonstrated the wiring and taping of different types of flowers. She showed in detail how to assemble the backbone and nosegay types of corsages, a tailored cluster type and a wristlet type.

Feathering any long petaled flower was demonstrated. This is done by pinching off a few of the long petals, taping them together giving the appearance of a complete smaller flower. Mrs. Whetstone also detailed the construction of the Glamelia, which is made of gladioli blossoms and looks like a camelia and is very beautiful and popular corsages.

This program was enjoyed very much by Mrs. Larkin Breed, Mrs. Alfred Brin, Mrs. J. M. Gilstrap, Mrs. Raymond John, Mrs. J. R. Kirb, Mrs. W. E. Knapp, Mrs. Culbert Lee, Mrs. G. W. Levert, Mrs. J. C. Loftin, Mrs. W. M. Love, Mrs. Paul Peck, Mrs. Vann Pratt, Mrs. E. C. Rowan, Mrs. W. V. Roy, Mrs. Herbert Walker, Mrs. W. E. Whetstone and Mrs. S. L. Williams.

"On Thanksgiving Day, Max Winkler, a naturalized citizen, meditates and recalls the many things he has to be thankful for. That one day never seems to be enough to absorb all his thoughts of gratitude and all his memories, sad and bitter, gay and bright. He worked from the basement up to the ownership of the publishing company."

"He said if he should ever be born again he would gladly go through all of it once more, and if that should ever happen, please God, be sure and let him marry the same girl again."

The College Heights Garden Club met on May 8th on the bayou terrace at the home of Mrs. J. W. Swift, an honorary member of the club. Mrs. Swift, as Assistant Home Demonstration agent for the parish, furnishes the garden clubs of the area with a valuable horticulture report each month and is most helpful at all times with programs and in helping to settling any problem which may arise.

Mrs. Walter E. Knapp, presided as the new president and as her first official act, presented the past-president, Mrs. Edwin Rowan, with a gold Alladin's lamp with philodendron growing at the base. New members introduced at this time were Mrs. L. B. Breed and Mrs. W. V. Roy, Mrs. W. O. Webb was welcomed as a guest.

Mrs. W. E. Whetstone presented the program for the day on corsages in a very interesting and informative manner. She had a large chart showing detailed steps in corsage making explaining each step as she went along. She also said that corsages may be made with almost any lovely flower but that beauty is only one of the necessities. The lasting quality of the flower and durability of the corsage must be taken into account. Never use freshly cut blooms. Give them a cold drink for about four hours because after the corsage is made they get no more water. During the conditioning time the petals and other parts drink all the water they can hold. Wet cotton patted on is also helpful.

There are two basic types of corsages, the backbone type and the nosegay, or bunch type.

Mrs. Whetstone discussed and demonstrated the wiring and taping of different types of flowers. She showed in detail how to assemble the backbone and nosegay types of corsages, a tailored cluster type and a wristlet type.

Feathering any long petaled flower was demonstrated. This is done by pinching off a few of the long petals, taping them together giving the appearance of a complete smaller flower. Mrs. Whetstone also detailed the construction of the Glamelia, which is made of gladioli blossoms and looks like a camelia and is very beautiful and popular corsages.

This program was enjoyed very much by Mrs. Larkin Breed, Mrs. Alfred Brin, Mrs. J. M. Gilstrap, Mrs. Raymond John, Mrs. J. R. Kirb, Mrs. W. E. Knapp, Mrs. Culbert Lee, Mrs. G. W. Levert, Mrs. J. C. Loftin, Mrs. W. M. Love, Mrs. Paul Peck, Mrs. Vann Pratt, Mrs. E. C. Rowan, Mrs. W. V. Roy, Mrs. Herbert Walker, Mrs. W. E. Whetstone and Mrs. S. L. Williams.

Miss Ruth LaNell Wroten Weds Lt. Bertney Landry

The First Methodist Church in Bastrop was the scene of the marrigae Friday, Aprli 25, of Miss Ruth LaNell Wroten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Wroten, of Bastrop, and Lt. Bertney Landry, United States Air Force, of Lake Charles.

The Rev. Lucian Larche, close friend of the couple, officiated at the impressive double-ring service before an altar which was decorated with graduated standards of dark green fern, and large baskets of white gladioli, white stock and white Madonna Lilies on either side of the pulpit. White cathedral tapers, burning in graduated seven-branched candelabra cast a soft blow over the entire setting. Hughe white double satin bows marked the reserved sections.

Miss Mary Evelyn Durden, at the organ, rendered a program of nuptial selections, and accompanied Mrs. Jeff Hicks, of Monroe, who sang "Through the Years" and "I Love Thee, Dear." Mrs. Hicks also sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction prayers.

Mrs. William George and Miss Maude Jeter Thorton of Little Rock, Ark., in moroon choir robes, lighted the candles and remained at either side of the altar durning the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a ballerina length white satin wedding gown with knife-pleated nylon net overskirt and imported white Chantilly lace redingote. Buttoned down the back with tiny self-covered buttons, the fitted bodice was accented by the full bouffant skirt, and the yoke of illusion was appliqued with lace medallions, white sequins and seed pearls. She wore maching white lace mitts and carried a white prayer book topped with a cascade bouquet of white stock centered with a specimen white orchid with a deep purple throat and streamers of white satin ribbon.

Miss Jackie Wroten, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and another sister, Miss Patsy Wroten, was bridesmaid. They were fearing tissue shanting models, bouffant in effect with fitted bodice and short jackets, one of pale pink and the other of pale blue. Their hats were of matching tulle, and they carried colonial bouquets of sweetheart roses with white fluted maline, and wore white mitts.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, a recption was held in the church parlor, where parents of the bride and bridegroom received with the bridal party. Forming a background for the receiving line was a lovely arrangement of late-blooming narcissi and bridal wreath spirea, which was reflected in the large mirror over the mantel, and flanked with white cathedral tapers burning in silver candelabra.

Miss Elizabeth Trippe of Collinston, cousin of the bride, presided at the bride's book, which was placed on an antique marble-topped table adorned with the bride's bouquet.

The bride's table, covered with a handsome cutwork linen cloth, was centered with white gladioli, white stock, and specimen daisies, in a low silver bowl. On either side of the centerpiece two white tapers burned in silver candlesticks encircled with fluted maline. The three-tiered wedding confection, placed at one end of the table on a white satin plaque and encircled with ruffled white maline wassurmounted by a minature bride and bridegroom and was elaborately embossed with white roses and pale green leaves. Mrs. T. B. Daimwood and Mrs. Archie Bain McBride alternated in serving the wedding cake, after the bride and groom had cut the first slice.

Miss Jackie Mackey of Shreveport, Mrs. Jimmy Kirtz of Ruston, Miss Sue Pirson of Shreveport, Miss Ena Landry of Lake Charles and sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Carolyn West of Shreveport, all close friends of the couple, served as tea girls, Mrs. Warren Storment acted as floating hostess.

Mrs. Landry, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a natural silk shanting ensemble with black accessories. She also wore a corsage of white carnations.

For travel, the bride was wearing a fitted navy spring suit and white accessories. Her corsage was the beautiful orchid from her wedding bouquet. After the wedding trip to the Ozarks, she will continue her studies at Centenary colege in Shreveport, and Lt. Landry will report for duty with the U. S. Aif Force.

The birde is a graduate of Bastrop High School, attended La. Tech at Ruston for three years, and will receive her bachelor of arts degree in elementary education at Centenary in January, 1953.

Lt. Landry is a graduate of LaGrange High School in Lake Charles and attended La. Tech for three years where he was a member of the T club and also the golf team, prior to entering the Aif Force. He will be stationed in Honolulu, Hawaii and Mrs. Landry will join him there at a later date.

Fine Arts Club Meets With Mr. And Mrs. Edward Dalton

Leita Mae King, Stocker Fontelieu And Mrs. Everett Lawson Speak At May Meeting

The Fine Arts Club met Monday evening, in the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Dalton on Country Club Road, with Mrs. Maud Mayo and Mr. John Cale assisting.

Members and guests were delighted to have the opportunity to see the Dalton's new home, with its unusual furnishings made distinctive by the hand of the artist, Mrs. Dalton.

The living room and sunporch were thrown together to seat the guests, giving the effect of one room. The porch is a step down from the livingroom, and is used as a porch-classroom of the artist. Lovely flower arrangements of gay spring flowers were used most effectively on the coffee table, and at other vantage places throughout the home, with pot plants of trailing vines featured on the porch.

Mr. John Cale, president called the meeting to order, with the reading of the Collect, in unision. A short business session concluded the affairs of the club for the year, and a most instructive program followed.

First on the program was Miss Leita Mae King who discussed art from the standpoint of the amateur, Miss King said in part: "Interesting to note that the list of amateur's is growing in our own city, over 100 people in this area being interested in some form of painting. Painting is the only form of artistic expression that doesn't require elaborate training. One can't be a pianist or ballet dancer, or composer, without learning a lot of rules and then practicing for years. Dabbling in oils used to be considered the business of mad aesthetics, but today it has been taken up by women's clubs, doctors and dentists, societies, company sponsored classes of business men and members of community art associations."

Mrs. E. Everett Lawson, who has had recent publications of her poetry in The New York Times, Washington, D. C. Evening Star, The Ave Maria, etc., gave a resume of the outstanding events of the year in the writing world. This included the major poetry awards of the year, and the signs and portents of the growing interest in poetry, both nationally and locally. She spoke of the increasing number of Writers' Conferences being established each year, sponsored by national writers' organizations in collaboration with universities and colleges. Of interest to local poets is the observance of State Poetry Day in Louisiana, recently joining practically every state of the union in this observance. Governors of nearly every state have proclaimed October 15th as Poetry Day, the official requirement for this observance. In New Orleans, the past year, the work of Louisiana poets was displayed in historical Pirates Alley, in the manner similar to outdoor art exhibits, which attracted wide attention. Mrs. Lawson and Mrs. J. R. White, also of this city were represented in this unique display.

Stocker Fontelieu, Executive Director of the Little Theatre of Monroe, Inc. had this to say concerning the theatre season just ended on Broadway: It has been highlighted by mediocrity, feeble attempts and little in imagination.

The most notable attractions still remain the established hits, all of which have been running for well over a year, and cannot be attributed to this season's list of offerings. "Stalag 17," "The Moon is Blue," and "Guys and Dolls." Director Fontelieu mentioned a few of the new productions of merit: "The Fourposter," "The Shrike" and "I Am A Camera," and concluded by stating that only two new playwrights were worth the attention of the drama world, Joesph Kramm, whose "The Shrike" was awarded the Pulitzer Prize as the outstanding new drama of the season, and Truman Capote, who, although his offering "The Grass Harp" was financially unsuccessful, proved to critics and audience that his talented sensitivity was capable of producing good theatre in the near future.

Following this most informative program delicious refreshments were served from the beautifully apointed tea table with Mrs. John Cale at the punch bowl, assisted by Mrs. Dalton and Mrs. Mayo, who served cookies, sandwiches, and mints.

Members and guests present were Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Mrs. Dolly Douglas, Miss Ladelle Duke, Mr. Leon Hammonds, Mrs. Wilhelmina Inabnet, Mr. and Mrs. E. Everett Lawson, Miss Louise Moore, Mrs. B. L. Mulhearn, Miss May Read, Miss Gertrude Sandrock, Mrs. Willie Mae Wafer, Miss Leita Mae King, Mr. and Mrs. Slade Brown, Mr. Stocker Fontelieu, and the hostesses Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Dalton, Mr. and Mrs. John Cale, and Mrs. Maud Mayo.

The Carroll Woman's Club Send Delegates To Annual Convention

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., May 16 (Special)—The Carroll Woman's club of East Carroll Parish was represented at the Louisiana convention of the Moral and Civic Foundation. Three Carroll Woman's club members, Mrs. J. H. Gilfoil, III, Mrs. R. S. Reed and Mrs. C. R. Brown, were among those attending the annual convention, held in the Emmanuel Church, Alexandria recently.

The Allied Youth program is one of the projects of the Carroll Woman's Club and is being carried on very capably under the leadership of Mrs. A. S. Herzog, chairman of that project.

Carroll Woman's club officers in accord with the Moral and Civic Foundation are alert to the evil influences confronting the youth of today, and are ready to advocate, initiate, participate and cooperate for community betterment and to work for the exclusion of all alcohol and drugs from the United States, unless they are needed for medical purposes. To work for the distribution of drugs only through accredited channels, druggists, physicians, etc. To educate parents and children on the dangers of even one trial of drugs, for many habitual drug users are the victims of just one trial. By creating public interest, the officers and members know, that all things worked for, for our children, can be accomplished, and further they know that "Young lives, like cement, assume the shape of their surroundings."

The May meeting, will be held in the home of Mrs. J. H. Gilfoil, III, with Mrs. C. R. Brown and Mrs. A. S. Herzog, cohostesses. Officers elected will be installed, with Mrs. Gilfoil, installing officer. The program committee, appointed at this meeting, will meet during the month to plan strong and interesting programs for the coming year and name speakers for their presentation.

The First Methodist Church in Bastrop was the scene of the marrigae Friday, Aprli 25, of Miss Ruth LaNell Wroten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Wroten, of Bastrop, and Lt. Bertney Landry, United States Air Force, of Lake Charles.

The Rev. Lucian Larche, close friend of the couple, officiated at the impressive double-ring service before an altar which was decorated with graduated standards of dark green fern, and large baskets of white gladioli, white stock and white Madonna Lilies on either side of the pulpit. White cathedral tapers, burning in graduated seven-branched candelabra cast a soft blow over the entire setting. Hughe white double satin bows marked the reserved sections.

Miss Mary Evelyn Durden, at the organ, rendered a program of nuptial selections, and accompanied Mrs. Jeff Hicks, of Monroe, who sang "Through the Years" and "I Love Thee, Dear." Mrs. Hicks also sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction prayers.

Mrs. William George and Miss Maude Jeter Thorton of Little Rock, Ark., in moroon choir robes, lighted the candles and remained at either side of the altar durning the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a ballerina length white satin wedding gown with knife-pleated nylon net overskirt and imported white Chantilly lace redingote. Buttoned down the back with tiny self-covered buttons, the fitted bodice was accented by the full bouffant skirt, and the yoke of illusion was appliqued with lace medallions, white sequins and seed pearls. She wore maching white lace mitts and carried a white prayer book topped with a cascade bouquet of white stock centered with a specimen white orchid with a deep purple throat and streamers of white satin ribbon.

Miss Jackie Wroten, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and another sister, Miss Patsy Wroten, was bridesmaid. They were fearing tissue shanting models, bouffant in effect with fitted bodice and short jackets, one of pale pink and the other of pale blue. Their hats were of matching tulle, and they carried colonial bouquets of sweetheart roses with white fluted maline, and wore white mitts.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor, where parents of the bride and bridegroom received with the bridal party. Forming a background for the receiving line was a lovely arrangement of late-blooming narcissi and bridal wreath spirea, which was reflected in the large mirror over the mantel, and flanked with white cathedral tapers burning in silver candelabra.

Miss Elizabeth Trippe of Collinston, cousin of the bride, presided at the bride's book, which was placed on an antique marble-topped table adorned with the bride's bouquet.

The bride's table, covered with a handsome cutwork linen cloth, was centered with white gladioli, white stock, and specimen daisies, in a low silver bowl. On either side of the centerpiece two white tapers burned in silver candlesticks encircled with fluted maline. The three-tiered wedding confection, placed at one end of the table on a white satin plaque and encircled with ruffled white maline wassurmounted by a minature bride and bridegroom and was elaborately embossed with white roses and pale green leaves. Mrs. T. B. Daimwood and Mrs. Archie Bain McBride alternated in serving the wedding cake, after the bride and groom had cut the first slice.

Miss Jackie Mackey of Shreveport, Mrs. Jimmy Kirtz of Ruston, Miss Sue Pirson of Shreveport, Miss Ena Landry of Lake Charles and sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Carolyn West of Shreveport, all close friends of the couple, served as tea girls, Mrs. Warren Storment acted as floating hostess.

Mrs. Landry, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a natural silk shanting ensemble with black accessories. She also wore a corsage of white carnations.

For travel, the bride was wearing a fitted navy spring suit and white accessories. Her corsage was the beautiful orchid from her wedding bouquet. After the wedding trip to the Ozarks, she will continue her studies at Centenary colege in Shreveport, and Lt. Landry will report for duty with the U. S. Aif Force.

The birde is a graduate of Bastrop High School, attended La. Tech at Ruston for three years, and will receive her bachelor of arts degree in elementary education at Centenary in January, 1953.

Lt. Landry is a graduate of LaGrange High School in Lake Charles and attended La. Tech for three years where he was a member of the T club and also the golf team, prior to entering the Aif Force. He will be stationed in Honolulu, Hawaii and Mrs. Landry will join him there at a later date.

Mrs. R. O. Richards of Collingston honored Mr. R. O. Richards, Mr. Clyde Adams, Mr. A. H. Harper, Mr. John obble and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Wentworth with a birthday supper at her home Thursday evening at seven o'clock.

"Happy Birthday" was sung to the honorees whose birthdays are within a few days of each other. A delicious supper and a social period was enjoyed by all.

Fine Arts Club Meets With Mr. And Mrs. Edward Dalton

Leita Mae King, Stocker Fontelieu And Mrs. Everett Lawson Speak At May Meeting

The Fine Arts Club met Monday evening, in the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Dalton on Country Club Road, with Mrs. Maud Mayo and Mr. John Cale assisting.

Members and guests were delighted to have the opportunity to see the Dalton's new home, with its unusual furnishings made distinctive by the hand of the artist, Mrs. Dalton.

The living room and sunporch were thrown together to seat the guests, giving the effect of one room. The porch is a step down from the livingroom, and is used as a porch-classroom of the artist. Lovely flower arrangements of gay spring flowers were used most effectively on the coffee table, and at other vantage places throughout the home, with pot plants of trailing vines featured on the porch.

Mr. John Cale, president called the meeting to order, with the reading of the Collect, in unision. A short business session concluded the affairs of the club for the year, and a most instructive program followed.

First on the program was Miss Leita Mae King who discussed art from the standpoint of the amateur, Miss King said in part: "Interesting to note that the list of amateur's is growing in our own city, over 100 people in this area being interested in some form of painting. Painting is the only form of artistic expression that doesn't require elaborate training. One can't be a pianist or ballet dancer, or composer, without learning a lot of rules and then practicing for years. Dabbling in otis used to be considered the business of mad aesthetics, but today it has been taken up by women's clubs, doctors and dentists, societies, company sponsored classes of business men and members of community art associations."

Mrs. E. Everett Lawson, who has had recent publications of her poetry in The New York Times, Washington, D. C. Evening Star, The Ave Maria, etc., gave a resume of the outstanding events of the year in the writing world. This included the major poetry awards of the year, and the signs and portents of the growing interest in poetry, both nationally and locally. She spoke of the increasing number of Writers' Conferences being established each year, sponsored by national writers' organizations in collaboration with universities and colleges. Of interest to local poets is the observance of State Poetry Day in Louisiana, recently joining practically every state of the union in this observance. Governors of nearly every state have proclaimed October 15th as Poetry Day, the official requirement for this observance. In New Orleans, the past year, the work of Louisiana poets was displayed in historical Pirates Alley, in the manner similar to outdoor art exhibits, which attracted wide attention. Mrs. Lawson and Mrs. J. R. White, also of this city were represented in this unique display.

Stocker Fontelieu, Executive Director of the Little Theatre of Monroe, Inc. had this to say concerning the theatre season just ended on Broadway: It has been highlighted by mediocrity, feeble attempts and little in imagination.

The most notable attractions still remain the established hits, all of which have been running for well over a year, and cannot be attributed to this season's list of offerings. "Stalag 17," "The Moon is Blue," and "Guys and Dolls." Director Fontelieu mentioned a few of the new productions of merit: "The Fourposter," "The Shrike" and "I Am A Camera," and concluded by stating that only two new playwrights were worth the attention of the drama world, Joesph Kramm, whose "The Shrike" was awarded the Pulitzer Prize as the outstanding new drama of the season, and Truman Capote, who, although his offering "The Grass Harp" was financially unsuccessful, proved to critics and audience that his talented sensitivity was capable of producing good theatre in the near future.

Following this most informative program delicious refreshments were served from the beautifully apointed tea table with Mrs. John Cale at the punch bowl, assisted by Mrs. Dalton and Mrs. Mayo, who served cookies, sandwiches, and mints.

Members and guests present were Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Mrs. Dolly Douglas, Miss Ladelle Duke, Mr. Leon Hammonds, Mrs. Wilhelmina Inabnet, Mr. and Mrs. E. Everett Lawson, Miss Louise Moore, Mrs. B. L. Mulhearn, Miss May Read, Miss Gertrude Sandrock, Mrs. Willie Mae Wafer, Miss Leita Mae King, Mr. and Mrs. Slade Brown, Mr. Stocker Fontelieu, and the hostesses Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Dalton, Mr. and Mrs. John Cale, and Mrs. Maud Mayo.

The Carroll Woman's Club Send Delegates To Annual Convention

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., May 16 (Special)—The Carroll Woman's club of East Carroll Parish was represented at the Louisiana convention of the Moral and Civic Foundation. Three Carroll Woman's club members, Mrs. J. H. Gilfoil, III, Mrs. R. S. Reed and Mrs. C. R. Brown, were among those attending the annual convention, held in the Emmanuel Church, Alexandria recently.

The Allied Youth program is one of the projects of the Carroll Woman's Club and is being carried on very capably under the leadership of Mrs. A. S. Herzog, chairman of that project.

Carroll Woman's club officers in accord with the Moral and Civic Foundation are alert to the evil influences confronting the youth of today, and are ready to advocate, initiate, participate and cooperate for community betterment and to work for the exclusion of all alcohol and drugs from the United States, unless they are needed for medical purposes. To work for the distribution of drugs only through accredited channels, druggists, physicians, etc. To educate parents and children on the dangers of even one trial of drugs, for many habitual drug users are the victims of just one trial. By creating public interest, the officers and members know, that all things worked for, for our children, can be accomplished, and further they know that "Young lives, like cement, assume the shape of their surroundings."

The May meeting, will be held in the home of Mrs. J. H. Gilfoil, III, with Mrs. C. R. Brown and Mrs. A. S. Herzog, cohostesses. Officers elected will be installed, with Mrs. Gilfoil, installing officer. Miss Jennie Reynolds Feted At Two Graduation Parties

Mrs. Fred Bennett and Miss Lallage Feazel entertained the past week in honor of Miss Jennie Reynolds who is a charming member of the graduating class of Neville High School. The gracious hostesses arranged a delightful Western supper party at the Barn in West Monroe.

Down the length of the two long tables miniature corrals perfected in enchanting detail intrigued the guests. Favors marked each place. The menu was chosen from the delicacies of the house, either Shrimp Creole or barbecued chicken, with salads and a delicious dessert course.

Guests who enjoyed the memorable occasion with the hostesses and the honor guest were Johnny Crump, Terri Tidwell and Raymond Wilenzick, Jo Ann McDonald and Dan Altick, Amalie Nichols and Jack Gaines, Kathrine Guerriero and Jimmy Rivers, Linda Hair and E. J. Sievers, Mary Lou Kern and Sue Wade and Phillip Lynch, Carolyn Peters and John Culpepper, Mary Lou Harris and Phillip Thorten, Anna Mary Johnson and Sidney Fuller.

Lafitte Party

Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Reynolds of Synope Plantation honored their daughter, Jennie, on Saturday evening with a lavish Lafitte Party. Synope, so steeped in Louisiana lore, was a perfect setting, and no detail was spared to create the lure of pirate romance.

Jennie and Jorenda Reynolds wore identical early Louisiana costumes. The wide gathered skirts were bright red white patterned ruffled petticoats, black cummerbunds laced with red, white peasant blouses and quaint red slippers completed the costume. Mrs. Reynolds' costume was the same as her daughters except that her skirt was patterned with a rust ruffled petticoat. They each wore great loop earrings.

The invitations, most original, were as follows:

Lafitte the Pirate
And his band
Will have a
Rendezvous at
Synope Plantation
Saturday night, May tenth.
Be there at Eight!!!
Pierre Lafitte
Jean Lafitte
Jen Jen Reynolds

The Game Room was draped at the entrance with streamers of Spanish moss - massive arrangements of Magnolia leaves, a treasure chest glittering with jewels and gold cloth, crossed swords and pirate guns created the facinating Rendezvous for the dancers. Mel Spain and his orchestra entertained with their delightful music and directed the planned diversions.

A continuous buffet supper was served throughout the party hours in the country dining room. In the great fireplace a chicken roasted on a spit and in a black pot delectable mulligan was cooking. On the raised hearth were great roasted beef and pork hams. The two Lazy Susan tables were arranged in Old World manner—on one was a huge round tray filled with fruits and vegetables and on the other a hoop of cheese. Sticking in the hoop was a fabulous shrimp tree—a thorn tree laden with Louisiana shrimp. Shrimp dip, molds of beautiful salads, and relishes circled the Susans. The Early American side board was ladened with French bread, Mother's bread, glazed buns and cookies. Guests enjoyed supper by candlelight on the wide front veranda. A real sailboat and the old cistern were filled with iced Coca-Colas.

Dramatic incidences were Jean and Pierre LaFitte's grand entrance from the river with their band, the treasure hunt at intermission and the selecting of the two best costume pirates, Miss Anna Mary Johnson and Mr. Sidney Fuller.

The entire Neville graduating class and their sponsor Miss Sarah Brea were honor guests as were Miss Clara Hall and Mr. A. E. Culpepper, Jr. Forty friends of Miss Reynolds of Columbia were also included.

Call For Sewing Machines!

We need more machines for teaching sewing to girls this summer. Do you have a portable you will lend? If so, call the Girl Scout office, telephone number 2-1270. We'll need the machines for two weeks, beginning June 17. The classes will be taught at the Red Cross. Dot Breard has nine teachers but too many students for the number of machines available. Please help us out or many little girls will be disappointed.

Hose Again!

Jane Steed says there are still lots of girls who didn't get the instructions for reclaiming nylon hose, so here it is: If you have several good nylon hose, all different colors, try this: Put hose in a boiler, cover with water and boil one hour. The first half hour they give up their color, the second half hour they absorb the color. All take on the same color regardless of the shade they were before boiling. Rinse thoroughly.

And — Hats Again!

By request, the very obliging hat leaders will give another class on Tuesday, May 27. Next Sunday in this same column I'll tell you all about it. The class will begin early and last until about 2:30 or 3:00 o'clock.

New Shoes for Old

Not long ago Annie Bel McCook had on a pair of new shoes (I thought). I asked why she bought another pair just like the ones she had several years ago. She said, "These are the same shoes. I had them reworked at a local shoe shop." So — I took my oldest, dirtiest shoes and purse down to the shop. They were red, two big spots of ink on the purse, shoes stained and discolored. I picked them up this morning and honest, they looked like new. If you don't believe me — just try it. The cost was $2.45. Well, a penny saved is a penny made my grandmother always said.

Garden News

The day lilies are still blooming at the Pittard Farm and this site is perfect for them. It seems that a hillside was made for day lilies, and there are thousands in bloom —including the gorgeous purple. The Pittard Day Lily Farm is on the Ruston Highway. Turn right just past the Dixie Tourist Court.

In the picture you see Dr. H. H. Baur, 221 Pargoud Drive. The flowers are sweet peas raised by Dr. Baur, for which he has become quite famous. He told me while we were walking in his garden last Tuesday: I plant in November in a well prepared seed bed in which a pound of 4-12-4 has been worked. My seed are planted about three inches deep. If we have a dry spell I water these every few days. Sweet peas need an open, sunny location with plenty of light and air. The seed came up in about ten days. I had my first blooms about the first of March. Any time during the blooming period that there is a drought, the plants have to be watered." Dr. Baur says the more you cut the blooms, better they bloom.

Gertie Jones was wearing a corsage of sweet peas in her hair last Wednesday. They were a rich purple. Gertie says she raised these as well as a handsome white, very large pea. Guess just about everybody loves sweet peas.

I notice Nierembergia plants at some of the seed stores and nurseries. Since each plant is growing in a cup, you can still put out this lovely blue flower. They make nice borders or ground covers.

See you again next week in this same column.

Mrs. Fred Bennett and Miss Lallage Feazel entertained the past week in honor of Miss Jennie Reynolds who is a charming member of the graduating class of Neville High School. The gracious hostesses arranged a delightful Western supper party at the Barn in West Monroe.

Down the length of the two long tables miniature corrals perfected in enchanting detail intrigued the guests. Favors marked each place. The menu was chosen from the delicacies of the house, either Shrimp Creole or barbecued chicken, with salads and a delicious dessert course.

Guests who enjoyed the memorable occasion with the hostesses and the honor guest were Johnny Crump, Terri Tidwell and Raymond Wilenzick, Jo Ann McDonald and Dan Altick, Amalle Nichols and Jack Gaines, Kathrine Guerriero and Jimmy Rivers, Linda Hair and E. J. Sievers, Mary Lou Kern and Sue Wade and Phillip Lynch, Carolyn Peters and John Culpepper, Mary Lou Harris and Phillip Thorten, Anna Mary Johnson and Sidney Fuller.

Lafitte Party

Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Reynolds of Synope Plantation honored their daughter, Jennie, on Saturday evening with a lavish Lafitte Party. Synope, so steeped in Louisiana lore, was a perfect setting, and no detail was spared to create the lure of pirate romance.

Jennie and Jorenda Reynolds wore identical early Louisiana costumes. The wide gathered skirts were bright red white patterned ruffled petticoats, black cummerbunds laced with red, white peasant blouses and quaint red slippers completed the costume. Mrs. Reynolds' costume was the same as her daughters except that her skirt was patterned with a rust ruffled petticoat. They each wore great loop earrings.

The invitations, most original, were as follows:

And his band
Will have a
Rendezvous at
Synope Plantation
Saturday night, May tenth.
Be there at Eight!!!
Pierre Lafitte
Jean Lafitte
Jen Jen Reynolds

The Game Room was draped at the entrance with streamers of Spanish moss - massive arrangements of Magnolia leaves, a treasure chest glittering with jewels and gold cloth, crossed swords and pirate guns created the facinating Rendezvous for the dancers. Mel Spain and his orchestra entertained with their delightful music and directed the planned diversions.

A continuous buffet supper was served throughout the party hours in the country dining room. In the great fireplace a chicken roasted on a spit and in a black pot delectable mulligan was cooking. On the raised hearth were great roasted beef and pork hams. The two Lazy Susan tables were arranged in Old World manner—on one was a huge round tray filled with fruits and vegetables and on the other a hoop of cheese. Sticking in the hoop was a fabulous shrimp tree—a thorn tree laden with Louisiana shrimp. Shrimp dip, molds of beautiful salads, and relishes circled the Susans. The Early American side board was ladened with French bread, Mother's bread, glazed buns and cookies. Guests enjoyed supper by candlelight on the wide front veranda. A real sailboat and the old cistern were filled with iced Coca-Colas.

Dramatic incidences were Jean and Pierre LaFitte's grand entrance from the river with their band, the treasure hunt at intermission and the selecting of the two best costume pirates, Miss Anna Mary Johnson and Mr. Sidney Fuller.

The entire Neville graduating class and their sponser Miss Sarah Bres were honor guests as were Miss Clara Hall and Mr. A. E. Culpepper, Jr. Forty friends of Miss Reynolds of Columbia were also included.

WHERE DID THE TROUBLE START?

IN THE NAME OF

5,027 CHILDREN PRESENTLY IN OUR CITY SCHOOL SYSTEM

and

3000 CHILDREN WHO WILL COME INTO OUR SYSTEM IN THE NEXT FOUR YEARS

WE NEED TO FACE THE FACTS NOW!

It is very apparent to all of us that the Election of City School Board Members on this Tuesday presents a problem of paramount interest to the people of this City. We have more than six million dollars worth of school buildings and equipment and we are investing more than three quarters of a million dollars a year in the education of our young people. We have grown proud of our city schools over the years, and we have had the satisfaction of knowing that there was no division or dissension on our school board. We have seen the results of constant friction and strife on other school boards. The intensity of the present campaign, which is more evident now than at any time in the history of our city schools, mokes it quite certain that our system is under direct attack and that we shall have to pass through the period of strife and discord and confusion which is always present when politics enters the field of education of our young people.

There is no desire on our part to tell you HOW TO VOTE. That is your business. These schools are your property, held in trust for your children and the young people of your City. All of us want to know more about the issues which have been injected into the school board campaign. We wont to know why personalities are playing so big a part and public interest so small a part. We believe that the all-station radio broadcasts and the newspaper publicity can only mean that there is an organized faction at work, with money set aside to complete a campaign designed to bring special benefits to a few without full regard or consideration given to the ultimate cost to our children and our school system. If there is fault in our school system, THEN WE SHOULD BE GIVEN FACTS TO SUBSTANTIATE THE CHARGES. We should be given more than a whispering campaign, we should be given more than half-truths, we should be given more than an expression of personal dissatisfaction on the part of employees, we should be given more than vague generalities and pleas for personal sympathy and we should be shown WHAT IS WRONG and we should be told WHY such things hove come to be. Our schools are at a period of maximum growth and full development and if the reactivation of Selman Field is accomplished or if the Olin Industries increase our population beyond its naturol growth then we need strong and adequate schools and not a break-down of a system developing through personal feelings and public confusion.

It has been impossible to catalog or gather together all the ill assorted issues which have made their appearance in this campaign in the past few weeks, but there are some persistent stories that keep turning up in different versions. It was not difficult to ask the City School Board to show their records and explain their stand. The same information is available to you. Here is the way the facts develop these stories:

(1) On Sunday, May 11, 1952, the Monroe Morning World published a front page news story indicating that "a handy man" employed by the City School System received an "annual salary of $4,940.00" and that such salary was far higher than any teacher's salary except in the executive brackets. The records in the office of the City School Board show that this maintenance man was paid $2,858.00 in 1949, $3,378.75 in 1950, $4,079.50 in 1951 and was paid on the hour base for actual work performed. There was no annual salary involved. This man has been employed by the School Board for 20 years and handles the repair work on 23 motor vehicles, repairs and maintains radios in all schools of the System, repairs motion picture projectors and film strip projectors of the School System, maintains all electric motors, fans, bells and various school equipment and is subject to all emergency maintenance and over-time work by the hour when required in emergency. He owns his own shop, uses his own tools, and served in the Navy in World War II with the rating of automotive mechanic and supervisor. The only conclusion which could be drawn from that newspaper story was that the school system was deliberately paying outside employees more than the teachers and the only result was a direct appeal to prejudice. All of us knew the cost of maintenance and repair work in these times and the volume of work required on an hourly base at an hourly rate of pay is completely fair in this case.

(2) On Sunday, May 11, 1952, the Monroe Morning World published a front page news story indicating that a carpenter and a painter each "received annual salaries of $4,160.00" and that "another carpenter" is paid from the improvement fund and "is drawing $85.00 weekly or $4,420.00 annually." The only purpose of such information is an indirect appeal to prejudice. The facts in the case are not hard to obtain. None of the indicated individuals receive a salary. No salary is involved. The two carpenters are M. H. Godwin and C. E. Gibson, both residents of Monroe. These men have worked for the City School Board in their trades and were paid by the hour and were paid the prevailing wages of their union. Neither of them has any contract of employment. The painter is B. F. Greer, a resident of Monroe. He receives no annual salary. He has no contract of employment with the City School Board. He has performed his work by the hour, has been paid by the hour and has been paid on the basis of his prevailing union wage. These facts are shown in the files and are available for your inspection. Why there should have been any distortion is beyond our understanding.

(3) Letters printed in the local press, and oral inquiries made by many interested persons, questioned the employment of a trained and competent horticulturist by the City School Board. The grounds occupied by the schools are in excess of 100 acres. Most of us are aware of the problems of maintaining much smaller areas. The employee is Gary Wimberley, a graduate of the Department of Horticulture at Southwestern Louisiana Institute at Lafayette, Louisiana. His salary is $80.00 per week. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree. He is experienced in greenhouse and landscaping operations and the care and culture of flowers and shrubs. He was an employee of the Acadia Parish School Board at the time he was given employment by your City School Board. He has been assigned the responsibility of properly landscaping and caring for the 100 acres of school ground property. He is doing the work which was formerly assigned to Fred Pettit, who retired from the City School System on July 1, 1951. Mr. Wimberley has been instructed to work with the principals of the various schools toward the beautification of their properties and great good can come out of his work.

(4) There has been much discussion of the purchase of 12 upright pianos by the City School Board. A great deal of confusion has been injected into that picture. These pianos were bought for use in the white and colored schools which are presently under construction. They were a part of a purchase order of new equipment required for such schools. The advertisement of their purchase was made, as is required by law, in the newspaper published on March 20, March 27 and April 3, 1951. Copies of the purchase requirements and the conditions of purchase for all such new equipment was mailed to 110 dealers. Every local dealer had full opportunity to make their bids on the pianos and local bids were received. The low bid was from Alexandria and meant a savings of approximately $1,800.00 on the pianos and the bid was awarded to the low bidder as was required by law. Any other action involving public funds would have been improper. One of these pianos has been placed in service. Eleven of these pianos are stored at Neville High School and will be put in service as fast as the new school buildings are completed and put in use. Their early purchase, in these days of increasing costs, meant a considerable savings and there will be no deterioration in this period of time. The case of the 12 pianos has been presented in many various forms but the facts in the case are quite simple and the records are available for your inspection.

(5) The administration of our City School System is not an easy one. As of May 2, 1952, we had 5,027 children in our City School System. The estimated annual enrollment of new children for the next 4-year period is in excess of 3,000 children per year. If Selman Field should be opened or if any one of several new industries in this section select Monroe as their headquarters, we can expect a heavy increase in enrollment. In 1948, we had 3,343 students, today there are 5,027. In 1948, there were 119 teachers, today there are 172 teachers and 83 additional employees. Our cost ratio is satisfactory in comparison to state records. The present Superintendent came to Monroe in 1948 and has had the benefit of 4 years of actual experience in our System.

(6) There is some evident dissatisfaction with the services of J. M. Boyet, Superintendent of the City School System, on the part of some teachers and employees of the City School System. That is to be expected. No man responsible for the activities of 255 employees can expect the complete approval of his work by each and every employee. The world is not made that way. The Superintendent is directly responsible to the City School Board for the successful and proper operation of our educational system. If the City School Board employs a competent and trained executive then that executive should have the right, with the advice and consent of the City School Board, to map out the organization required in school operations and to see that such organization is maintained in the system. It is quite natural to expect some of the 255 employees to question the authority of the executive, and we can certainly expect some of them to personally believe that they could more successfully operate the system than the executive head of the system. That is true in all business.

(7) There is full evidence of an organized and concerted opposition on the part of some teachers and employees to J. M. Boyet as superintendent. Some of them have openly contacted you and sought your vote for or against some of the candidates seeking election to the City School Board. Some of them have remained behind the scenes but have been quite active in supplying both information and mis-information for use in the political campaign. It is for you to judge information which they give you and it is for you to decide as to whom you shall give your support. The opposition is in no sense a majority opposition. The division is the same division that we find in our churches, civic groups, families and in every substantial business interest. Before we, as citizens and voters, side with one group or the other we are duty bound to check the actual facts. If we need a change, then that change should be made at this time. If the only reason for a change is the personal dissatisfaction or the personal ambition of a minority group in the system, then our vote for a change would do great damage to a public trust. The publication of this article is designed only to ask your consideration of FACTS AS THEY EXIST. It is worth our while to take a little time and ask a few questions about our schools.

(8) Newspaper articles have pointed out an indication that younger teachers, in the field of physical education, have received pay raises in excess of the minimum state law salaries. Every teacher of physical education is a teaching member of the teaching staffs of the City School System. In addition to their daily teaching duties they are required to devote additional hours to students engaged in sport activities at the school. They are required to make out-of-town trips with the students and they are held solely responsible for the students on such trips. In coaching activities, they are at work long after the hours of employment of other teachers. Their salary is set in accord with the duties required of them. The same situation is true as to teachers who handle activities requiring actual time over the regular hours of employment, whether such activity be in the training of the school band or the school marching squads or in some other phase of the curriculum. The institution of health instruction, health services, physical education and sports in the elementary schools has meant a great deal to our younger students. Their play is supervised, sportsmanship is instilled in them and they are taught the rules of the game rather than allowed the type of competition which results in injury and adds nothing to a school program. This has probably created some dissatisfaction among the older group of teachers and employees, but a balanced school program can never be achieved without some opposition.

(9) We understand that only one teacher has appeared before the City School Board in the last 4 years to make complaint against school administration. Her requirements were not met by the Board. Teachers are fully protected in each and every right under the Teacher's Tenure Act enacted by the State Legislation. They know that they are not subject to discharge except upon convincing public proof of incompetency, dishonesty and neglect of duty. They are free to express their opinions and urge their rights at all times and not a one of them has ever been refused the right to attend an open meeting of the City School Board and state their views. Some of them have no hesitancy in expressing their views in the present political campaign. If the situation is as bad as they would have us believe, why have they not told the School Board in their open meetings? To air their difficulties in politics, to seek opposition to the present administration and to conduct a personal campaign is well within their rights, but is it in public interest?

THIS PUBLICATION IS MADE BY MOTHERS AND FATHERS OF CHILDREN IN THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS AND HIGH SCHOOL OF THE CITY SCHOOL SYSTEM, AND WHO BELIEVE THAT OTHER MOTHERS AND FATHERS ARE INTERESTED IN THE SCHOOL FUTURE OF THEIR CHILDREN.

The intensity of the present campaign, which is more evident now than at any time in the history of our city schools, makes it quite certain that our system is under direct attack and that we shall have to pass through the period of strife and discord and confusion which is always present when politics enters the field of education of our young people.

There is no desire on our part to tell you HOW TO VOTE. That is your business. These schools are your property, held in trust for your children and the young people of your City. All of us want to know more about the issues which have been injected into the school board campaign. We want to know why personalities are playing so big a part and public interest so small a part. We believe that the all-station radio broadcasts and the newspaper publicity can only mean that there is an organized faction at work, with money set aside to complete a campaign designed to bring special benefits to a few without full regard or consideration given to the ultimate cost to our children and our school system. If there is fault in our school system, THEN WE SHOULD BE GIVEN FACTS TO SUBSTANTIATE THE CHARGES. We should be given more than a whispering campaign, we should be given more than half-truths, we should be given more than an expression of personal dissatisfaction on the part of employees, we should be given more than vague generalities and pleas for personal sympathy and we should be shown WHAT IS WRONG and we should be told WHY such things have come to be. Our schools are at a period of maximum growth and full development and if the reactivation of Selman Field is accomplished or if the Olin Industries increase our population beyond its natural growth then we need strong and adequate schools and not a break-down of a system developing through personal feelings and public confusion.

It has been impossible to catalog or gather together all the ill assorted issues which have made their appearance in this campaign in the past few weeks, but there are some persistent stories that keep turning up in different versions. It was not difficult to ask the City School Board to show their records and explain their stand. The same information is available to you. Here is the way the facts develop these stories:

(1) On Sunday, May 11, 1952, the Monroe Morning World published a front page news story indicating that "a handy man" employed by the City School System received an "annual salary of $4,940.00" and that such salary was far higher than any teacher's salary except in the executive brackets. The records in the office of the City School Board show that this maintenance man was paid $2,858.00 in 1949, $3,378.75 in 1950, $4,079.50 in 1951 and was paid on the hour base for actual work performed. There was no annual salary involved. This man has been employed by the School Board for 20 years and handles the repair work on 23 motor vehicles, repairs and maintains radios in all schools of the System, repairs motion picture projectors and film strip projectors of the School System, maintains all electric motors, fans, bells and various school equipment and is subject to all emergency maintenance and over-time work by the hour when required in emergency. He owns his own shop, uses his own tools, and served in the Navy in World War II with the rating of automotive mechanic and supervisor. The only conclusion which could be drawn from that newspaper story was that the school system was deliberately paying outside employees more than the teachers and the only result was a direct appeal to prejudice. All of us know the cost of maintenance and repair work in these times and the volume of work required on an hourly base at an hourly rate of pay is completely fair in this case.

(2) On Sunday, May 11, 1952, the Monroe Morning World published a front page news story indicating that a carpenter and a painter each "received annual salaries of $4,160.00" and that "another carpenter" is paid from the improvement fund and "is drawing $85.00 weekly or $4,420.00 annually." The only purpose of such information is an indirect appeal to prejudice. The facts in the case are not hard to obtain. None of the indicated individuals receive a salary. No salary is involved. The two carpenters are M. H. Godwin and C. E. Gibson, both residents of Monroe. These men have worked for the City School Board in their trades and were paid by the hour and were paid the prevailing wages of their union. Neither of them has any contract of employment. The painter is B. F. Greer, a resident of Monroe. He receives no annual salary. He has no contract of employment with the City School Board. He has performed his work by the hour, has been paid by the hour and has been paid on the basis of his prevailing union wage. These facts are shown in the files and are available for your inspection. Why there should have been any distortion is beyond our understanding.

(3) Letters printed in the local press, and oral inquiries made by many interested persons, questioned the employment of a trained and competent horticulturist by the City School Board. The grounds occupied by the schools are in excess of 100 acres. Most of us are aware of the problems of maintaining much smaller areas. The employee is Gary Wimberley, a graduate of the Department of Horticulture at Southwestern Louisiana Institute at Lafayette, Louisiana. His salary is $80.00 per week. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree. He is experienced in greenhouse and landscaping operations and the care and culture of flowers and shrubs. He was an employee of the Acadia Parish School Board at the time he was given employment by your City School Board. He has been assigned the responsibility of properly landscaping and caring for the 100 acres of school ground property. He is doing the work which was formerly assigned to Fred Pettit, who retired from the City School System on July 1, 1951. Mr. Wimberley has been instructed to work with the principals of the various schools toward the beautification of their properties and great good can come out of his work.

(4) There has been much discussion of the purchase of 12 upright pianos by the City School Board. A great deal of confusion has been injected into that picture. These pianos were bought for use in the white and colored schools which are presently under construction. They were a part of a purchase order of new equipment required for such schools. The advertisement of their purchase was made, as is required by law, in the newspaper published on March 20, March 27 and April 3, 1951. Copies of the purchase requirements and the conditions of purchase for all such new equipment was mailed to 110 dealers. Every local dealer had full opportunity to make their bids on the pianos and local bids were received. The low bid was from Alexandria and meant a savings of approximately $1,800.00 on the pianos and the bid was awarded to the low bidder as was required by law. Any other action involving public funds would have been improper. One of these pianos has been placed in service. Eleven of these pianos are stored at Neville High School and will be put in service as fast as the new school buildings are completed and put in use. Their early purchase, in these days of increasing costs, meant a considerable savings and there will be no deterioration in this period of time. The case of the 12 pianos has been presented in many various forms but the facts in the case are quite simple and the records are available for your inspection.

(5) The administration of our City School System is not an easy one. As of May 2, 1952, we had 5,027 children in our City School System. The estimated annual enrollment of new children for the next 4-year period is in excess of 3,000 children per year. If Selman Field should be opened or if any one of several new industries in this section select Monroe as their headquarters, we can expect a heavy increase in enrollment. In 1948, we had 3,343 students, today there are 5,027. In 1948, there were 119 teachers, today there are 172 teachers and 83 additional employees. Our cost ratio is satisfactory in comparison to state records. The present Superintendent came to Monroe in 1948 and has had the benefit of 4 years of actual experience in our System.

(6) There is some evident dissatisfaction with the services of J. M. Boyet, Superintendent of the City School System, on the part of some teachers and employees of the City School System. That is to be expected. No man responsible for the activities of 255 employees can expect the complete approval of his work by each and every employee. The world is not made that way. The Superintendent is directly responsible to the City School Board for the successful and proper operation of our educational system. If the City School Board employs a competent and trained executive then that executive should have the right, with the advice and consent of the City School Board, to map out the organization required in school operations and to see that such organization is maintained in the system. It is quite natural to expect some of the 255 employees to question the authority of the executive, and we can certainly expect some of them to personally believe that they could more successfully operate the system than the executive head of the system. That is true in all business.

(7) There is full evidence of an organized and concerted opposition on the part of some teachers and employees to J. M. Boyet as superintendent. Some of them have openly contacted you and sought your vote for or against some of the candidates seeking election to the City School Board. Some of them have remained behind the scenes but have been quite active in supplying both information and mis-information for use in the political campaign. It is for you to judge information which they give you and it is for you to decide as to whom you shall give your support. The opposition is in no sense a majority opposition. The division is the same division that we find in our churches, civic groups, families and in every substantial business interest. Before we, as citizens and voters, side with one group or the other we are duty bound to check the actual facts. If we need a change, then that change should be made at this time. If the only reason for a change is the personal dissatisfaction or the personal ambition of a minority group in the system, then our vote for a change would do great damage to a public trust. The publication of this article is designed only to ask your consideration of FACTS AS THEY EXIST. It is worth our while to take a little time and ask a few questions about our schools.

(8) Newspaper articles have pointed out an indication that younger teachers, in the field of physical education, have received pay raises in excess of the minimum state law salaries. Every teacher of physical education is a teaching member of the teaching staffs of the City School System. In addition to their daily teaching duties they are required to devote additional hours to students engaged in sport activities at the school. They are required to make out-of-town trips with the students and they are held solely responsible for the students on such trips. In coaching activities, they are at work long after the hours of employment of other teachers. Their salary is set in accord with the duties required of them. The same situation is true as to teachers who handle activities requiring actual time over the regular hours of employment, whether such activity be in the training of the school band or the school marching squads or in some other phase of the curriculum. The institution of health instruction, health services, physical education and sports in the elementary schools has meant a great deal to our younger students. Their play is supervised, sportsmanship is instilled in them and they are taught the rules of the game rather than allowed the type of competition which results in injury and adds nothing to a school program. This has probably created some dissatisfaction among the older group of teachers and employees, but a balanced school program can never be achieved without some opposition.

(9) We understand that only one teacher has appeared before the City School Board in the last 4 years to make complaint against school administration. Her requirements were not met by the Board. Teachers are fully protected in each and every right under the Teacher's Tenure Act enacted by the State Legislation. They know that they are not subject to discharge except upon convincing public proof of incompetency, dishonesty and neglect of duty. They are free to express their opinions and urge their rights at all times and not a one of them has ever been refused the right to attend an open meeting of the City School Board and state their views. Some of them have no hesitancy in expressing their views in the present political campaign. If the situation is as bad as they would have us believe, why have they not told the School Board in their open meetings? To air their difficulties in politics, to seek opposition to the present administration and to conduct a personal campaign is well within their rights, but is it in public interest?

'The Las Vegas Story' Opens At Paramount Wednesday

Tense drama is combined with a powerful love story to produce top screen entertainment in the Howard Hughes presentation, "The Las Vegas Story," which opens at the Paramount Wednesday.

Starring Jane Russell with Victor Mature, and co-starring Vincent Price, the setting for the exciting action is the world-famous Nevada city where fortunes are won on the turn of a card. It is here that the three meet, and where their lives become entangled in a web of love, intrigue and murder when the wrong man is accused of a killing and a girl almost meets death at the hands of the real criminal.

Welded together with a colorful romance between Miss Russell and Mature, and highlighted by the singing of several numbers by the lovely heroine, and the musical contributions of featured Hoagy Carmichael, the RKO Radio picture builds to a stirring climax.

Suporting the fine performances of the stars is a notable cast including Brad Dexter, co-featured with Carmichael, who gives an outstanding portrayal as Miss Russell's mysterious admirer. Effective direction by Robert Stevenson and the lavish settings provided by Producer Robert Sparks under the executive supervision of Samuel Bischoff add materially to the appeal of the screenplay by Earl Felton and Harry Essex.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, May 17. — Hollywood, traditionally, never does anything without over doing it — and in all its extravagant history it's never overdone anything so deplorably as it is, just now, its silly, sophomoric enthusiasm for the upper half of the feminine figure.

No movie billboard seems to be regarded as either complete or effective unless it's decorated with the semi - draped torso of some glamour girl star. No studio stillman would dream of shooting a publicity picture of any actress without concentrating attention, as blatantly as Johnston Office rules will permit, on her breasts — and it might be noted, in passing, that Johnston Office rules are receiving a very liberal enterpretation these days. The "smart-cracks" in Hollywood columns, the small talk in Hollywood cafes, and, apparently, the business conferences in Hollywood casting offices, all have the same focal points — and most of the industry's more shallier actresses are following suit by vying with one another in the wearing of dresses with maximum exposure.

Judging from the letters I've been receiving from readers of this column — most of them written by men, incidentally — the general public is disgusted, rather than captivated, by Hollywood's new enthusiasm. Should the monomania flourish much longer, I believe the disgust will be strong enough to make itself felt at the boxoffice.

Hollywood, as usual, seems to be blind to the folly of needlessly offending a large segment of its potential audience.

We hear a lot of gabble, out here in Filmville, about the movie industry's crying need for talented players, talented writers, talented directors and talented producers. Actually, I think, the motion picture industry has less need for talent than it has for executives with some semblance of good taste and some first-hand knowledge of the average adult American's reactions.

Idol Chatter: After all, Arline Dahl only wants to drop one letter in changing her Lex to her ex. . . . No love lost: Spencer Tracy and Peter Lawford. . . . Crewmen on 20th Century - Fox's "Bloodhounds of Broadway" have nicknamed one of the three hounds in the picture "Rudy Vallee" — and the resemblance is remarkable. . . . Add men who never lose their sense of humor under trying circumstances: William Powell. . . . Ginger Rogers might be cited as a gal who, confronted by "middle age," has stayed calm — and collected. . . . Silly notion: Splinter-shaped Frank Sinatra and barrel-shaped Thomas Gomez playing teeter-totter. . . . I never see one of Hollywood's cowboy stars stubbing along the Boulevard in his two-inch heels without wanting to tap him on the shoulder, and say: "Look, bub, those boots were made for riding!"

If Anne Baxter ever had any doubts regarding the potency of fan magazine publicity, she has them no longer. A few months ago, during the course of a fan mag interview, she kiddingly discounted her own popularity by complaining that none of her fans ever ask for anything more than her autograph, whereas the devotees of certain other actresses ask for their idols' discarded garters, bras, stockings, etc., etc., to treasure as souveniers. The interview was published a couple of weeks ago and Anne, ever since, has been buried under an avalanche of letters from fans who have read it. If she granted all their requests, her wardrobe would be as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard — and so would Anne.

I've been amused (speaking of magazine stories) by the tizzy which has resulted at MGM since a magazine scribe named Lloyd Shearer opined that five of the studio's veteran stars — Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Greer Garson, Walter Pidgeon and Fred Astaire — are now worn - out, as far as box-office "draw" is concerned, and will have to give way to the young stars on Leo the Lion's payroll. Such sacrilege, as might be expected, couldn't be allowed to pass without protest. Dore Schary, the MGM boss-man, promptly took the floor and announced, in no uncertain terms, that Writer Shearer was writing through his hat — that actually Messers Gable, Tracy, Pidgeon, and Astaire, and also Miss Garson, are the "motion picture industry's greatest box-office assets." Well, I'd like to get in an "actually," too. Certainly the five stars mentioned are not "worn-out" at the box-office since any one of them can, and sometimes does, bring in big money when fortunate enough to be cast in an excellent story. And certainly they can't be very truthfully ratid as tremendous box - office assets since, given a punk story, no one of them pull in enough money, through personal popularity, to stave off disaster. It's the star-system that's lost its potency — and Hollywood will be the last to recognize that fact.

COMING TO PARAMOUNT

'The Las Vegas Story' Opens At Paramount Wednesday

Tense drama is combined with a powerful love story to produce top screen entertainment in the Howard Hughes presentation, "The Las Vegas Story," which opens at the Paramount Wednesday.

Starring Jane Russell with Victor Mature, and co-starring Vincent Price, the setting for the exciting action is the world-famous Nevada city where fortunes are won on the turn of a card. It is here that the three meet, and where their lives become entangled in a web of love, intrigue and murder when the wrong man is accused of a killing and a girl almost meets death at the hands of the real criminal.

Welded together with a colorful romance between Miss Russell and Mature, and highlighted by the singing of several numbers by the lovely heroine, and the musical contributions of featured Hoagy Carmichael, the RKO Radio picture builds to a stirring climax.

Suporting the fine performances of the stars is a notable cast including Brad Dexter, co-featured with Carmichael, who gives an outstanding portrayal as Miss Russell's mysterious admirer. Effective direction by Robert Stevenson and the lavish settings provided by Producer Robert Sparks under the executive supervision of Samuel Bischoff add materially to the appeal of the screenplay by Earl Felton and Harry Essex.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, May 17. — Hollywood, traditionally, never does anything without over doing it — and in all its extravagant history it's never overdone anything so deplorably as it is, just now, its silly, sophomoric enthusiasm for the upper half of the feminine figure.

No movie billboard seems to be regarded as either complete or effective unless it's decorated with the semi - draped torso of some glamour girl star. No studio stillman would dream of shooting a publicity picture of any actress without concentrating attention, as blatantly as Johnston Office rules will permit, on her breasts — and it might be noted, in passing, that Johnston Office rules are receiving a very liberal enterpretation these days. The "smart-cracks" in Hollywood columns, the small talk in Hollywood cafes, and, apparently, the business conferences in Hollywood casting offices, all have the same focal points — and most of the industry's more shaplier actresses are following suit by vying with one another in the wearing of dresses with maximum exposure.

Judging from the letters I've been receiving from readers of this column — most of them written by men, incidentally — the general public is disgusted, rather than captivated, by Hollywood's new enthusiasm. Should the monomania flourish much longer, I believe the disgust will be strong enough to make itself felt at the boxoffice.

Hollywood, as usual, seems to be blind to the folly of needlessly offending a large segment of its potential audience.

We hear a lot of gabble, out here in Filmville, about the movie industry's crying need for talented players, talented writers, talented directors and talented producers. Actually, I think, the motion picture industry has less need for talent than it has for executives with some semblance of good taste and some first-hand knowledge of the average adult American's reactions.

Idol Chatter: After all, Arline Dahl only wants to drop one letter in changing her Lex to her ex. . . . No love lost: Spencer Tracy and Peter Lawford. . . . Crewmen on 20th Century - Fox's "Bloodhounds of Broadway" have nicknamed one of the three hounds in the picture "Rudy Vallee" — and the resemblance is remarkable. . . . Add men who never lose their sense of humor under trying circumstances: William Powell. . . . Ginger Rogers might be cited as a gal who, confronted by "middle age," has stayed calm — and collected. . . . Silly notion: Splinter-shaped Frank Sinatra and barrel-shaped Thomas Gomez playing teeter-totter. . . . I never see one of Hollywood's cowboy stars stubbing along the Boulevard in his two-inch heels without wanting to tap him on the shoulder, and say: "Look, bub, those boots were made for riding!"

If Anne Baxter ever had any doubts regarding the potency of fan magazine publicity, she has them no longer. A few months ago, during the course of a fan mag interview, she kiddingly discounted her own popularity by complaining that none of her fans ever ask for anything more than her autograph, whereas the devotees of certain other actresses ask for their idols' discarded garters, bras, stockings, etc., etc., to treasure as souveniers. The interview was published a couple of weeks ago and Anne, ever since, has been buried under an avalanche of letters from fans who have read it. If she granted all their requests, her wardrobe would be as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard — and so would Anne.

I've been amused (speaking of magazine stories) by the tizzy which has resulted at MGM since a magazine scribe named Lloyd Shearer opined that five of the studio's veteran stars — Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Greer Garson, Walter Pidgeon and Fred Astaire — are now worn - out, as far as box-office "draw" is concerned, and will have to give way to the young stars on Leo the Lion's payroll. Such sacrilege, as might be expected, couldn't be allowed to pass without protest. Dore Schary, the MGM boss-man, promptly took the floor and announced, in no uncertain terms, that Writer Shearer was writing through his hat — that actually Messers Gable, Tracy, Pidgeon, and Astaire, and also Miss Garson, are the "motion picture industry's greatest box-office assets." Well, I'd like to get in an "actually," too. Certainly the five stars mentioned are not "worn-out" at the box-office since any one of them can, and sometimes does, bring in big money when fortunate enough to be cast in an excellent story. And certainly they can't be very truthfully rated as tremendous box - office assets since, given a punk story, no one of them pull in enough money, through personal popularity, to stave off disaster. It's the star-system that's lost its potency — and Hollywood will be the last to recognize that fact.

BIBLE COMMENTS

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Jesus defined His work and mission to the world in various ways, and at various times.

He said He had come to seek and to save the lost (Matthew 18:11 and many other passages).

He had come to fulfill the prophecies of Isaiah (Luke 4:16-21). And He had come to bear witness unto truth (John 18:37).

But the one great comprehensive, all-inclusive definition of His mission and redemptive purpose was in the declaration, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly" (John 10:10).

In that declaration Jesus specifically contrasted that purpose of God, in His own mission, with the purpose of others to steal and to destroy.

How appalling that contrast is all through the history of mankind! The Bible, as well as all other great books of man's life, reveal how early stealing and destruction began.

The long course of history is one of rapine and bloodshed, but we need not look to the past to realize the depth and extent of stealing and slaughter. Our own age has revealed evil fully as appalling.

The great tragedies and evils of life are sufficiently apparent. What is not so apparent is that these great evils of violence and destruction have their roots in the lesser evils of men, and in the lack of basic morality.

Dishonesty is at the root of crime, even in the hearts and lives of men who are not legally criminal.

The business man who takes unfair advantage of his fellows is weakening the whole fabric of society. The public official, who betrays his trust, and the honor that he ought to possess, would probably scorn to commit murder, or banditry, or to steal in some grosser way.

One can see plainly, however, in revelations of graft and civic corruption how he has been the actual ally of those who have made stealing and destruction their chief purpose.

One of Tolstoi's great short stories is translated into English under the title, "If You Neglect the Lesser Fire, You Cannot Put Out the Great One."

The lesser fire began when neighbors quarrelled over the possession of an egg, which one peasant's hen had laid beyond the fence of the other.

Then the fire began to spread, until in the actual firing of the barn of the other by one of the peasants the conflagration spread, and the whole village was destroyed.

That is what is happening in the life surrounding us today. So much of it is wrong in its source, in its very beginnings. The habit of today becomes the gripping evil of tomorrow.

Every newspaper in its daily news reveals in its reports of tragedies and accidents the extent of the drink evil, the gambling evil, and the other evils that affect and endanger society—the things that oppose and defy God's life-giving purpose for mankind.

Yet the public attitude is still largely apathetic and ineffective. What the world needs, and what every community needs, is an immense endowment of God's life-giving purpose, as Jesus expressed it, "to give life, and to give it more abundantly."

FLATIRONS STILL USED

The Colebrookdale Iron Co., was founded in the early 1700's and the blacksmith shop that is still used was one of the original buildings. Until 1929 Colebrookdale's principal product was the old-fashioned iron that must be heated on top of the stove. With the introduction of electrically-heated irons Colebrookdale turned to other products.

But orders still abound for irons from women who live in parts of this country where there is no electrical service, and from many foreign countries. A boon to the flatiron business has been a recent fad to use the irons for door-stops, book ends and desk ornaments.

William B. Keely, head of the firm, recently emptied his warehouse of irons to fill orders from gift shops in New York and other cities. There the irons were painted black and decorated with Pennsylvania-Dutch symbols.

U. S. ARMY RETURNS JAPANESE PROPERTY

YOKOHOMA, Japan (AP) — The U. S. Army is rapidly going out of business in this bustling port city.

Maj. Gen. Walter L. Weible, commander of the Japan logistical command, has announced that by early summer the major portion of occupation-held property in downtown Yokohoma will have been returned to Japanese owners.

He said that since Jan. 1 the Army has released some 15 million square feet of land and more than 300,000 square feet of building space.

Let the Presbyterian Church Help You Build a Successful Family Life

Any couple who builds their married life around the activities of the church is sure to be rewarded with a richer, fuller life. There is no finer or surer foundation for a lasting and happy family life than the love and protection of a truly Christian home. Christian faith opens up a clearer understanding of how to solve present-day problems, makes families more tolerant, more united and stronger against the forces which tend to destroy the home.

The Presbyterian church stands ready and eager to assist any couple, either just married or an older family group, in developing the foundation which leads to a successful married life.

You will like the fellowship of a Presbyterian Church where you will meet and become associated with other friends who are working out a successful home life, through an orderly religious plan. The Presbyterian service, with its well balanced combination of music, instruction and inspiration can help you obtain the full blessings of a Christian home. Won't you come and see?

BIBLE COMMENTS

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Jesus defined His work and mission to the world in various ways, and at various times.

He said He had come to seek and to save the lost (Matthew 18:11 and many other passages).

He had come to fulfill the prophecies of Isaiah (Luke 4:16-21). And He had come to bear witness unto truth (John 18:37).

But the one great comprehensive, all-inclusive definition of His mission and redemptive purpose was in the declaration, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly" (John 10:10).

In that declaration Jesus specifically contrasted that purpose of God, in His own mission, with the purpose of others to steal and to destroy.

How appalling that contrast is all through the history of mankind! The Bible, as well as all other great books of man's life, reveal how early stealing and destruction began.

The long course of history is one of rapine and bloodshed, but we need not look to the past to realize the depth and extent of stealing and slaughter. Our own age has revealed evil fully as appalling.

The great tragedies and evils of life are sufficiently apparent. What is not so apparent is that these great evils of violence and destruction have their roots in the lesser evils of men, and in the lack of basic morality.

Dishonesty is at the root of crime, even in the hearts and lives of men who are not legally criminal.

The business man who takes unfair advantage of his fellows is weakening the whole fabric of society. The public official, who betrays his trust, and the honor that he ought to possess, would probably scorn to commit murder, or banditry, or to steal in some grosser way.

One can see plainly, however, in revelations of graft and civic corruption how he has been the actual ally of those who have made stealing and destruction their chief purpose.

The lesser fire began when neighbors quarrelled over the possession of an egg, which one peasant's hen had laid beyond the fence of the other.

Then the fire began to spread, until in the actual firing of the barn of the other by one of the peasants the conflagration spread, and the whole village was destroyed.

That is what is happening in the life surrounding us today. So much of it is wrong in its source, in its very beginnings. The habit of today becomes the gripping evil of tomorrow.

Every newspaper in its daily news reveals in its reports of tragedies and accidents the extent of the drink evil, the gambling evil, and the other evils that affect and endanger society—the things that oppose and defy God's life-giving purpose for mankind.

Yet the public attitude is still largely apathetic and ineffective. What the world needs, and what every community needs, is an immense endowment of God's life-giving purpose, as Jesus expressed it, "to give life, and to give it more abundantly."

FLATIRONS STILL USED

The Colebrookdale Iron Co., was founded in the early 1700's and the blacksmith shop that is still used was one of the original buildings. Until 1929 Colebrookdale's principal product was the old-fashioned iron that must be heated on top of the stove. With the introduction of electrically-heated irons Colebrookdale turned to other products.

But orders still abound for irons from women who live in parts of this country where there is no electrical service, and from many foreign countries. A boon to the flatiron business has been a recent fad to use the irons for door-stops, book ends and desk ornaments.

William B. Keely, head of the firm, recently emptied his warehouse of irons to fill orders from gift shops in New York and other cities. There the irons were painted black and decorated with Pennsylvania-Dutch symbols.

Any couple who builds their married life around the activities of the church is sure to be rewarded with a richer, fuller life. There is no finer or surer foundation for a lasting and happy family life than the love and protection of a truly Christian home. Christian faith opens up a clearer understanding of how to solve present-day problems, makes families more tolerant, more united and stronger against the forces which tend to destroy the home.

The Presbyterian church stands ready and eager to assist any couple, either just married or an older family group, in developing the foundation which leads to a successful married life.

You will like the fellowship of a Presbyterian Church where you will meet and become associated with other friends who are working out a successful home life, through an orderly religious plan. The Presbyterian service, with its well balanced combination of music, instruction and inspiration can help you obtain the full blessings of a Christian home. Won't you come and see?

How Much Is Religious Freedom Worth?

The Pilgrims who braved the ocean and the wilderness to secure it knew what religious freedom was worth.

The people of the thirteen original states who refused to ratify the Constitution until it was guaranteed in an added bill of rights knew what religious freedom was worth.

The soldiers who fought in both World Wars that it might be established everywhere as one of four freedoms essential to man knew what religious freedom was worth.

All the boys who have been in the Korean war have known what religious freedom is worth.

The millions of people in other lands who even now struggle ands uffer for religious freedom could tell you what it is worth.

Then ask yourself . . . is religious freedom worth enough to you so that you guard it by using it?

Are you among the Americans who worship regularly . . . each in his own church and according his own conscience . . . yet all united by a common faith in the brotherhood of man under the Fatherhood of God.

Much depends upon your answer, for in this common faith our nation was founded and upon it all our freedoms rest.

If enough of us let it rust away, all that we mean by America would crumble with it.

2 BLUE SHIELD AGENTS CHOSEN

Mrs. Susie Price And Mrs. Marguerite Malone Are Selected

Louisiana Physicians Service—Blue Shield—today announced the appointment of two representatives to its Monroe District Office. The announcement was made by Michel E. Lion, the Blue Shield New Orleans Home Office representative, who announced the appointment of Mrs. Susie Price and Mrs. Marguerite Malone, both of Monroe. Mr. Lion stated that two representatives were appointed by Blue Shield to the Monroe area in order to provide a better service to Blue Shield subscribers and to the general public, who will desire in the future to enroll as members of Blue Shield.

LPS—Blue Shield—is the prepaid health care program sponsored by the doctors of this state, through the Louisiana State Medical Society. It is the only prepaid health care program sponsored by the Medical Society and is, likewise, the only program in Louisiana which has been granted the Seal of Acceptance of the Council on Medical Serivce of the American Medical Association.

Blue Shield in Louisiana offers a program of hospital, medical and surgical care on a payment basis, whereby an individual can systematically budget for the unpredictable costs associated with an accident, illness or injury.

"An important feature of Louisiana Physicians Service — Blue Shield—is its service benefits," explained Mr. Lion. A member has choice of hospital and physician and may use any hospital and physician anywhere in the world. The doctors have assembled a list of participating physicians totalling more than 1,000 in the state and a Blue Shield subscriber, by using a participating physician, is assured of complete surgical and obstetrical service if his annual family income is less than $3,000. If the member is single and makes less than $2,000, he receives the same benefits. Those persons whose incomes are in excess of the income brackets will pay the doctor that part of the fee, if any, that is in excess of the amount allowed by Blue Shield.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

Little Theatre Curtain Call has been conspiciously absent from these pages for the past two weeks and due, I assure you, to the usual excuse, circumstances beyond our control. However, from the barbed comments we heard, its about time we got back on the job, so without further adieu here's what goes on at the playhouse.

Tuesday evening the entire cast of the uproarious comedy "Kiss and Tell" went through their paces with scripts for the last time. Wednesday evening the schedule of rehearsals will be sans scripts for the next two weeks which brings them up to dress rehearsal and opening night. Construction of the set is in its final phases and is just about ready for its painters and decorators. All told this big cast of fifteen is moving along right on schedule with "Kiss and Tell." Even two weeks before opening the actors and the comedy situations of this family comedy, had the folks out front in gales of laughter, just couldn't budge a one of them until Stocker said "That's all for tonight."

Doc Ringo and Ceil were visitors to the set, while Doc measured his big assignment of make-up for fifteen people. This is really going to be a major item in the production of "Kiss and Tell." Overheard Albert telling veteran actor Paul Voney that he would probably have to do his own make-up.

If I may sound a word of warning two weeks early, remember to get your reservations in early. "Kiss and Tell" holds big promise of being the very best comedy Little Theatre has presented to date. The folks are saying that it will probably be more popular than the long remembered "John Loves Mary." The show opens Wednesday evening, May 28 and runs through Wednesday evening, June 4. The Little Theatre playhouse comfortably seats one hundred and twelve people, so by simple arithmetic it is easy to see what a problem the demand on a popular show would present.

Random Notes — A sight for sore eyes was popular Little Theatre Actress June Shultz, home from the bright lights and the bigness of New York, for a two weeks vacation, five days of which she is spending in Monroe as guest of Frank and Beth Breese while saying hello to all of her friends. Seeing June, Ramona Cormier and Yvonne Lusk sitting together out front while "Kiss and Tell" was in rehearsal, didn't seem like she had been a New Yorker this past twelve months. . . . While doing the Who's Who for the program bulletin, I stumbled upon an interesting fact that some very civic minded citizens of Monroe are in the process of organizing a symphony Orchestra Society of the Twin Cities. Now who is it to say that our fair cities aren't growing more ways than one. . . . Contemplating this big advancement in the community life of the Twin Cities, brought to mind another picture of how we Americans are forging ahead. I remember thirty years ago when we brothers and sisters fought over the ear phones of an old time crystal set, and a symphony orchestra was something that we vaguely associated with some far off place called New York. Just the other day riding along a beautiful road leading into Little Rock, Ark., I spied a sign advertising television on a fence post. . . . Sunday afternoon in Forsythe Park, Melvin Greenblatt, president of the local Kennel Club was demonstrating the know hows of showing off a blooded dog. Don't talk to Mr. G. about anything but the big Sanction Match which will be held here Sunday, May 25 at the Ouachita Parish Fair exhibits building. He is putting his heart into this project which will be something else new for Monroyans. . . . And with this we will end another day's chatter with the folks of Little Theatre, while we tell you that Bugger the dog in "Kiss and Tell" seems to like the stage very, very much.

Hobbs Post Auxiliary Praised For Assistance

The following letter was received by the auxiliary to Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, thanking the members for their recent gift to the Veterans Administration Hospital.

"Dear Mrs. Newman, president,

"Again we are grateful to your organization for remembering our patients at a holiday season. With the check which you sent, the chief dietitian was able to purchase enough candy to use on the patients' trays and tables for the Mother's Day dinner.

"As always, the patients appreciated the little extra touch that made the occasion festive. The consistent thoughtfulness of representative organizations and individuals is a very real morale building factor in a veterans hospital. Thank you for all of your interest and help.

"Yours very truly,
"Elmer D. Burke,
"Chief Special services"

The Auxiliary will meet in regular session Thursday night, May 22nd. All members are urged to be present. Several candidates are expected and plans will be completed for the next rummage sale as well as other important business.

2 BLUE SHIELD AGENTS CHOSEN

Mrs. Susie Price And Mrs. Marguerite Malone Are Selected

Louisiana Physicians Service—Blue Shield—today announced the appointment of two representatives to its Monroe District Office. The announcement was made by Michel E. Lion, the Blue Shield New Orleans Home Office representative, who announced the appointment of Mrs. Susie Price and Mrs. Marguerite Malone, both of Monroe. Mr. Lion stated that two representatives were appointed by Blue Shield to the Monroe area in order to provide a better service to Blue Shield subscribers and to the general public, who will desire in the future to enroll as members of Blue Shield.

LPS—Blue Shield—is the prepaid health care program sponsored by the doctors of this state, through the Louisiana State Medical Society. It is the only prepaid health care program sponsored by the Medical Society and is, likewise, the only program in Louisiana which has been granted the Seal of Acceptance of the Council on Medical Serivce of the American Medical Association.

Blue Shield in Louisiana offers a program of hospital, medical and surgical care on a payment basis, whereby an individual can systematically budget for the unpredictable costs associated with an accident, illness or injury.

"An important feature of Louisiana Physicians Service — Blue Shield—is its service benefits," explained Mr. Lion. A member has choice of hospital and physician and may use any hospital and physician anywhere in the world. The doctors have assembled a list of participating physicians totalling more than 1,000 in the state and a Blue Shield subscriber, by using a participating physician, is assured of complete surgical and obstetrical service if his annual family income is less than $3,000. If the member is single and makes less than $2,000, he receives the same benefits. Those persons whose incomes are in excess of the income brackets will pay the doctor that part of the fee, if any, that is in excess of the amount allowed by Blue Shield.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

Little Theatre Curtain Call has been conspiciously absent from these pages for the past two weeks and due, I assure you, to the usual excuse, circumstances beyond our control. However, from the barbed comments we heard, its about time we got back on the job, so without further adieu here's what goes on at the playhouse.

Tuesday evening the entire cast of the uproarious comedy "Kiss and Tell" went through their paces with scripts for the last time. Wednesday evening the schedule of rehearsals will be sans scripts for the next two weeks which brings them up to dress rehearsal and opening night. Construction of the set is in its final phases and is just about ready for its painters and decorators. All told this big cast of fifteen is moving along right on schedule with "Kiss and Tell." Even two weeks before opening the actors and the comedy situations of this family comedy, had the folks out front in gales of laughter, just couldn't budge a one of them until Stocker said "That's all for tonight."

Doc Ringo and Ceil were visitors to the set, while Doc measured his big assignment of make-up for fifteen people. This is really going to be a major item in the production of "Kiss and Tell." Over-heard Albert telling veteran actor Paul Voney that he would probably have to do his own make-up.

If I may sound a word of warning two weeks early, remember to get your reservations in early. "Kiss and Tell" holds big promise of being the very best comedy Little Theatre has presented to date. The folks are saying that it will probably be more popular than the long remembered "John Loves Mary." The show opens Wednesday evening, May 28 and runs through Wednesday evening, June 4. The Little Theatre playhouse comfortably seats one hundred and twelve people, so by simple arithmetic it is easy to see what a problem the demand on a popular show would present.

Random Notes — A sight for sore eyes was popular Little Theatre Actress June Shultz, home from the bright lights and the bigness of New York, for a two weeks vacation, five days of which she is spending in Monroe as guest of Frank and Beth Breese while saying hello to all of her friends. Seeing June, Ramona Cormier and Yvonne Lusk sitting together out front while "Kiss and Tell" was in rehearsal, didn't seem like she had been a New Yorker this past twelve months. . . . While doing the Who's Who for the program bulletin, I stumbled upon an interesting fact that some very civic minded citizens of Monroe are in the process of organizing a symphony Orchestra Society of the Twin Cities. Now who is it to say that our fair cities aren't growing more ways than one. . . . Contemplating this big advancement in the community life of the Twin Cities, brought to mind another picture of how we Americans are forging ahead. I remember thirty years ago when we brothers and sisters fought over the ear phones of an old time crystal set, and a symphony orchestra was something that we vaguely associated with some far off place called New York. Just the other day riding along a beautiful road leading into Little Rock, Ark., I spied a sign advertising television on a fence post. . . . Sunday afternoon in Forsythe Park, Melvin Greenblatt, president of the local Kennel Club was demonstrating the know hows of showing off a blooded dog. Don't talk to Mr. G. about anything but the big Sanction Match which will be held here Sunday, May 25 at the Ouachita Parish Fair exhibits building. He is putting his heart into this project which will be something else new for Monroyans. . . . And with this we will end another day's chatter with the folks of Little Theatre, while we tell you that Bugger the dog in "Kiss and Tell" seems to like the stage very, very much.

Hobbs Post Auxiliary Praised For Assistance

The following letter was received by the auxiliary to Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, thanking the members for their recent gift to the Veterans Administration Hospital.

"Dear Mrs. Newman, president,

"Again we are grateful to your organization for remembering our patients at a holiday season. With the check which you sent, the chief dietitian was able to purchase enough candy to use on the patients' trays and tables for the Mother's Day dinner.

"As always, the patients appreciated the little extra touch that made the occasion festive. The consistent thoughtfulness of representative organizations and individuals is a very real morale building factor in a veterans hospital. Thank you for all of your interest and help.

"Yours very truly,
"Elmer D. Burke,
"Chief Special services"

The Auxiliary will meet in regular session Thursday night, May 22nd. All members are urged to be present. Several candidates are expected and plans will be completed for the next rummage sale as well as other important business.

The Little Theatre playhouse comfortably seats one hundred and twelve people, so by simple arithmetic it is easy to see what a problem the demand on a popular show would present.

Random Notes — A sight for sore eyes was popular Little Theatre Actress June Shultz, home from the bright lights and the bigness of New York, for a two weeks vacation, five days of which she is spending in Monroe as guest of Frank and Beth Breese while saying hello to all of her friends. Seeing June, Ramona Cormier and Yvonne Lusk sitting together out front while "Kiss and Tell" was in rehearsal, didn't seem like she had been a New Yorker this past twelve months. . . . While doing the Who's Who for the program bulletin, I stumbled upon an interesting fact that some very civic minded citizens of Monroe are in the process of organizing a symphony Orchestra Society of the Twin Cities. Now who is it to say that our fair cities aren't growing more ways than one. . . . Contemplating this big advancement in the community life of the Twin Cities, brought to mind another picture of how we Americans are forging ahead. I remember thirty years ago when we brothers and sisters fought over the ear phones of an old time crystal set, and a symphony orchestra was something that we vaguely associated with some far off place called New York. Just the other day riding along a beautiful road leading into Little Rock, Ark., I spied a sign advertising television on a fence post. . . . Sunday afternoon in Forsythe Park, Melvin Greenblatt, president of the local Kennel Club was demonstrating the know hows of showing off a blooded dog. Don't talk to Mr. G. about anything but the big Sanction Match which will be held here Sunday, May 25 at the Ouachita Parish Fair exhibits building. He is putting his heart into this project which will be something else new for Monroyans. . . . And with this we will end another day's chatter with the folks of Little Theatre, while we tell you that Bugger the dog in "Kiss and Tell" seems to like the stage very, very much.

Hobbs Post Auxiliary Praised For Assistance

The following letter was received by the auxiliary to Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, thanking the members for their recent gift to the Veterans Administration Hospital.

"Dear Mrs. Newman, president,

"Again we are grateful to your organization for remembering our patients at a holiday season. With the check which you sent, the chief dietitian was able to purchase enough candy to use on the patients' trays and tables for the Mother's Day dinner.

"As always, the patients appreciated the little extra touch that made the occasion festive. The consistent thoughtfulness of representative organizations and individuals is a very real morale building factor in a veterans hospital. Thank you for all of your interest and help.

"Yours very truly,
"Elmer D. Burke,
"Chief Special services"

The Auxiliary will meet in regular session Thursday night, May 22nd. All members are urged to be present. Several candidates are expected and plans will be completed for the next rummage sale as well as other important business.

NILE BOATS form part of the beauty found in Egypt.

CAIRO—There are a number of wondrous unforgettable sights for the person passing through Cairo.

There are the age-old pyramids and sphinx by moonlight-massive silent, indestructible and mysterious monuments bulking against the desert and the heavens.

There's the great 12th Century citadel on the eastern hills overlooking Cairo—an outstanding example of Islamic architecture. The citadel is the tomb of the famous Sultan Saladin, who met his death in the Third Crusade.

There's the world-renowned Egyptian Museum with its golden death masks and other treasures from the long-buried tombs of King Tut and other ancient pharoahs. And there's the River Nile and the Nile boatmen on it.

Picturesque Craft

Though the cargoes are prosaic, the falloocas themselves make pretty pictures. Many westerners living in Egypt use a picture of a falooca with full sail set, as a Christmas card scene.

Sailing on the Nile is a hereditary occupation. The rivermen, although they never make much money, have great prestige among the Egyptian villager and fellaheen, who seldom in his life travels more than a few miles from his simple house.

The Nile boatman is looked on as the adventurous wayfarer. He gets to the big cities of Cairo and Alexandria and spins strange tales of them in the back country.

Boatman's Life

The boatmen have their traditional chanting songs—songs of love, usually—which they may sing as they float idly downstream or as they sweat turning the capstan that raises the falooca's mast. The mast must be lowered so the falooca can pass under bridges over the main river and side canals.

In Cairo the riverman may attend one of the local "night clubs"—small native cafes where he plays cards, listens to radio going full blast with the latest song by Om Kalsum (Egypt's most famous woman singer) or watches a belly dancer. He wears a fine silk robe and scarf on such nights on the town. He generally brags about his feminine conquests.

GULF COAST
Sun And Sand

For those of you planning vacations along the Mississippi Gulf Coast, here are a few dabs of information to take along — when you pass through the beautiful towns along the coast.

Biloxi

One time capital of the entire Mississippi Valley and the area later known as "The Louisiana Purchase," Biloxi's history goes back more than two-hundred-fifty years. Founded by Pierre le Moyne d'Iberville in 1699 under the French flag, Biloxi has since been under the British, Spanish, West Florida Republic, Confederate and United States flags. Almost surrounded by water, the peninsula has turned to the sea as a way of life and Biloxi sea-food plants ship fresh, frozen and canned shrimp, oysters and crabs all over the world.

Gulfport

A new modern city with a deep-water port, Gulfport's growth since its incorporation in the early part of the century has been phenomenal. The result of the combined efforts of two men, Gulfport was founded by William Hardy, a soldier in the Confederate Army, and Captain Joseph T. Jones, an eastern capitalist who "loved Mississippi." Gulfport's port is host to ships from all over the world. Principal imports are ores, molasses, sugar and coffee. Timber, naval stores, creosoted pilings and cotton are the major exports.

Mississippi City

Just east of Gulfport, Mississippi City was one of the first towns on the Coast to win fame as a resort area. When Harrison County was organized in 1841, Mississippi City was made the county seat.

Ocean Springs

One of the first white settlements in the Mississippi Valley Established in 1699 by Pierre le Moyne, Sieur d'Iberville. Originally called Biloxi probably because of the Biloxi Indians which lived in the area, then known briefly as Lynchburg, and finally Ocean Springs because of the famous health - giving spring waters. Today a leisurely - paced town of fine old trees, comfortable homes, and forward looking citizens.

Long Beach

A fast growing community of new homes and beautiful churches. Throughout Long Beach are many fine private gardens well worth a drive through the oak lined streets.

Ship Island

Historic island that was base for the British fleet during the attack on New Orleans in 1815. Ship Island can be reached by pleasure boats from either Gulfport or Biloxi. One of the finest white sand beaches in the South is on the far side of Ship Island where surf bathing at its best can be enjoyed.

GOLF'S THE GAME

With golf becoming more and more a popular sport, you don't need a million dollars and an ulcer to play. Vacation spots are planning for the largest golfing season in history this summer.

NEW ORLEANS
The Old And The New

New Orleans, one of the main vacation spots for residents of North Louisiana, has an early history that gives it the great charm it has for visitors throughout the world. That history enhances a vacation in the Crescent City.

New Orleans was founded in 1718 by Jean Baptiste le Moyne, Sieur de Bienville one of the greatest colonizers of France in America. He chose the site of the new town, which he hoped would eventually become the capital of the colony of Louisiana, on a slightly higher level of ground nestling in a great sweeping curve of the Mississippi River a little more than a hundred miles from its mouth.

Because the French ministers were unable to visualize the possibilities of the site and refused to cooperate with Bienville in developing it, the first few years of the city were not promising. Father Charlevoix, one of the first visitors to the struggling settlement, wrote in 1722 that it consisted of a hundred barracks, a large wooden storehouse, a few tents and two or three houses which, he observed, "would be no ornament to a village of France."

In that same year, however, Bienville, backed by Adrian de Pauger, finally succeeded in having the capital moved from Biloxi to New Orleans and the real history of the city began. De Pauger, who was assistant to Le Bland de la Tour, Royal Engineer, drew up the plans of the city according to the French model. He marked out a square around which the important public buildings of the new community were to be located and from which the city was to develop. The Square, which was called the Place d' Armes and in 1849 the name of which was changed to Jackson Square, was located on the banks of the river and the new buildings, including St. Louis Church, the predecessor of the present Cathedral, placed back of it.

Thus was the beginning of New Orleans, in an area which the city has long since outgrown and which is known today as the French Quarter, or Vieux Carre.

This French Quarter, the outstanding New Orleans attraction from the visitor's standpoint of view, is very much the same now in appearance as it was towards the close of the French and Spanish dominations in the late eighteenth century and is, in fact, a veritable treasury of lore—historic, romantic and picturesque. The straight, narrow streets, the quaint architecture, the exquisite iron railings, the graceful fan windows and the charming little patios or courtyards are a never ending fascination.

TWIN CITY VACATION PREVIEW OF 1952

Where Northeast Louisiana Residents Plan Their Vacations And What They Will Do And See When They Get There

There's a joyous moment in the musical, "Paint Your Wagon," when gold prospectors sing out emphatically, "Where am I going? I don't know. When will I get there? I ain't tellin'. All that I know is I am on my way." In many ways that expresses the vast trek to vacation spots throughout the nation and elsewhere which Twin City vacationers are expected to live up to this season.

Never before in the history of holiday-minded people has there been such an overwhelming season. Resorts throughout the nation are preparing for their largest onslaught, with hitherto minor vacation spots extending open arms. Why this mass exodus, so to speak?

Many critics are apt to bring up the general unrest of the world and the attempted escape from workaday lives. Passing over this, however, we can take a brief look at just what the 1952 season holds in the offing for Twin City residents.

First of all, some number of persons from this area are planning trips outside the nation. Europe, which is receiving its largest and most colorful invasion, has extended itself in one of the biggest campaigns in its post-war history. Even the Holy Year of 1950 doesn't compare. That Europe is receiving so many from this area is indicative of the no-boundary world we're living in.

Mexico, Canada and South America, as well as a surprising Central America, are proving big attractions for this area's vacationers, too. For example, each of these areas has stepped up its advertising to such an extent that a jaunt to Rio reads like stepping next door.

But Continental U. S. A. is still King of the masses—and the masses are making the most of it this year. From this area, the Gulf Coast, Texas and Arkansas expect the largest flow. But Miami and her little sisters, Nassau, Jamaica and Havana are being seen by more people than ever before.

The one great campaign peg of all of these places, of course, is the idea of sun and play. The fashionable resorts of the early part of this century—in which polite society and blissful rest combined to lure vacationers—are almost non-existent today. True, fashionable resorts exist in quantity, but Biloxi and Galveston, for example, are attempting to offer as much to prospective patrons as French Lick. It's all a part of the national fever to set the millions at play.

Much of the advertising of these vacation resorts is filled with the repetitive advice that "you don't have to be a millionnaire to live like one." Where once such resorts as Sun Valley catered mainly to financial moguls, now it's stretching arms to all—and price—moderate price—is mentioned at every opportunity. High taxes, obviously, have left few people positively wealthy.

Look at the way Miami is building up its summer season. With winter vacationers, mainly from the East, occupying Miami and Miami Beach during January and February, the Chambers of Commerce of these cities are trying to promote a summer season comparative to the winter one. Rates are slashed in the finer hotels to a place within the range of medium-income brackets. And "going to Miami," is hardly a rare event.

An especially notable feature in Twin City plans this season is the thought given Arkansas and the Ozarks. Many of these resorts in the Shepherd of the Hills country offer all of the outdoor recreational advantages, with the additional incentive of scenic beauty. Lakes in these mountains that have served as mere local excursion spots are now building up large national tourist trades, some of them—like Rockaway Beach on Lake Tanneycomo—advertising their Boardwalks on a minor Atlantic City basis.

Another striking condition to be considered in the knowledge that distance is hardly a barrier, and hasn't been for some years. The airlines are spending millions advertising their low-cost trips to parts of the United States and world that many would-be vacationers wouldn't have dreamed approachable. In fact, the time may not be too far off when a man on the street will casually remark, "Think I'll hop down to Buenos Aires this week end." Like driving to Bastrop, maybe!

One excellent reason for the big vacation exodus is the realization on the port of resort managers that people are continually expecting not only the best but highly diversified entertainments. With competition in the field so extensive, many resorts are undertaking P. T. Barnum methods—"we give more for the money than anybody!"

Another note of more recent attention is the fact that small savings accounts for vacations are springing up across the nation. Where once the Christmas Savings Account was King, the Vacation Account is rapidly catching up. The fever has so mounted that many in the lower-income brackets are willing to deprive themselves throughout the year for that glorious two-weeks-with-pay in the summer months.

It's a Big Business this vacationing. The News-Star—World's Vacation Issue, for example, has a story entitled, "Who's Staying Home?" That's a vital question. Many towns and cities which possess no colorful bait for staying home are nevertheless striving to hold many of its citizens through constant iteration of its parks and outing facilities — "The sun shines here as well."

Then, last but not least, there's the need of people to "get away" where inhibitions can be thrown to the four winds. The constant strain of high-pressure living, especially in the last decade, has turned faces toward hope of relief. Even the small towns are victims of the first and furious mode of twentieth-century living. Thus the idea of exodus—once a luxury of the great cities—is now a national way of thinking. The Twin Cities are part and parcel of it.

Throughout this vacation edition which the News-Star—World is happy to bring you you'll find news of places once beyond your thoughts. But modern living, modern transportation and modern thought have combined to bring them all next door.

Bon Voyage!

LOST LAKE

Lake Bonneville is the name given by geologists to a fresh water lake which existed thousands of years ago. It covered what now is Utah, as well as parts of Idaho and Nevada. With Withdrawal of the glaciers, Lake Bonneville shrank and only a few smaller lakes survived, principal one of which is Great Salt Lake.

Vacation Clothes Chosen For Comfort, Care And Ease

Once upon a time vacationers dressed completely for what other vacationers would think of them.

The new trends, however, mean dressing for your own pleasure, with wonderful new travel items that please others' eyes.

Vacation clothes, above all, should not be a burden. Three things should be kept constantly in mind.

1. Comfort.
2. Ease of care.
3. Appropriateness for the vacation planned.

It's easy to pack half the things you own into bags and take them on your vacation. But more than half these things will be useless, unworn and probably rumpled.

For Women

A suit is ideal for travel. If the miles are by automobile and through hot climates, wear a sleeveless, bareback dress with cover-up jacket.

Suits, as always take you most places. Change of accessories can transform them from street costumes to cocktail ensembles.

Cool and informal cottons probably will take care of days on a casual vacation. Gloves and hat will dress simple cottons up for town wear.

Play clothes, however, are enjoying their biggest boon in history. As people become more vacation minded, their vacation spots include seaside resorts, mountain resorts, etc. Should your vacation plans take these in wear shorts and halters to let the sun have its way.

Best bets are the mix and match ensembles with skirts, shorts, slacks, pedal pushers, halters and shirts made of same fabric and permitting any number of combinations. Evening wear, of course, means that in the South dressy cottons, although some parts of the country still use dark silks.

For Men

Men, too, are enjoying their most colorful season to date. Nylon shirts are the rage. Knit shirts, too, cut down on ironing problems and create fewer laundry bills.

Cotton cord slacks for driving make trips more comfortable and the beautiful new materials of tropical wear are ideal for both sport and form summer vacation wear.

And dacron, the new synthetic fabric, is being used in men's suits which manufacturers claim will shed wrinkles easily and get their crease back if they're caught in the rain. Colors in men's clothes range from the lightest to the darkest, patch pockets the rage for sport wear.

CAIRO—There are a number of wondrous unforgettable sights for the person passing through Cairo.

There are the age-old pyramids and sphinx by moonlight-massive silent, indestructible and mysterious monuments bulking against the desert and the heavens.

There's the great 12th Century citadel on the eastern hills overlooking Cairo—an outstanding example of Islamic architecture. The citadel is the tomb of the famous Sultan Saladin, who met his death in the Third Crusade.

There's the world-renowned Egyptian Museum with its golden death masks and other treasures from the long-buried tombs of King Tut and other ancient pharoahs. And there's the River Nile and the Nile boatmen on it.

Picturesque Craft

Though the cargoes are prosaic, the falloocas themselves make pretty pictures. Many westerners living in Egypt use a picture of a falooca with full sail set, as a Christmas card scene.

Sailing on the Nile is a hereditary occupation. The rivermen, although they never make much money, have great prestige among the Egyptian villager and fellaheen, who seldom in his life travels more than a few miles from his simple house.

The Nile boatman is looked on as the adventurous wayfarer. He gets to the big cities of Cairo and Alexandria and spins strange tales of them in the back country.

Boatman's Life

The boatmen have their traditional chanting songs—songs of love, usually—which they may sing as they float idly downstream or as they sweat turning the capstan that raises the falooca's mast. The mast must be lowered so the falooca can pass under bridges over the main river and side canals.

In Cairo the riverman may attend one of the local "night clubs"—small native cafes where he plays cards, listens to radio going full blast with the latest song by Om Kalsum (Egypt's most famous woman singer) or watches a belly dancer. He wears a fine silk robe and scarf on such nights on the town. He generally brags about his feminine conquests.

GULF COAST
Sun And Sand

For those of you planning vacations along the Mississippi Gulf Coast, here are a few dabs of information to take along — when you pass though the beautiful towns along the coast.

Biloxi

One time capital of the entire Mississippi Valley and the area later known as "The Louisiana Purchase," Biloxi's history goes back more than two-hundred-fifty years. Founded by Pierre le Moyne d'Iberville in 1699 under the French flag, Biloxi has since been under the British, Spanish, West Florida Republic, Confederate and United States flags. Almost surrounded by water, the peninsula has turned to the sea as a way of life and Biloxi sea-food plants ship fresh, frozen and canned shrimp, oysters and crabs all over the world.

Gulfport

A new modern city with a deep-water port, Gulfport's growth since its incorporation in the early part of the century has been phenomenal. The result of the combined efforts of two men, Gulfport was founded by William Hardy, a soldier in the Confederate Army, and Captain Joseph T. Jones, an eastern capitalist who "loved Mississippi." Gulfport's port is host to ships from all over the world. Principal imports are ores, molasses, sugar and coffee. Timber, naval stores, creosoted pilings and cotton are the major exports.

Mississippi City

Just east of Gulfport, Mississippi City was one of the first towns on the Coast to win fame as a resort area. When Harrison County was organized in 1841, Mississippi City was made the county seat.

Ocean Springs

One of the first white settlements in the Mississippi Valley Established in 1699 by Pierre le Moyne, Sieur d'Iberville. Originally called Biloxi probably because of the Biloxi Indians which lived in the area, then known briefly as Lynchburg, and finally Ocean Springs because of the famous health - giving spring waters. Today a leisurely - paced town of fine old trees, comfortable homes, and forward looking citizens.

Long Beach

A fast growing community of new homes and beautiful churches. Throughout Long Beach are many fine private gardens well worth a drive through the oak lined streets.

Ship Island

Historic island that was base for the British fleet during the attack on New Orleans in 1815, Ship Island can be reached by pleasure boats from either Gulfport or Biloxi. One of the finest white sand beaches in the South is on the far side of Ship Island where surf bathing at its best can be enjoyed.

With golf becoming more and more a popular sport, you don't need a million dollars and an ulcer to play. Vacation spots are planning for the largest golfing season in history this summer.

NEW ORLEANS
The Old And The New

New Orleans, one of the main vacation spots for residents of North Louisiana, has an early history that gives it the great charm it has for visitors throughout the world. That history enhances a vacation in the Crescent City.

New Orleans was founded in 1718 by Jean Baptiste le Moyne, Sieur de Bienville one of the greatest colonizers of France in America. He chose the site of the new town, which he hoped would eventually become the capital of the colony of Louisiana, on a slightly higher level of ground nestling in a great sweeping curve of the Mississippi River a little more than a hundred miles from its mouth.

Because the French ministers were unable to visualize the possibilities of the site and refused to cooperate with Bienville in developing it, the first few years of the city were not promising. Father Charlevoix, one of the first visitors to the struggling settlement, wrote in 1722 that it consisted of a hundred barracks, a large wooden storehouse, a few tents and two or three houses which, he observed, "would be no ornament to a village of France."

In that same year, however, Bienville, backed by Adrian de Pauger, finally succeeded in having the capital moved from Biloxi to New Orleans and the real history of the city began. De Pauger, who was assistant to Le Bland de la Tour, Royal Engineer, drew up the plans of the city according to the French model. He marked out a square around which the important public buildings of the new community were to be located and from which the city was to develop. The Square, which was called the Place d' Armes and in 1849 the name of which was changed to Jackson Square, was located on the banks of the river and the new buildings, including St. Louis Church, the predecessor of the present Cathedral, placed back of it.

Thus was the beginning of New Orleans, in an area which the city has long since outgrown and which is known today as the French Quarter, or Vieux Carre.

This French Quarter, the outstanding New Orleans attraction from the visitor's standpoint of view, is very much the same now in appearance as it was towards the close of the French and Spanish dominations in the late eighteenth century and is, in fact, a veritable treasury of lore—historic, romantic and picturesque. The straight, narrow streets, the quaint architecture, the exquisite iron railings, the graceful fan windows and the charming little patios or courtyards are a never ending fascination.

TWIN CITY VACATION PREVIEW OF 1952

Where Northeast Louisiana Residents Plan Their Vacations And What They Will Do And See When They Get There

There's a joyous moment in the musical, "Paint Your Wagon," when gold prospectors sing out emphatically, "Where am I going? I don't know. When will I get there? I ain't tellin'. All that I know is I am on my way." In many ways that expresses the vast trek to vacation spots throughout the nation and elsewhere which Twin City vacationers are expected to live up to this season.

Never before in the history of holiday-minded people has there been such an overwhelming season. Resorts throughout the nation are preparing for their largest onslaught, with hitherto minor vacation spots extending open arms. Why this mass exodus, so to speak?

Many critics are apt to bring up the general unrest of the world and the attempted escape from workaday lives. Passing over this, however, we can take a brief look at just what the 1952 season holds in the offing for Twin City residents.

First of all, some number of persons from this area are planning trips outside the nation. Europe, which is receiving its largest and most colorful invasion, has extended itself in one of the biggest campaigns in its post-war history. Even the Holy Year of 1950 doesn't compare. That Europe is receiving so many from this area is indicative of the no-boundary world we're living in.

Mexico, Canada and South America, as well as a surprising Central America, are proving big attractions for this area's vacationers, too. For example, each of these areas has stepped up its advertising to such an extent that a jaunt to Rio reads like stepping next door.

But Continental U. S. A. is still King of the masses—and the masses are making the most of it this year. From this area, the Gulf Coast, Texas and Arkansas expect the largest flow. But Miami and her little sisters, Nassau, Jamaica and Havana are being seen by more people than ever before.

The one great campaign peg of all of these places, of course, is the idea of sun and play. The fashionable resorts of the early part of this century—in which polite society and blissful rest combined to lure vacationers—are almost non-existent today. True, fashionable resorts exist in quantity, but Biloxi and Galveston, for example, are attempting to offer as much to prospective patrons as French Lick. It's all a part of the national fever to set the millions at play.

Much of the advertising of these vacation resorts is filled with the repetitive advice that "you don't have to be a millionnaire to live like one." Where once such resorts as Sun Valley catered mainly to financial moguls, now it's stretching arms to all—and price—moderate price—is mentioned at every opportunity. High taxes, obviously, have left few people positively wealthy.

Look at the way Miami is building up its summer season. With winter vacationers, mainly from the East, occupying Miami and Miami Beach during January and February, the Chambers of Commerce of these cities are trying to promote a summer season comparative to the winter one. Rates are slashed in the finer hotels to a place within the range of medium-income brackets. And "going to Miami," is hardly a rare event.

An especially notable feature in Twin City plans this season is the thought given Arkansas and the Ozarks. Many of these resorts in the Shepherd of the Hills country offer all of the outdoor recreational advantages, with the additional incentive of scenic beauty. Lakes in these mountains that have served as mere local excursion spots are now building up large national tourist trades, some of them—like Rockaway Beach on Lake Tanneycomo—advertising their Boardwalks on a minor Atlantic City basis.

Another striking condition to be considered in the knowledge that distance is hardly a barrier, and hasn't been for some years. The airlines are spending millions advertising their low-cost trips to parts of the United States and world that many would-be vacationers wouldn't have dreamed approachable. In fact, the time may not be too far off when a man on the street will casually remark, "Think I'll hop down to Buenos Aires this week end." Like driving to Bastrop, maybe!

One excellent reason for the big vacation exodus is the realization on the port of resort managers that people are continually expecting not only the best but highly diversified entertainments. With competition in the field so extensive, many resorts are undertaking P. T. Barnum methods—"we give more for the money than anybody!"

Another note of more recent attention is the fact that small savings accounts for vacations are springing up across the nation. Where once the Christmas Savings Account was King, the Vacation Account is rapidly catching up. The fever has so mounted that many in the lower-income brackets are willing to deprive themselves throughout the year for that glorious two-weeks-with-pay in the summer months.

It's a Big Business this vacationing. The News-Star—World's Vacation Issue, for example, has a story entitled, "Who's Staying Home?" That's a vital question. Come In And Get Yourself All Outfitted For A Real Vacation At Home — or Elsewhere.

A VACATION IN MEXICO

By MRS. ED MAYBAN
(Ouachita Tex. Reporter)

This summer we went to Mexico. We had a wonderful, and interesting vacation. We think that those who have the kind of money and means Mexico affords; if you can plan to go but one way there is one of the most glorious and thrilling vacations you will ever have.

Four of us made this trip. Dr. Ima Jones, whose careful planning, painstaking attention to reservations, schedules etc. made knowledge of Mexico's history and expert driving made our trip a long to be remembered event. Dr. Irma's niece, Mrs. Jane McClain, Mrs. Casey Cooper and myself. When the trip was definite I began to worry a little about our lack of knowledge of the Mexican language, the cost of such a trip, and the usual woman's question of what to wear. This all proved quite simple. First, most of the people in Mexico that the tourist encounters speak our language very well, also your money will go much further in Mexico. At present there is about an $8.50 to $1.00 ratio on the exchange value, therefore 10 American dollars would amount to approximately $84.00 (pesos) Mexican. . .You take it from there. Clothes? A couple of lightweight suits, a few nice cottons, and some nylon for the drive, or if you are not the suit type, take along your cottons and a light topper for the cooler days. These things can be carried very easily in one suitcase, and this will leave you enough space in your luggage compartment to bring back the things you may wish to purchase while on your trip. The four of us all carried our cameras, and a reasonable supply of film; for this equipment we had two bones which rode beside us on the seat, so we could very easily get our pictures. Mexico City is three nights from Monroe. The chief qualifications for the trip are good brakes on your auto, steady nerves, and an eye for beauty.

The roads, for the most part are excellent, but the mountains are high and sometimes the roads are narrow. Gas stations are along the way, you can also get cokes aplenty, but sometimes not very cold. We crossed the border at Larado, stopping at customs where the tourist presents his car papers and acquires a tourist card. You must also have insurance for foreign travel and have your doctor give you the typhoid shots and vaccination before you go into Mexico. The shots and vaccination are required by law. You are clear of customs depending on the amount of people waiting. I think it takes about an hour, however it could be less, but after that you make up for the loss of time on a 30 mile straight stretch of road that is known as the Pan American highway. Then the road begins to climb, and you cross a point of the Sierra Madre Oriental.

We stopped here and made photos of the river far below us and the road that stretched out forever before and behind us. Monterey is the largest town between the border and Mexico City. This city is named for the Count of Monterrey, was founded in 1596 by Diego de Montemayer, has a population of 200,000 and is the chief manufacturing center of the Mexican Republic. Here the old blends with the new, and here you will see the lovely Huesteca Canyon, with its sheer cliffs, sparkling little river, and native thatched roofed huts. These native huts dot the countryside of rural Mexico and differ widely from the lavish Mexican city dwelling. It seems the Mexican peasant requires little in living quarters and is happy and content with what he has. Our sight seeing in Monterey included a trip through the smart residential section and the Bishops Palace or "El Obispo Viejo" as they call it.

The following day we drove through many quaint villages and the countryside was green with vegetation. We passed wide farming areas where cultivation is done with oxen and wooden plow. Not a bit of his ground does the Mexican farmer waste, and the corn grows tall and green along the hillside. Palms and banana trees grow plentifully and orchids droop tropically from tree branches. Burros, carrying such heavy loads that you can scarcely see the little animals, trot along sluggishly, and occasionally you see Mexican women doing the family wash in a stream. The road dips and winds, climbs ever higher until you find yourself breathless with altitude and eager to reach the capital, Mexico City, known to the Mexican simply as Mexico. Mexico City has an altitude of 7,350 feet and is the oldest metropolis on the North American Continent. Two volcanoes Ixtaccihual and Popocatepetl preside in majestic austerity over this city, while below their snow capped cloud - ridden peaks a busy and industrial people go about their way.

In Mexico City we stayed at the Hotel Del Prado, considered the most elegant in Mexico, and the last word in luxury. This hotel has a formal dining room and two cafes, an exclusive shopping center, a movie, a niteclub, and a sun deck on its roof, there is also a place for your car. Our days in the capital were spent viewing and photographing the parks and museums, cathedrals and shrines, the markets that line some of the streets in the older section of the city, and such interesting shops such as the glass blowers, and the leather and silver factories. We saw the Governor's Palace, the one time home of Emperor Maximillion and his lovely Carlotta, where their rooms may be seen with the original furniture still in good condition. The Palace is surrounded by beautiful Chapultepec Park and a drive through the park is a must on your sightseeing tour.

The Mexican people appear to want the best for their industrial buildings, and the buildings that are occupied by government offices, and the clean, white line of modernistic streamlined buildings that line the Paseo de Reforma are a monument to the race which has striven against many odds to achieve this perfection. We saw the Palace of Fine Arts, with its glass curtain which is said to have cost $50,000 when things were normal, and was made by Tiffany of New York. We went to . Xochimilco. . .floating gardens. . .and took a boat down the canal, serenaded by Mexican musicians, and were approached by other boats laden with flowers, rugs, shawls, etc. offering their wares for sale. We bought orchids at Xochimilco in corsages that cost approximately .23 cents American, and which we were rather smugly for these flowers cost much more at home. Mexico also offers the bull fight to those of the strong stomach, and if you like this kind of amusement by all means go. The pyramids of Sun and Moon are near enough for an easy drive. . . They are something out of the centuries and leave one with a strange sense of awe.

We left the Capital after eight days and headed for the coast and Acapulco. There's a little gem of a town called Taxco on the road to the coast, where silver mining is their chief industry. This village has been declared a national monument by the Mexican government, and is truly a beautiful place. Barely had we reached Taxco before the cry of Fiesta reached our ears, and we found ourselves lucky to be traveling through this town during the time of this holiday. Masquerading citizens paraded the streets. decorations hung in the city square and there was much fireworks, and a mixture of laughter, song and grotesque comedy everywhere. These people know how to enjoy life and they really seem to get all life has to offer.

We stayed at the Rancho Telva Hotel owned by the Wells - Fargo people, situated at the top of a winding narrow road, half hidden by trees and abundantly blooming flowers. This hotel, like all the others at which we stayed, amazed us with the excellent food and strictly first class accomodations, and to tell the truth it nearly spoiled me, and even yet I find myself longing for some of the delicious soups and pastry that were so plentiful there.

Our next stop for any time was Acapulco, where we spent three days. Acapulco is a very old city and is known to have been used as a port since 1551. While there we stayed at the beautiful, exotic Hotel Reforma Casa Blanca, high on a cliff overlooking the Acapulco Bay. We went swimming at the beach, and saw divers who seem to possess more brawn than brain as they jumped from the high jagged rocks into the water, and came up shaking their black hair and grinning. Each diver says a prayer to the Virgin before leaping from the rocks, and She must hear and heed, for as he swan dives into the water a slight miscalculation can mean sure and sudden death on the rocks.

In Acapulco we lounged in hammocks on the beach and drank coconut milk from fresh coconuts the natives fixed for us. Long, lazy days and cool nights, this is truly a place where the tired harried vacationer can recover himself.

Long remembered will be our vacation, for Mexico is full of hospitality and our stay there was pleasant. So when you go, see all you can, stay as long as you can, and if a little urchin should stretch out a grimy hand to you and beg "una pasos, Senor" give it to him. . . .His smile is worth the .11½ cents, and considerably more when you think of it, for he is Mexico.

TO EUROPE AND BACK

A Collinston Girl's Reflections On A Grand Tour Of The Continent

Miss Walter Mae Dalgarn, daughter of Mrs. Katie Dalgarn of Collinston, recently toured Europe for two months with a group of students from Sophie-Newcomb College in New Orleans. Below is a report of her trip, along with hints to anyone planning a trip to Europe on places she considered "musts" on a tourist's trip to the continent.

It's hard to make suggestions to anyone on where to visit in Europe if there are only a few weeks or one or two months for the entire trip. The reason is not because of the scarcity of the places to visit; rather it is due to the area which offers such vast contrasts in such short distances.

In Europe any taste for living or flair for sights can be satisfied. Northern Europe and the Scandinavian countries offer to the sightseer mountains, lakes and vistas indescribable. In southern Europe, along the Mediterranean riviera, the slow, easy-going pace of the Latins holds sway. Life in its gay and carefree way, such as only the Latin peoples know and live, can be found along the entire area.

And in central Europe, France, Germany, and Belgium, the beauty and richness of the products, even life itself, can be found. The recent war which demolished much of the European structures did not totally destroy the life of continentals. Although it left its indelible mark, the war also left, as if in fear and admiration, much of the old life.

The Trans - Atlantic trip was made on the luxury liner, Queen Elizabeth, which is in itself a city, complete with every luxury to be found. Dress shops featuring the lastest styles, recreational activities such as swimming pools and deck games; motion picture theatres showing the latest movie hits were all featured to make the five day trip more enjoyable. It was as if a motion picture had come to life.

The liner left New York City on February 20, headed for Southampton, England, with its full crew, regaled in marine finery. Intraship telephones allowed the easiest communication with any other cabin or meeting place. And if a passenger wanted to talk with anyone in either Europe or America, the call could be taken in the main telephone office and transmitted to the desired person.

Continental Customs Observed

True to the continental custom, breakfast is served in bed aboard the Elizabeth. Then at 11 brunch is served. Allowing time for a complete change of clothes, lunch is served at 12:30 and at 2 p. m. the theatres open. Only the latest shows, usually before their premiere on Broadway or other leading areas, are presented. And at 4 p. m. still in keeping with the European custom, tea is served to all aboard followed by the current craze-square dancing, which after sweeping America so completely is now assuming added popularity in European countries.

Dinner, which brings out the guests in formal attire, is served at 7:30 with bingo, wooden horse racing and other similar games following until approximately 11 p. m. when the dance floor is opened to the music of a name band. Most couples retire around 3 a. m., usually looking forward to another day on the Queen Elizabeth, luxury liner of the Atlantic.

Immediately after landing in Southhampton, England, a train was boarded for London, which in itself is several cities. The old City of London, within the once-proud City Walls, is being rebuilt and in time will be as it was—a reminder of London and the English Empire in richer and more formidable days. During the whole time in London, the weather was cold and rainy, and, as usual, very foggy.

Tea With The Queen

Through the American Embassy a special guided tour was arranged which included a formal tea with the present Queen Elizabeth in Buckingham Palace. During the tour London's most famous landmarks were visited. These included Buckingham Palace, Windsor Castle, London Bridge, Westminster Abbey, Parliament, and the Tower of London, where the Crown Jewels are kept. In all places the pageantry and formalities which were observed a century ago are still kept.

In the Tower of London the Crown Jewels, probably the most extravagant collection of every known variety of precious stones, are guarded by men who stand rigid in their watch, while dressed in 18th century attire.

In Westminster Abbey, the center of the Church of England, the Arehbishop of Canterbury, like others in the ancient churches of the continent, conduct services much the same as in the past. The opening of Lent, sacred period of fasting and repentence, was observed in Westminster as were other observances during the first week of the period.

On To Madrid

Leaving England and going by boat and train to Spain, a traveler observes changes which are not expected in so short a distance. While most people think of Europe as a mixture of all types, customs and nationalities, it also presents a variation of life which is not known anywhere else in the world. One country may—and is—entirely different from its neighbors, although they border. But to go from England, which is much like America in many respects, to Spain, molded by the Latins and Moors, Basques and Castilians, presents contrasts in every respect.

From the cold and foggy atmosphere of London, a traveler is relieved to find cool nights with warm days in Madrid. The capital city rises from a brown desert resembling in many respects the southwestern part of the United States. It is said Madrid was built into a city from a small rambling town when, centuries ago, a king of Spain found the climate favorable to his health. Too, Madrid historians say, the new—in comparison with older cities of Spain—capital was built to prevent any jealousies arising among the older and prouder provincial capitals.

City Of Contrasts

Madrid presents no in-between. There is no middle class people, no blending the old with the new. Either the people are suffering from extreme poverty or enjoying extreme wealth. Wide avenues with expansive mansions line some of the streets, while just off from the avenue will be rows of squalid huts. During the revolution which overthrew the Castilian Republic, practically all of the puildings were destroyed and those in power or favor of the present government have rebuilt the large homes.

In spite of the present difficulties and pressing financial conditions, the people of Madrid and all Spain maintain a "sing, dance and be happy" attitude. At night the dance halls and places of amusement are packed and often dancing can be seen on the streets and in patios of the houses. Everywhere, the haunting and exciting music of Spain, touched with strains of Moorish music, can be heard.

Madrid is a modern city with modern populations, accepting the new but revering the old. The Spaniards still cling to much of the old, but the brilliant clothing has become subdued nd more like that of England and America. Along with these modern trends stand the memorials to bygone days — the Palacio Royale, the home of Castilian royalty, the Spanish Museum, considered by many to be one of the finest and most impressive in the world. Here in the museum can be found the works of Draco, Goya, Toledo and others who have made their names immortal by their paintings and sculptures.

Bullfighting Popular Sport

In any part of the Castilian peninsula the highlight of the activities is the bullfight, the most popular sport of all of the Spanish speaking countries in both Europe and America. Sunday afternoons and on special days the toreadors, banderos and other men of the arena bring excitement—many times death itself—to the crowds. If the clothing of modern Spain is dull in comparison with many conceptions, the dress of the toreadors can not be touched by either paintings or pictures. Cloth of every hue and color are made into the brilliant cloaks, vests, pants and other articles for the bullfighters. The arenas themselves take on different colors for the occasions, changing from large grey or white structures to stands with every banner of the country. Crowds that were once easy-going and gay at the sight of the bullfights become excited-screaming their cheers to the hero or gasping at the sight of the often fatal passes of the "toro."

But in spite of its exciting bullfights and spacious mansions, the country still has not recovered from its Civil War. Many parts of Madrid still bear the marks of the battles, some of which are preserved to notify enemies of Generalissimo Francisco Franco that resistance is futile.

To the south, towards the Mediterranean Riviera, Spain turns into a verdant country, in contrast to the desert surrounding Madrid. The towns in both architecture and population turn more to the Moorish ways of life but still retain the Castilian atmosphere of care-free living.

On To France

Paris, the cultural and fashion center of Europe, has been considered a must for any visit to the European continent and is a haven for tourists, especially from America. Most of France as with her capital city is again assuming the fast and happy way of life which was characteristic prior to World War II. It, like Madrid, is a city of contrasts. Her ballet and opera are still considered among the best in the world. The Versailles, out from Paris, which many call the history book of France, is either the birthplace or the place of action for much, if not most of the country's past. Here at the Chateau of Versailles Napoleon met with the Grand Trianon, the German Empire was born and the German Republic signed the Versailles Treaty ending World War I.

In Paris also is the Louvre, containing the most famous collection of art masterpieces in the world. The Sistine Madonna looks down from its place on the wall of the Grande Galerie to other internationally famous paintings, most of which are placed under glass.

And near Paris is a symbol of the life of today——home of the Supreme Headquarters Allied Forces in Europe, where officers and men of every western nation work together for the safety of Europe. Here for the first time of peace in the history of Europe, jealous countries are combining military forces.

Perhaps best of all the European countries in offering replicas of the past is Italy with its many cities as different as separate countries of the continent. Trips to Rome are highlighted, when possible, with audiences with the Pope and visits to the independent state of the Vatican. Also open to visits by tourists are the Catacombs, hidden caves of the Christians during the days of Pagan Rome, the Parthenon, Colosseums and other ancient buildings.

But perhaps the most fascinating and scenic city in all Italy is Venice with its streets of water and its gondolas. Everywhere the small boats wait to take both native and visitors around the city. Not far from the famous St. Mark's square stands the home of Marco Polo and the bridge made famous by Shakespeare in "The Merchant of Venice."

Switzerland

Just north of Italy, set in the Alps mountains, is Switzerland, which in many respects is similar to America. Zurich, one of the leading cities, is considered the most "American city in Europe," while Luzonne, which prides itself for its culture, remains aloof to the changes of the times.

The low countries, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg, and Germany are all noted for their beautiful edifices and scenic regions, many of which were destroyed in the last war. Yet, even today, many of the traditions and places are still intact, offering to the tourists chances to see that part of Europe as it was years ago.

To the many who have visited, and the others who know Europe only through pictures and words, the continent remains an area of contrasts and similarities, which blend and stand out, making her an ever popular attraction.

ARKANSAS

Land Of Natural Beauty

Arkansas - a meeting place of the old south, the great southwest, and the central plains - offers year - round vacation advantages.

Topographic contrasts shade from swamplands of the delta country to Mount Magazine, highest peak between the Rockies and the Alleghanies. Diversity of topography and natural resources gives the visitor a recreational fare geared to almost any taste.

Hot Springs National Park, created as a national reservation in 1832, is the oldest national park in America. With an endless flow of healing waters from 47 springs at a temperature of 145 degrees Fahrenheit, the spa boasts that it "bathes the world" and records more than one million baths annually among government regulated bath houses. Round - the - clock entertainment runs the gamut from a variety of outdoor sports to the more sophisticated pleasures of luxurious night clubs.

Nearby Lakes Catherine and Hamilton, with some 200 miles of wooded shoreline, give visitors to Hot Springs top - flight fishing at any season of the year. The 30 - day spring racing season at Oaklawn Jockey Club attracts thousands of fans from the midwest, south and southwest. Hot Springs' Army and Navy Hospital was constructed in 1882 and is today America's oldest army general hospital and one of the finest.

Arkansas is the only place in America where the visitor may walk about on diamond producing earth or view the transformation of a hillside into cool aluminum. The only diamonds mined on the North American continent are to be found near Murfreesboro, Pike County, in southwest Arkansas. A 37 - acre tract in this area has produced diamonds ranging in size up to forty and one - fourth carats. Some of the stones have been so small that 200 of them would weigh only one carat. Arkansas diamonds are harder than those found in South Africa, South Wales, India, Brazil, and have been used industrially for many years. Geologists explain the diamond - producing area as peridotite soil located in the crater of an age - old, extinct volcano.

Arkansas supplies 33 per cent of the nation's domestic bauxite - the ore from which aluminum is made. Major mining operations are located south and west of Little Rock in the central part of the state. Two large metallurgical plants and a cast aluminum production center have been installed near the source of supply.

Arkansas has much to offer historically, as spice to the adventure of a modern vacation. White men came to her isolated hills and rivers long before the Pilgrims stepped ashore on the bleak coasts of New England. De Sota and his band wandered through in 1541, followed more than a century later by Marquette and Joliet. De Tonti, lieutenant of La Salle, obtained permission from the Quapaw Indians to build a camp site at the mouth of the Arkansas River in 1686 This camp site became Arkansas Post, oldest white settlement west of the Mississippi River and now preserved as a state park area. Four flags have flown over the Post - those of Spain, the French Republic, the Confederacy and the United States.

Cost - wise, an Arkansas vacation may fit any income level. Comfortable accomodations and excellent cuisine may be had at nominal cost from April 1 to November 1 in three state parks - Petit Jean, Buffalo River and Devil's Den. All three areas include unusual attractions of scenic beauty and natural wonders. Three other state park sites - Mount Nebo, Crowley's Ridge and Arkansas Post - are less well developed but offer individual and troup camping facilities.

RUSTIC BEAUTY PRESERVED IN ARKANSAS STATE PARKS

Where Northeast Louisiana Residents Plan Their Vacations And What They Will Do And See When They Get There

There's a joyous moment in the musical, "Paint Your Wagon," when gold prospectors sing out emphatically, "Where am I going? I don't know. When will I get there? I ain't tellin'. All that I know is I am on my way." In many ways that expresses the vast trek to vacation spots throughout the nation and elsewhere which Twin City vacationers are expected to live up to this season.

Never before in the history of holiday-minded people has there been such an overwhelming season. Resorts throughout the nation are preparing for their largest onslaught, with hitherto minor vacation spots extending open arms. Why this mass exodus, so to speak?

Many critics are apt to bring up the general unrest of the world and the attempted escape from workaday lives. Passing over this, however, we can take a brief look at just what the 1952 season holds in the offing for Twin City residents.

First of all, some number of persons from this area are planning trips outside the nation. Europe, which is receiving its largest and most colorful invasion, has extended itself in one of the biggest campaigns in its post-war history. Even the Holy Year of 1950 doesn't compare. That Europe is receiving so many from this area is indicative of the no-boundary world we're living in.

Mexico, Canada and South America, as well as a surprising Central America, are proving big attractions for this area's vacationers, too. For example, each of these areas has stepped up its advertising to such an extent that a jaunt to Rio reads like stepping next door.

But Continental U. S. A. is still King of the masses—and the masses are making the most of it this year. From this area, the Gulf Coast, Texas and Arkansas expect the largest flow. But Miami and her little sisters, Nassau, Jamaica and Havana are being seen by more people than ever before.

The one great campaign peg of all of these places, of course, is the idea of sun and play. The fashionable resorts of the early part of this century—in which polite society and blissful rest combined to lure vacationers—are almost non-existent today. True, fashionable resorts exist in quantity, but Biloxi and Galveston, for example, are attempting to offer as much to prospective patrons as French Lick. It's all a part of the national fever to set the millions at play.

Much of the advertising of these vacation resorts is filled with the repetitive advice that "you don't have to be a millionnaire to live like one." Where once such resorts as Sun Valley catered mainly to financial moguls, now it's stretching arms to all—and price—moderate price—is mentioned at every opportunity. High taxes, obviously, have left few people positively wealthy.

Look at the way Miami is building up its summer season. With winter vacationers, mainly from the East, occupying Miami and Miami Beach during January and February, the Chambers of Commerce of these cities are trying to promote a summer season comparative to the winter one. Rates are slashed in the finer hotels to a place within the range of medium-income brackets. And "going to Miami," is hardly a rare event.

An especially notable feature in Twin City plans this season is the thought given Arkansas and the Ozarks. Many of these resorts in the Shepherd of the Hills country offer all of the outdoor recreational advantages, with the additional incentive of scenic beauty. Lakes in these mountains that have served as mere local excursion spots are now building up large national tourist trades, some of them—like Rockaway Beach on Lake Tanneycomo—advertising their Boardwalks on a minor Atlantic City basis.

Another striking condition to be considered in the knowledge that distance is hardly a barrier, and hasn't been for some years. The airlines are spending millions advertising their low-cost trips to parts of the United States and world that many would-be vacationers wouldn't have dreamed approachable. In fact, the time may not be too far off when a man on the street will casually remark. "Think I'll hop down to Buenos Aires this week end." Like driving to Bastrop, maybe!

One excellent reason for the big vacation exodus is the realization on the part of resort managers that people are continually expecting not only the best but highly diversified entertainments. With competition in the field so extensive, many resorts are undertaking P. T. Barnum methods—"we give more for the money than anybody!"

Another note of more recent attention is the fact that small savings accounts for vacations are springing up across the nation. Where once the Christmas Savings Account was King, the Vacation Account is rapidly catching up. The fever has so mounted that many in the lower-income brackets are willing to deprive themselves throughout the year for that glorious two-weeks-with-pay in the summer months.

It's a Big Business this vacationing. The News-Star—World's Vacation Issue, for example, has a story entitled, "Who's Staying Home?" That's a vital question. Many towns and cities which possess no colorful bait for staying home are nevertheless striving to hold many of its citizens through constant iteration of its parks and outing facilities — "The sun shines here as well."

Then, last but not least, there's the need of people to "get away" where inhibitions can be thrown to the four winds. The constant strain of high-pressure living, especially in the last decade, has turned faces toward hope of relief. Even the small towns are victims of the first and furious mode of twentieth-century living. Thus the idea of exodus—once a luxury of the great cities—is now a national way of thinking. The Twin Cities are part and parcel of it.

Throughout this vacation edition which the News-Star—World is happy to bring you you'll find news of places once beyond your thoughts. But modern living, modern transportation and modern thought have combined to bring them all next door.

Bon Voyage!

LOST LAKE

Lake Bonneville is the name given by geologists to a fresh water lake which existed thousands of years ago. It covered what now is Utah, as well as parts of Idaho and Nevada. With Withdrawal of the glaciers, Lake Bonneville shrank and only a few smaller lakes survived, principal one of which is Great Salt Lake.

Vacation Clothes Chosen For Comfort, Care And Ease

Once upon a time vacationers dressed completely for what other vacationers would think of them. The new trends, however, mean dressing for your own pleasure, with wonderful new travel items that please others' eyes.

Vacation clothes, above all, should not be a burden. Three things should be kept constantly in mind.

1. Comfort.
2. Ease of care.
3. Appropriateness for the vacation planned.

It's easy to pack half the things you own into bags and take them on your vacation. But more than half these things will be useless, unworn and probably rumpled.

For Women

A suit is ideal for travel. If the miles are by automobile and through hot climates, wear a sleeveless, bareback dress with cover-up jacket.

Suits, as always take you most way.

Best bets are the mix and match ensembles with skirts, shorts, slacks, pedal pushers, halters and shirts made of same fabric and permitting any number of combinations. Evening wear, of course, means that in the South dressy cottons, although some parts of the country still use dark silks.

Play clothes, however, are enjoying their biggest boon in history. As people become more vacation minded, their vacation spots include seaside resorts, mountain resorts, etc. Should your vacation plans take these in wear shorts and halters to let the sun have its places. Change of accessories can transform them from street costumes to cocktail ensembles.

Cool and informal cottons probably will take care of days on a casual vacation. Gloves and hat will dress simple cottons up for town wear.

For Men

Men, too, are enjoying their most colorful season to date. Nylon shirts are the rage. Knit shirts, too, cut down on ironing problems and create fewer laundry bills.

Cotton cord slacks for driving make trips more comfortable and the beautiful new materials of tropical wear are ideal for both sport and form summer vacation wear.

And dacron, the new synthetic fabric, is being used in men's suits which manufacturers claim will shed wrinkles easily and get their crease back if they're caught in the rain. Colors in men's clothes range from the lightest to the darkest, patch pockets the rage for sport wear.

Summer In Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY, Idaho — Freshly attired in springtime green, the country's supreme year - around resort prepares for its annual warm - weather season which begins June 1.

Saddle horses have been returned from winter quarters south of this fabled Union Pacific Hotel village, the hotel grounds are a blaze of early flowers and Sun Valley fishermen are checking their tackle, for the finest dry fly trout streams in the inland United States are close at hand.

Already snows have left the mile-high village. But a few weeks ago, the snow was almost six feet high against the glass walls of the outdoor swimming pools. Now gardeners are busy at the same areas and tame antelope are nibbling at tender clumps of grass on the broad lawns.

This is Sun Valley's annual stretch in the sun. In a brief few weeks skiers have departed and the way is made ready for warm weather visitors who think of fishing, golf, riding, swimming and just plain "loafing." They find in this mountain retreat a paradoxical blend of great luxury against the backdrop of America's only remaining frontier.

Just a step from Sun Valley is the famed Idaho Wilderness Area, a section of tumbling mountain streams, ice - cold lakes and bold mountain country which abounds in fish and antelope, mountain goat, elk and deer. This area begins at Sun Valley and stretches northward through a section as large as the entire state of Connecticut. In its heart is the Middle Fork of the Salmon River, a fierce stream down which only two-dozen boatmen ever have sailed. The Middle Fork country is reached by pack horse. Other parts of the Wilderness Area, close to Sun Valley, are reached by automobile.

Everywhere immediately north of Sun Valley, however, there is the free land of the frontier, ready for the visit of the sportsman and sight - seer alike, who annually headquarter at the resort.

At the Valley itself there is the unmatched comfort of a resort which was built to be the ultimate in hotel villages. Accommodations range from the movie star suites at the lodge at $46 a day to the immaculate and comfortable, but more Spartan, quarters in the Chalets which are available for $3 a day. Most private rooms at Sun Valley average around $10 a day.

This, then, is Sun Valley for the summer of 1952. Forty - eight hours and less by air conditioned streamlined train from almost any section of the country, it more than ever is America's number one year - around playground — a western - style frontier village with the luxury of a great city.

HONEYMOON IN TEXAS

BY BERT HATTEN

Most people vacation every year, but few ever have more than one honeymoon. A honeymoon is usually a little extra - special, and is planned with special consideration for future recollection.

The honeymoon for the winners of the "Hillbilly Wedding in June" will be an extra extra - special event for the couple that wins the marathon election now underway in West Monroe to determine which of three couples will be the guests of an elaborate dude ranch in Texas.

In addition to being special guests of the dude ranch, the winning couple will receive thousands of dollars worth of gifts from West Monroe merchants. They will pe married on the night of June 3 and will be flown out of town soon after the ceremony. They will be flown to Bandera, Tex. and the Dixie Dude Ranch in a private plane furnished by Wilson Ewing, editor and publisher of the News-Star—World.

Nothing will be spared to make their honeymoon one of the grandest events in their lives. After a five - day stay at the Texas dude ranch, the couple will go to New Orleans where they will be special guests of the best hotels, swanky restaurants, city officials, and will tour some of the more intriguing sights of the ancient city at the mouth of the mighty Mississippi river.

But, before they go to New Orleans, the "Hillbilly Wedding In June" winners will have a chance to explore all the exotic offerings of the Dixie Dude Ranch, 55 miles northwest of San Antonio. They can relax, fish, swim, ride horseback, go on moon - lit tours, dance, collect souvenirs and scores of other things.

Ranch hands will be ready to answer questions about the ranch or assist them in learning to ride horseback, etc.

In addition to it's tourist accomodations, the Dixie Dude Ranch, a typical ranch in the old days, still raises sheep and goats. The ranch has been in operation for over a half a century.

Yes, the couple sent to the Dixie Dude Ranch from West Monroe will have something to long remember.

They will be accompanied by a newspaper reporter from the News-Star—World who will write up their trip as if they were Hollywood celebrities.

The "Hillbilly Wedding in June" will be held June 3 at Gentry's arena in West Monroe where all three couples now being voted on will pe married. The couple that gets the most votes will get the elaborate honeymoon trip and a big portion of the prizes.

A less elaborate honeymoon awaits the other two couples. However, the winner of the election will not be announced until the night of the wedding. Sponsors of the contest are considering a gulf coast honeymoon trip for the two couples who don't win the top spot.

GULF COAST
Sun And Sand

For those of you planning vacations along the Mississippi Gulf Coast, here are a few dabs of information to take along — when you pass through the beautiful towns along the coast.

Biloxi

One time capitol of the entire Mississippi Valley and the area later known as "The Louisiana Purchase," Biloxi's history goes back more than two-hundred-fifty years. Founded by Pierre le Moyne d'Iberville in 1699 under the French flag, Biloxi has since been under the British, Spanish, West Florida Republic, Confederate and United States flags. Almost surrounded by water, the peninsula has turned to the sea as a way of life and Biloxi sea-food plants ship fresh, frozen and canned shrimp, oysters and crabs all over the world.

Gulfport

A new modern city with a deep-water port, Gulfport's growth since its incorporation in the early part of the century has been phenomenal. The result of the combined efforts of two men, Gulfport was founded by William Hardy, a soldier in the Confederate Army, and Captain Joseph T. Jones, an eastern capitalist who "loved Mississippi." Gulfport's port is host to ships from all over the world. Principal imports are ores, nitrates, sugar and coffee. Timber, naval stores, creosoted pilings and cotton are the major exports.

Mississippi City

Just east of Gulfport, Mississippi City was one of the first towns on the Coast to win fame as a resort area. When Harrison County was organized in 1841, Mississippi City was made the county seat.

Ocean Springs

One of the first white settlements in the Mississippi Valley Established in 1699 by Pierre le Moyne, Sieur d'Iberville. Originally called Biloxi probably because of the Biloxi Indians which lived in the area, then known briefly as Lynchburg, and finally Ocean Springs because of the famous health - giving spring waters. Today a leisurely - paced town of fine old trees, comfortable homes, and forward looking citizens.

Long Beach

A fast growing community of new homes and beautiful churches. Throughout Long Beach are many fine private gardens well worth a drive through the oak lined streets.

Ship Island

Historic island that was base for the British fleet during the attack on New Orleans in 1815, Ship Island can be reached by pleasure boats from either Gulfport or Biloxi. One of the finest white sand beaches in the South is on the far side of Ship Island where surf bathing at its best can be enjoyed.

With golf becoming more and more a popular sport, you don't need a million dollars and an ulcer to play. Vacation spots are planning for the largest golfing season in history this summer.

NEW ORLEANS
The Old And The New

New Orleans, one of the main vacation spots for residents of North Louisiana, has an early history that gives it the great charm it has for visitors throughout the world. That history enhances a vacation in the Crescent City.

New Orleans was founded in 1718 by Jean Baptiste le Moyne, Sieur de Bienville one of the greatest colonizers of France in America. He chose the site of the new town, which he hoped would eventually become the capital of the colony of Louisiana, on a slightly higher level of ground nestling in a great sweeping curve of the Mississippi River a little more than a hundred miles from its mouth.

Because the French ministers were unable to visualize the possibilities of the site and refused to cooperate with Bienville in developing it, the first few years of the city were not promising. Father Charlevoix, one of the first vistors to the struggling settlement, wrote in 1722 that it consisted of a hundred barracks, a large wooden storehouse, a few tents and two or three houses which, he observed, "would be no ornament to a village of France."

In that same year, however, Bienville, backed by Adrian de Pauger, finally succeeded in having the capital moved from Biloxi to New Orleans and the real history of the city began. De Pauger, who was assistant to Le Bland de la Tour, Royal Engineer, drew up the plans of the city according to the French model. He marked out a square around which the important public buildings of the new community were to be located and from which the city was to develop. The Square, which was called the Place d' Armes and in 1849 the name of which was changed to Jackson Square, was located on the banks of the river and the new buildings, including St. Louis Church, the predecessor of the present Cathedral, placed back of it.

Thus was the beginning of New Orleans, in an area which the city has long since outgrown and which is known today as the French Quarter, or Vieux Carre.

This French Quarter, the outstanding New Orleans attraction from the visitor's standpoint of view, is very much the same now in appearance as it was towards the close of the French and Spanish dominations in the late eighteenth century and is, in fact, a veritable treasury of lore—historic, romantic and picturesque. The straight, narrow streets, the quaint architecture, the exquisite iron railings, the graceful fan windows and the charming little patios or courtyards are a never ending fascination.

Vacation Snacks
Hot Weather Means Cookies

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Here are two new cookie recipes for vacation gatherings. Served with strawberry-garnished lemonade they'll make an attractive snack for porch or indoor eating.

Corn Meal Coconut Cookies

Ingredients: 2 cups sifted flour, 1 cup enriched corn meal, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ¾ teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups firmly-packed brown sugar, 1 cup shortening (soft), 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¾ cup milk, 1 cup coconut.

Method: Into mixing bowl sift flour, corn meal, baking powder, baking soda, and salt. Add remaining ingredients except coconut. Stir until ingredients are well blended, about 2 minutes. Fold in cocoanut; save part of coconut to sprinkle over top of cookies before baking. Drop by teaspoons about 1 inch apart on greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate (350 F.) oven 12 to 15 minutes or until browned. Makes about 54 cookies.

Oatmeal Top Hats

Ingredients: 1 cup sifted flour, ¾ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon mace, ¾ cup shortening (soft), 1 egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup uncooked quick rolled oats, ¾ cup finely chopped walnut or pecan meats, 1 six-ounce package semi-sweet chocolate pieces, 1 tablespoon water.

Method: Into mixing bowl sift flour, sugar, salt, and mace; add shortening, egg, and vanilla. Beat until smooth, about 2 minutes; mix in rolled oats. Shape in small balls about ¾-inch in diameter. Roll in chopped nut meats; place about 1 inch apart on ungreased baking sheet and make indentation with thumb or teaspoon tip in center. Bake in moderate (375 F.) oven for 5 minutes. Press indentation in center again; bake 3 or 4 minutes longer or until a delicate brown. Meanwhile melt chocolate with water in saucepan over hot water; fill centers of cookies with chocolate. Makes about 48 cookies.

Going TO NEW YORK?

If you're heading East this summer, for the biggest town of them all, you're probably wondering what the lights are shining for, especially along Broadway, the mecca of U. S. visitors. The boards are full for the summer season, many of the hits in their second and third years. The following information may help you in writing for reservations:

I Am A Camera, which stars Julie Harris, is the comedy - drama by John van Druten, which is settled for a seemingly indefinite stay at the Empire Theater. Julie Harris has won numerous awards for her acting in this venture.

Paint Your Wagon, the musical of the west which has won such wide acclaim, is at the Schubert Theater. It stars James Barton. Tickets aren't too easy to secure, so get there in advance.

Pal Joey, the musical that's having a repeat performance after 12 years, is considered by many the happiest hit of the season. It's at the Broadhurst theater, and stars Vivienne Segal and Harold Lang.

South Pacific. Still at the Majestic. Martha Wright and George Britton have the Pinza - Martin roles. Will probably be running forever.

The Shrike, which stars Jose Ferrer and Judith Evelyn, won the Pulitzer Prize as the best play of the year. The stirring drama is at the Cort Theater.

Of Thee I Sing, starring the screen's Jack Carson and dancer Paul Hartman, just opened, is expected to be running some time. It's a revival of the Gershwin hit of some years back, resides at the Ziegfield, home of hits.

Entertainment doesn't end with the plays, however. There's Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus at Madison Square Garden, Guy Lombardo back at the Roosevelt Grill, nightly concerts at Lewisohn Stadium, and so many others there's little space to tell about them.

In the concert field, Carnegie Hall has scheduled throughout the summer such stellars as Metropolitan stars, symphonies, etc. You can write the management there for a full program.

While in New York, you might look over the foreign film field—movies you're not likely to see on local screens. Many of the ones scheduled for summer showing (such as Alec Guinness in "The Main in the White Suit." "The River" and "Tales of Hoffman") should be well worth your time.

At any rate, New York's still the King of Entertainment, and promises — as always — the time of your life.

SOUTH AMERICA FOR THIRTY DAYS

A 30-day escorted air cruise covering eight South American countries has been announced by American Express.

The air cruise is scheduled to leave Miami July 7, with the group flying first to Panama where they will stay at the beautiful new Hotel El Panama. On the following day tour members will see the sights of the city and the ruins of Old Panama, captured and destroyed by Morgan the Buccaneer. Winging southward over the Equator, the group will find itself in Lima, Peru. Here in the City of Kings, excursions will include a visit to the great Cathedral founded by Pizarro in 1535, San Marcos University, the oldest in the Americas, the National Museum and a drive through the residential districts to the suburb of Miraflores. A trip will also be made over the Central Highway to the popular summer resort of Chosica, with a stopover en route to visit the famous ruins of Cajamarquilla.

July 13 to 15 will see our tour members in Santiago, Chili, where a half-day tour will take visitors about the capital and on to Valparaiso and Vina del Mar on the Chilean Riviera.

Taking the air once more, the tour continues over the Andes to the capital of Argentina. Here, in Buenos Aires, an excursion will be made through the city and to the famous sanctuary of Lujan. Next country and capital on the itinerary is Montevideo in Uruguay, where tour members will see the city and its beautiful beaches.

Starting North the next stop will be Sao Paulo, commercial center and fastest growing city in the Western Hemisphere. While in the city the sightseeing schedule will include the famous Butantan Snake Farm and a trip to the port of Santos, center of the world's coffee trade.

Rio de Janeiro, the beautiful and fabulous capital of Brazil, is next on the agenda. Excursions will include sightseeing throughout the city terminating with a ride up Sugar Loaf Mountain, a trip to Paineiras, where the funicular railroad is taken to the summit of Corcovado Mountain, a full day's trip to the fashionable resort of Petropolis.

Miss Walter Mae Dalgarn, daughter of Mrs. Katie Dalgarn of Collinston, recently toured Europe for two months with a group of students from Sophie-Newcomb College in New Orleans. Below is a report of her trip, along with hints to anyone planning a trip to Europe on places she considered "musts" on a tourist's trip to the continent.

It's hard to make suggestions to anyone on where to visit in Europe if there are only a few weeks or one or two months for the entire trip. The reason is not because of the scarcity of the places to visit; rather it is due to the area which offers such vast contrasts in such short distances.

In Europe any taste for living or flair for sights can be satisfied. Northern Europe and the Scandinavian countries offer to the sightseer mountains, lakes and vistas indescribable. In southern Europe, along the Mediterranean riviera, the slow, easy-going pace of the Latins holds sway. Life in its gay and carefree way, such as only the Latin peoples know and live, can be found along the entire area.

And in central Europe, France, Germany, and Belgium, the beauty and richness of the products, even life itself, can be found. The recent war which demolished much of the European structures did not totally destroy the life of continentals. Although it left its indelible mark, the war also left, as if in fear and admiration, much of the old life.

The Trans - Atlantic trip was made on the luxury liner, Queen Elizabeth, which is in itself a city, complete with every luxury to be found. Dress shops featuring the lastest styles, recreational activities such as swimming pools and deck games; motion picture theatres showing the latest movie hits were all featured to make the five day trip more enjoyable. It was as if a motion picture had come to life.

The liner left New York City on February 20, headed for Southampton, England, with its full crew, regaled in marine finery. Intraship telephones allowed the easiest communication with any other cabin or meeting place. And if a passenger wanted to talk with anyone in either Europe or America, the call could be taken in the main telephone office and transmitted to the desired person.

Continental Customs Observed

True to the continental custom, breakfast is served in bed aboard the Elizabeth. Then at 11 brunch is served. Allowing time for a complete change of clothes, lunch is served at 12:30 and at 2 p. m. the theatres open. Only the latest shows, usually before their premiere on Broadway or other leading areas, are presented. And at 4 p. m. still in keeping with the European custom, tea is served to all aboard followed by the current craze-square dancing, which after sweeping America so completely is now assuming added popularity in European countries.

Dinner, which brings out the guests in formal attire, is served at 7:30 with bingo, wooden horse racing and other similar games following until approximately 11 p. m. when the dance floor is opened to the music of a name band. Most couples retire around 3 a. m., usually looking forward to another day on the Queen Elizabeth, luxury liner of the Atlantic.

Immediately after landing in Southhampton, England, a train was boarded for London, which in itself is several cities. The old City of London, within the once-proud City Walls, is being rebuilt and in time will be as it was—a reminder of London and the English Empire in richer and more formidable days. During the whole time in London, the weather was cold and rainy, and, as usual, very foggy.

Tea With The Queen

Through the American Embassy a special guided tour was arranged which included a formal tea with the present Queen Elizabeth in Buckingham Palace. During the tour London's most famous landmarks were visited. These included Buckingham Palace, Windsor Castle, London Bridge, Westminster Abbey, Parliament, and the Tower of London, where the Crown Jewels are kept. In all places the pageantry and formalities which were observed a century ago are still kept.

In the Tower of London the Crown Jewels, probably the most extravagant collection of every known variety of precious stones, are guarded by men who stand rigid in their watch, while dressed in 18th century attire.

In Westminster Abbey, the center of the Church of England, the Archbishop of Canterbury, like others in the ancient churches of the continent, conduct services much the same as in the past. The opening of Lent, sacred period of fasting and repentence, was observed in Westminster as were other observances during the first week of the period.

On To Madrid

Leaving England and going by boat and train to Spain, a traveler observes changes which are not expected in so short a distance. While most people think of Europe as a mixture of all types, customs and nationalities, it also presents a variation of life which is not known anywhere else in the world. One country may—and is—entirely different from its neighbors, although they border. But to go from England, which is much like America in many respects, to Spain, molded by the Latins and Moors, Basques and Castilians, presents contrasts in every respect.

From the cold and foggy atmosphere of London, a traveler is relieved to find cool nights with warm days in Madrid. The capital city rises from a brown desert resembling in many respects the southwestern part of the United States. It is said Madrid was built into a city from a small rambling town when, centuries ago, a king of Spain found the climate favorable to his health. Too, Madrid historians say, the new—in comparison with older cities of Spain—capital was built to prevent any jealousies arising among the older and prouder provincial capitals.

City Of Contrasts

Madrid presents no in-between. There is no middle class people, no blending the old with the new. Either the people are suffering from extreme poverty or enjoying extreme wealth. Wide avenues with expansive mansions line some of the streets, while just off from the avenue will be rows of squalid huts. During the revolution which overthrew the Castilian Republic, practically all of the puildings were destroyed and those in power or favor of the present government have rebuilt the large homes.

In spite of the present difficulties and pressing financial conditions, the people of Madrid and all Spain maintain a "sing, dance and be happy" attitude. At night the dance halls and places of amusement are packed and often dancing can be seen on the streets and in patios of the houses. Everywhere, the haunting and exciting music of Spain, touched with strains of Moorish music, can be heard.

Madrid is a modern city with modern populations, accepting the new but revering the old. The Spaniards still cling to much of the old, but the brilliant clothing has become subdued nd more like that of England and America. Along with these modern trends stand the memorials to bygone days — the Palacio Royale, the home of Castilian royalty, the Spanish Museum, considered by many to be one of the finest and most impressive in the world. Here in the museum can be found the works of Draco, Goya, Toledo and others who have made their names immortal by their paintings and sculptures.

Bullfighting Popular Sport

In any part of the Castilian penninsula the highlight of the activities is the bullfight, the most popular sport of all of the Spanish speaking countries in both Europe and America. Sunday afternoons and on special days the toreadors, banderos and other men of the arena bring excitement—many times death itself—to the crowds. If the clothing of modern Spain is dull in comparison with many conceptions, the dress of the toreadors can not be touched by either paintings or pictures. Cloth of every hue and color are made into the brilliant cloaks, vests, pants and other articles for the bullfighters. The arenas themselves take on different colors for the occasions, changing from large grey or white structures to stands with every banner of the country. Crowds that were once easy-going and gay at the sight of the bullfights become excited-screaming their cheers to the hero or gasping at the sight of the often fatal passes of the "toro."

But in spite of its exciting bullfights and spacious mansions, the country still has not recovered from its Civil War. Many parts of Madrid still bear the marks of the battles, some of which are preserved to notify enemies of Generalissimo Francisco Franco that resistance is futile.

To the south, towards the Mediterranean Riviera, Spain turns into a verdant country, in contrast to the desert surrounding Madrid. The towns in both architecture and population turn more to the Moorish ways of life but still retain the Castilian atmosphere of carefree living.

On To France

Paris, the cultural and fashion center of Europe, has been considered a must for any visit to the European continent and is a haven for tourists, especially from Amerıea. Most of France as with her capital city is again assuming the fast and happy way of life which was characteristic prior to World War II. It, like Madrid, is a city of contrasts. Her ballet and opera are still considered among the best in the world. The Versailles, out from Paris, which many call the history book of France, is either the birthplace or the place of action for much, if not most of the country's past. Here at the Chateau of Versailles Napoleon met with the Grand Trianon, the German Empire was born and the German Republic signed the Versailles Treaty ending World War I.

In Paris also is the Louvre, containing the most famous collection of art masterpieces in the world. The Sistine Madonna looks down from its place on the wall of the Grande Galerie to other internationally famous paintings, most of which are placed under glass.

And near Paris is a symbol of the life of today——home of the Supreme Headquarters Allied Forces in Europe, where officers and men of every western nation work together for the safety of Europe. Here for the first time of peace in the history of Europe, jealous countries are combining military forces.

Perhaps best of all the European countries in offering replicas of the past is Italy with its many cities as different as separate countries of the continent. Trips to Rome are highlighted, when possible, with audiences with the Pope and visits to the independent state of the Vatican. Also open to visits by tourists are the Catacombs, hidden caves of the Christians during the days of Pagan Rome, the Parthenon, Colossiums and other ancient buildings.

But perhaps the most fascinating and scenic city in all Italy is Venice with its streets of water and its gondolas. Everywhere the small boats wait to take both native and visitors around the city. Not far from the famous St. Mark's square stands the home of Marco Polo and the bridge made famous by Shakespeare in "The Merchant of Venice."

Switzerland

Just north of Italy, set in the Alps mountains, is Switzerland, which in many respects is similar to America. Zurich, one of the leading cities, is considered the most "American city in Europe," while Luzonne, which prides itself for its culture, remains aloof to the changes of the times.

The low countries, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg, and Germany are all noted for their beautiful edifices and scenic regions, many of which were destroyed in the last war. Yet, even today, many of the traditions and places are still intact, offering to the tourists chances to see that part of Europe as it was years ago.

To the many who have visited, and the others who know Europe only through pictures and words, the continent remains an area of contrasts and similarities, which blend and stand out, making her an ever popular attraction.

VACATIONING AT HOME

Twin Cities Offer Fine Outdoor Facilities For Vacationers Who Prefer To Stay Home

Fishing facilities in all of North Louisiana are considered by experts some of the best in the United States. With bass, bream and perch almost begging bait, vacationers can find no better place for the sport. Above, one of the most popular of Monroe and West Monroe, Black Bayou.

Swimming is still the king of the summer sports and Swayze Natatorium is a beautiful municipal gathering place. Bathing facilities are expert and the sun's right there all season.

Picnickers have been enjoying the beautiful surroundings of Bernstein Park for many years and already crowds of outers are flocking to it. The zoo holds the principal attraction for children. The trees in Bernstein Park are worth more than a passing glance.

A VACATION IN MEXICO

By MRS. ED HAYMAN
(Photos By Mrs. Hayman)

Last summer we went to Mexico, the land of enchantment, and became enchanted. The ones who have been there will know the kind of magic and allure Mexico offers; to you who plan to go let me say that below the border there awaits you one of the most glorious and exciting vacations you will ever have.

Four of us made this trip. Dr. Irma Jones, whose careful planning, painstaking attention to reservations, schedules etc. wide knowledge of Mexico's history and expert driving made our trip a long to be remembered event. Dr. Irma's niece, Mrs. Jane McCoin, Mrs. Canoy Cooper and myself. When the trip was definite I began to worry a little about our lack of knowledge of the Mexican language, the cost of such a trip, and the usual woman's question of what to wear. This all proved quite simple. First, most of the people in Mexico that the tourist encounters speak our language very well, also your money will go much further in Mexico. At present there is about an $8.50 to $1.00 ratio on the exchange value, therefore 10 American dollars would amount to approximately $84.00 (pesos) Mexican. . .You take it from there. Clothes? A couple of lightweight suits, a few nice cottons, and some nylon for the drive, or if you are not the suit type, take along your cottons and a light topper for the cooler days. These things can be carried very easily in one suitcase, and this will leave you enough space in your luggage compartment to bring back the things you may wish to purchase while on your trip. The four of us all carried our cameras, and a reasonable supply of film; for this equipment we had two boxes which rode beside us on the seat, so we could very easily get our pictures. Mexico City is three nights from Monroe. The chief qualifications for the trip are good brakes on your auto, steady nerves, and an eye for beauty.

The roads, for the most part are excellent, but the mountains are high and sometimes the roads are narrow. Gas stations are along the way, you can also get cokes aplenty, but sometimes not very cold. We crossed the border at Larado, stopping at customs where the tourist presents his car papers and acquires a tourist card. You must also have insurance for foreign travel and have your doctor give you the typhoid shots and vaccination before you go into Mexico. The shots and vaccination are required by law. You are clear of customs depending on the amount of people waiting. I think it takes about an hour, however it could be less, but after that you make up for the loss of time on a 50 mile straight stretch of road that is known as the Pan American highway. Then the road begins to climb, and you cross a point of the Sierra Madre Oriental.

We stopped here and made photos of the river far below us and the road that stretched out forever before and behind us. Monterey is the largest town between the border and Mexico City. This city is named for the Count of Monterrey, was founded in 1596 by Diego de Montemayer, has a population of 200,000 and is the chief manufacturing center of the Mexican Republic. Here the old blends with the new, and here you will see the lovely Huesteca Canyon, with its sheer cliffs, sparkling little river, and native thatched roofed huts. These native huts dot the countryside of rural Mexico and differ widely from the lavish Mexican city dwelling. It seems the Mexican peasant requires little in living quarters and is happy and content with what he has. Our sight seeing in Monterey included a trip through the smart residential section and the Bishops Palace or "El Obispo Viejo" as they call it,

The following day we drove through many quaint villages and the countryside was green with vegetation. We passed wide farming areas where cultivation is done with oxen and wooden plow. Not a bit of his ground does the Mexican farmer waste, and the corn grows tall and green along the hillside. Palms and banana trees grow plentifully and orchids droop tropically from tree branches. Burros, carrying such heavy loads that you can scarcely see the little animals, trot along sluggishly, and occasionally you see Mexican women doing the family wash in a stream. The road dips and winds, climbs ever higher until you find yourself breathless with altitude and eager to reach the capital, Mexico City, known to the Mexican simply as Mexico. Mexico City has an altitude of 7,350 feet and is the oldest metropolis on the North American Continent. Two volcanoes Ixtaccihual and Popocatepetl preside in majestic austerity over this city, while below their snow capped cloud - ridden peaks a busy and industrial people go about their way.

In Mexico City we stayed at the Hotel Del Prado, considered the most elegant in Mexico, and the last word in luxury. This hotel has a formal dining room and two cafes, an exclusive shopping center, a movie, a niteclub, and a sun deck on its roof, there is also a place for your car. Our days in the capital were spent viewing and photographing the parks and museums, cathedrals and shrines, the markets that line some of the streets in the older section of the city, and such interesting shops such as the glass blowers, and the leather and silver factories. We saw the Governor's Palace, the one time home of Emperor Maximillion and his lovely Carlotta, where their rooms may be seen with the original furniture still in good condition. The Palace is surrounded by beautiful Chapultepec Park and a drive through the park is a must on your sightseeing tour.

The Mexican people appear to want the best for their industrial buildings, and the buildings that are occupied by government offices, and the clean, white line of modernistic streamlined buildings that line the Paseo de Reforma are a monument to the race which has striven against many odds to achieve this perfection. We saw the Palace of Fine Arts, with its glass curtain which is said to have cost $50,000 when things were normal, and was made by Tiffany of New York. We went to Xochimilco. . .floating gardens. . .and took a boat down the canal, serenaded by Mexican musicians, and were approached by other boats laden with flowers, rugs, shawls, etc. offering their wares for sale. We bought orchids at Xochimilco in corsages that cost approximately .23 cents American, and which we wore rather smugly for these flowers cost much more at home. Mexico also offers the bull fight to those of the strong stomach, and if you like this kind of amusement by all means go. The pyramids of Sun and Moon are near enough for an easy drive. . . They are something out of the centuries and leave one with a strange sense of awe.

We left the Capital after eight days and headed for the coast and Acapulco. There's a little gem of a town called Taxco on the road to the coast, where silver mining is their chief industry. This village has been declared a national monument by the Mexican government, and is truly a beautiful place. Barely had we reached Taxco before the cry of Fiesta reached our ears, and we found ourselves lucky to be traveling through this town during the time of this holiday. Masquerading citizens paraded the streets, decorations hung in the city square and there was much fireworks, and a mixture of laughter, song and grotesque comedy everywhere. These people know how to enjoy life and they really seem to get all life has to offer.

We stayed at the Rancho Telva Hotel owned by the Wells - Fargo people, situated at the top of a winding narrow road, half hidden by trees and abundantly blooming flowers. This hotel, like all the others at which we stayed, amazed us with the excellent food and strictly first class accomodations, and to tell the truth it nearly spoiled me, and even yet I find myself longing for some of the delicious soups and pastry that were so plentiful there.

Our next stop for any time was Acapulco, where we spent three days. Acapulco is a very old city and is known to have peen used as a port since 1551. While there we stayed at the beautiful, exotic Hotel Reforma Casa Blanca, high on a cliff overlooking the Acapulco Bay. We went swimming at the beach, and saw divers who seem to possess more brawn than brain as they jumped from the high jagged rocks into the water, and came up shaking their black hair and grinning. Each diver says a prayer to the Virgin before leaping from the rocks, and She must hear and heed, for as he swan dives into the water a slight miscalculation can mean sure and sudden death on the rocks.

In Acapulco we lounged in hammocks on the beach and drank coconut milk from fresh coconuts the natives fixed for us. Long, lazy days and cool nights, this is truly a place where the tired harried vacationer can recover himself.

Long remembered will be our vacation, for Mexico is full of hospitality and our stay there was pleasant. So when you go, see all you can, stay as long as you can, and if a little urchin should stretch out a grimy hand to you and beg "una pasos, Senor" give it to him. . . His smile is worth the .11½ cents, and considerably more when you think of it, for he is Mexico.

If You're Planning A Vacation, Why Not Consider Venus?

It's Only 146 Days

And Traffic Is Light

By Douglas Larsen
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — OK, good citizen, dig out that atmosphere helmet. Unpack your dehydrated milk. We're off on another trip into space, this time to Venus.

Our navigator for this meteor-defying jaunt is a nice looking young man named John M. Wuerth. He has the imposing title of project engineer in the Electronics Department in North American's Aerophysics Laboratory in California, where they're busily developing guided missiles.

For reasons which will be explained more or less lucidly in the next paragraph or so, we take off from earth at six o'clock in the evening at some place on the equator. The trip, if all goes well, takes 146 days.

Then, Wuerth explains:

"We will climb vertically in a rocket ship at an acceleration of 2Gs, or two times gravity, for 12 minutes. Our space traveler will be comfortable enough under this acceleration; pilots often withstand 20s and more. At the end of 12 minutes we will have reached 25,000 miles per hour, which is greater than the velocity needed to keep from falling back to the Earth. At this point power will be cut off and we will spend the rest of the trip coasting in an orbit of our own until we land on Venus."

What could be simpler? But in case you're confused, here's what happens:

Wuerth says it's like jumping off

COMING IN FOR A VISIT TO VENUS, the space ship noses down toward a landing, which is the pilot's job. These two characters up front are members of the Venus Chamber of Commerce, South.. Nightmare branch office.

the back of a speeding train. The Earth is the train speeding in its orbit. The back happens to be the spot of departure on the equator at six p. m. Our departure speed is enough to get us away from Earth's pull of gravity, but we still have enough backward speed to keep us going in the general direction of the Earth in space, but in a decreasing arc.

As soon as we get out of the pull of the Earth, we get in the pull of the sun. Actually we're moving backward through space at 84,000 miles an hour. But as we're curving toward the sun, we're closing in on Venus moving in its orbit, which is inside that of the Earth's. Get the picture?

Maybe Wuerth's explanation can clear it up:

"The Earth travels around the Sun like a ball on the end of a string. The centrifugal force resulting from the Earth's motion balances the Sun's attraction, and keeps the Earth from moving closer to the Sun. To move in toward the orbit of Venus, we must reduce the centrifugal force, by making the rocket ship move slower than the Earth. The rocket ship must take off backward along the Earth's orbit to go slower than the Earth and drift in toward Venus."

"What are our chances of colliding with a meteorite on the way to Venus? The chances of danger from this source are less than your chances of having an automobile accident if you spent the 146 days driving around the country.

"It can easily be shown that the only critical item in getting on the proper orbit to Venus is the speed at the instant of power cutoff. An accelerometer, an instrument for measuring the rate of change of velocity, seems to be the best for this job. And with a .1 per cent error accelerometer, now commercially available, it would cause the space ship to miss Venus by almost a million miles. An improvement of the accelerometer to .0015 per cent error would assure meeting Venus at the end of 146 days."

Then you put the key questions to Wuerth. You will meet Venus traveling at about 5400 miles an hour. How can you land safely? And, of course, how do you get back?

"That," he says, "is the job for the pilot. I'm just the navigator."

Is Anybody Staying Home?

Who's staying home?

That's the big question facing the people who operate the transportation and the hotels that make up this nation's vast resort and travel industry. From all indications, 1953 will be bigger in vacationing than the experts would have imagined in their wildest dreams. Who's staying home to tend the store, while the mass exodus out starts rolling?

Most of the worry on the part of the hotel and transportation magnets is the unbelievable push toward Europe, as well as increased tempo for domestic travel. It has even gotten to the point, so Paul Friedlander of the New York Times contends, where domestic managers breathe a few sighs of relief at the great surge toward the Continent. More room for those who stay in continental U. S. A. Remember the time when these domestic managers turned angry faces toward the travelers in Europe?

Why Tourists Learn So Little

By SIDNEY J. HARRIS

With at least half the gentry in the telephone book skipping off to Europe this summer, I am already weary of the type (representing roughly 90 per cent of all American tourists) who say they want to go to out-of-the-way places and see the "real Europe" that the ordinary tourist does not.

At almost every gathering someone will drag me into a corner and ask for a good small hotel in Paris "where you're not falling over tourists at every turn," or "an Italian town where we can settle for a few weeks and really get to know the people."

This is a laugh, although I never laugh openly, but answer gravely and pretend that they will really be able to do what they wistfully dream of doing. I know that after a few days they will wind up eating ham and eggs at Pam-Pam in Paris with all the other Americans.

We have the greatest capacity for self-delusion of any people in the Western world.

We actually think that good intentions can cover a multitude of inadequacies, and that earnestness is a satisfactory substitute for education.

This is why, with the best will in the world, we are so ineffectual in our European relations.

If these tourists were genuinely serious, and not just sentimental, they would first of all attempt to learn at least one European language for six months before they embark.

Speaking only English, as most of them do, it is utterly impossible to see or hear anything in Europe except what the Europeans want you to see or hear.

You will be treated cordially, but with a kind of affectionate contempt, like an overgrown spoiled child with too much money and not much sense.

You will be systematically cheated, not because Europeans are any more dishonest than we, but because they feel we can afford to be cheated. And you will bring back the same prejudices you left with.

This is because Europeans instinctively feel that we are patronizing them, not sincerely trying to understand them.

So their hospitality is tinged with resentment and they are not grateful for our help because people need comprehension more than charity.

One American talking stumbling Italian in Italy is worth a million dollars in Marshall Plan money, and is better propaganda against the Bolsheviks than all the refrigerators we can export.

Vacationers To Enjoy '52 Boat Racing

Motorboat racing, which last year drew an all-time record number of events and competitors, is this year expected to surpass 1951 from all indications, and the American Power Boat Association anticipates sanctioning more than 200 regattas in the United States, according to its president Gibson Bradfield of Barnesville, O.

Highlighting the "big boat" inboard racing season is the annual Gold Cup race to be held for the second consecutive year on Lake Washington, Seattle, August 9. "Slo-Mo-Shun V," winner of the 1951 Gold Cup, is expected to be on hand to defend her title as well as "Slo-Mo-Shun IV," holder of the all - time world mile straightaway speed record of 160.42 mph, set in 1950. The Seattle Gold Cup committee has expanded its racing program for that week end to include two stock outboard events on the days immediately before and after the big race.

Interest in stock outboard racing which has seen a great increase since 1947 is expected to run even higher in 1952. The APBA created a new racing commission for modified stock outboards at its annual meeting in New York during the National Motor Boat Show in January. Early applications for APBA race sanctions include 25 for stock outboard regattas and 10 more for marathons for modified craft.

The opening gun of the "major league" inboard racing season which will attract national interest is the Steel Cup race for unlimited hydros during the third annual "Welcome Week Regatta" at Pittsburgh, June 7.

The Seattle Seafair Trophy Race for inboards has been advanced a month this year and will be held on Lake Washington, Seattle, on July 4. It was in two laps of the second heat of this race last year that Lou Fageol, Kent, O., driving "Slo-Mo-Shun IV," set the 10-mile competitive record of 111.72 mph. Another Independence Day inboard regatta on the Detroit River will feature the Ford Memorial Trophy Race.

During last year's all - time peak interest in motorboat racing, the APBA had more than 3000 boats bearing its identification numbers competing throughout the country in 192 sanctioned regattas — 21 more events than in 1950. Bradfield said 1952 should top this, with several drivers in the unlimited class trying to break the mile record set by Stanley S. Sayres in his "Slo-Mo IV" two years ago.

WHAT TO READ ON VACATION

By Jack Ansell, Jr.

When you're out there on the sand, drinking in the sun, you'll probably be forgetting — as best you can—the little trials and tribulations of the workaday life. In case you're one of those escapees (and who isn't?) trying for a brief moment to jump out of the skin of your own life, here are a few hot-weather suggestions to aid you in jumping into the skins of some of the season's more readable characters.

Duveen by S. N. Behrman (Random House) is a skin you might enjoy roaming around in for a few hours. One of the great art dealers of all time, Sir Joseph Duveen made millions by bringing culture in the form of Old World paintings to the American millionnaires. His clients included such notables as Andrew Mellon, John D. Rocke - feller and William Randolph Hearst. Duveen's fabulous career was based on his own creed that anyone could pay thousands for a painting — but how few could pay millions? Mr. Behrman, already one of our most distinguished playwrights, has done well by Duveen, producing a first - rate biography in the form of six portrait-sketches, originally seen in the New Yorker. If you feel like roaming among millionnaires, you'll enjoy this one.

Lieutenant Hornblower (Little, Brown) is another in the seemingly endless saga of Horatio Hornblower, whose virtues still border on the grand heroic. This new novel places Hornblower somewhere between the already published vol - umes of his adventures as Mid - shipman and Captain. Here the young Hornblower is shown in preparation for his long career with Her Majesty's Navy. Still and all, C. S. Forester is one of the best sea writers of our time. He makes the sea compelling, and if at times his adventures sound somewhat foolish, they're still a lot of fun. Forester gives adventure - reading the one thing most of our adventure stories lack: wonderful writing.

Short Novels of Colette (Dial) brings six of this famous French writers shorter works into one volume. It's one of the buys of the season. Once you start reading Colette you're taken into a realm at once bitterly realistic and web-like unreal. "Cheri" and "The Last of Cheri" are the best in this new volume, although all the pieces dwell first, last and always on the physical aspects of love. One novel, "The Cat," in which a woman and a feline are rivals for a man's affections may send you racing for cover, but otherwise you're comparatively safe. Only one of the novels, "The Indulgent Husband," shows Colette at her worst, but then Colette at her worst is better than most of our writers at their best.

Jefferson Selleck (Little, Brown) is Carl Jonas' Babbitt of 1952. In trying to picture the conventional little man, Jonas runs into many a cliche that seems merely tired rather than sharp and satirie, such as followed Sinclair Lewis in his better days. But despite these cliches, Jefferson Selleck does boast a pleasant narrative and the episode of his fishing trip with home - town cronies is worth the price of admission.

Back of Town by Maritta Wolff (Random House) is one of the jazziest, raciest novels seen this way in a long time — especially to be as good as it is. Miss Wolff has the ability to throw her characters into the most degrading situations imaginable without changing their status as rather nice human beings. Her main concern in this new novel is the apparent attraction between a man and a woman who have too much pride to admit one is conquered by the other. While you're not gazing at a bronzed blonde (or vice-versa) this one might make exciting beach fare.

Just in case you haven't read The Caine Mutiny by Herman Wouk (Doubleday), here's a fine time to do it. Since this novel has headed best - seller lists for months and finally capped the Pulitzer Prize, its reputation is nothing new. But it still remains the king of contemporary fiction, even though My Cousin Rachel, the disappointment of the year, will probably be vacation queen of 1952.

Good reading, good vacation, and don't come back without a tan.

ARKANSAS

Land Of Natural Beauty

Topographic contrasts shade from swamplands of the delta country to Mount Magazine, highest peak between the Rockies and the Alleghanies. Diversity of topography and natural resources gives the visitor a recreational fare geared to almost any taste.

Hot Springs National Park, created as a national reservation in 1832, is the oldest national park in America. With an endless flow of healing waters from 47 springs at a temperature of 145 degrees Fahrenheit, the spa boasts that it "bathes the world" and records more than one million baths annually among government regulated bath houses. Round - the - clock entertainment runs the gamut from a variety of outdoor sports to the more sophisticated pleasures of luxurious night clubs.

Nearby Lakes Catherine and Hamilton, with some 350 miles of wooded shoreline, give visitors to Hot Springs top - flight fishing at any season of the year. The 30 - day spring racing season at Oaklawn Jockey Club attracts thousands of fans from the midwest, south and southwest. Hot Springs' Army and Navy Hospital was constructed in 1883 and is today America's oldest army general hospital and one of the finest.

Arkansas is the only place in America where the visitor may walk about on diamond producing earth or view the transformation of a hillside into cast aluminum. The only diamonds mined on the North American continent are to be found near Murfreesboro, Pike County, in southwest Arkansas. A 72 - acre tract in this area has produced diamonds ranging in size up to forty and one - fourth carats. Some of the stones have been so small that 250 of them would weigh only one carat. Arkansas diamonds are harder than those found in South Africa, South Wales, India, Brazil, and have been used industrially for many years. Geologists explain the diamond - producing area as peridotite soil located in the crater of an age - old, extinct volcano.

Arkansas supplies 93 per cent of the nation's domestic bauxite - the ore from which aluminum is made. Major mining operations are located south and west of Little Rock in the central part of the state. Two large metallurgical plants and a cast aluminum production center have been installed near the source of supply.

Arkansas has much to offer historically, as spice to the adventure of a modern vacation. White men came to her isolated hills and rivers long before the Pilgrims stepped ashore on the bleak coasts of New England. De Sota and his band wandered through in 1541, followed more than a century later by Marquette and Joliet. De Tonti, lieutenant of La Salle, obtained permission from the Quapaw Indians to build a camp site at the mouth of the Arkansas River in 1636. This camp site became Arkansas Post, oldest white settlement west of the Mississippi River and now preserved as a state park area. Four flags have flown over the Post - those of Spain, the French Republic, the Confederacy and the United States.

Cost - wise, an Arkansas vacation may fit any income level. Comfortable accomodations and excellent cuisine may be had at nominal cost from April 1 to November 1 in three state parks - Petit Jean, Buffalo River and Devil's Den. All three areas include unusual attractions of scenic beauty and natural wonders. Three other state park sites - Mount Nebo, Crowley's Ridge and Arkansas Post - are less well developed but offer individual and troup camping facilities.

RUSTIC BEAUTY PRESERVED IN ARKANSAS STATE PARKS

Summer In Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY, Idaho — Freshly attired in springtime green, the country's supreme year - around resort prepares for its annual warm - weather season which begins June 1.

Saddle horses have been returned from winter quarters south of this fabled Union Pacific Hotel village, the hotel grounds are a blaze of early flowers and Sun Valley fishermen are checking their tackle, for the finest dry fly trout streams in the inland United States are close at hand.

Already snows have left the mile-high village. But a few weeks ago, the snow was almost six feet high against the glass walls of the outdoor swimming pools. Now gardeners are busy at the same areas and tame antelope are nibbling at tender clumps of grass on the broad lawns.

This is Sun Valley's annual stretch in the sun. In a brief few weeks skiers have departed and the way is made ready for warm weather visitors who think of fishing, golf, riding, swimming and just plain "loafing." They find in this mountain retreat a paradoxical blend of great luxury against the backdrop of America's only remaining frontier.

Just a step from Sun Valley is the famed Idaho Wilderness Area, a section of tumbling mountain streams, ice - cold lakes and bold mountain country which abounds in fish and antelope, mountain goat, elk and deer. This area begins at Sun Valley and stretches northward through a section as large as the entire state of Connecticut. In its heart is the Middle Fork of the Salmon River, a fierce stream down which only two-dozen boatmen ever have sailed. The Middle Fork country is reached by pack horse. Other parts of the Wilderness Area, close to Sun Valley, are reached by automobile.

Everywhere immediately north of Sun Valley, however, there is the free land of the frontier, ready for the visit of the sportsman and sight - seer alike, who annually headquarter at the resort.

At the Valley itself there is the unmatched comfort of a resort which was built to be the ultimate in hotel villages. Accommodations range from the movie star suites at the lodge at $46 a day to the immaculate and comfortable, but more Spartan, quarters in the Chalets which are available for $3 a day. Most private rooms at Sun Valley average around $10 a day.

This, then, is Sun Valley for the summer of 1952. Forty - eight hours and less by air conditioned streamlined train from almost any section of the country, it more than ever is America's number one year - around playground — a western - style frontier village with the luxury of a great city.

HONEYMOON IN TEXAS

BY BERT HATTEN

Most people vacation every year, but few ever have more than one honeymoon. A honeymoon is usually a little extra - special, and is planned with special consideration for future recollection.

The honeymoon for the winners of the "Hillbilly Wedding in June" will be an extra extra - special event for the couple that wins the marathon election now underway in West Monroe to determine which of three couples will be the guests of an elaborate dude ranch in Texas.

In addition to being special guests of the dude ranch, the winning couple will receive thousands of dollars worth of gifts from West Monroe merchants. They will pe married on the night of June 3 and will be flown out of town soon after the ceremony. They will be flown to Bandera, Tex. and the Dixie Dude Ranch in a private plane furnished by Wilson Ewing, editor and publisher of the News-Star—World.

Nothing will be spared to make their honeymoon one of the grandest events in their lives. After a five - day stay at the Texas dude ranch, the couple will go to New Orleans where they will be special guests of the best hotels, swanky restaurants, city officials, and will tour some of the more intriguing sights of the ancient city at the mouth of the mighty Mississippi river.

But, before they go to New Orleans, the "Hillbilly Wedding In June" winners will have a chance to explore all the exotic offerings of the Dixie Dude Ranch, 55 miles northwest of San Antonio. They can relax, fish, swim, ride horseback, go on moon - lit tours, dance, collect souvenirs and scores of other things.

Ranch hands will be ready to answer questions about the ranch or assist them in learning to ride horseback, etc.

In addition to it's tourist accomodations, the Dixie Dude Ranch, a typical ranch in the old days, still raises sheep and goats. The ranch has been in operation for over a half a century.

Yes, the couple sent to the Dixie Dude Ranch from West Monroe will have something to long remember.

They will be accompanied by a newspaper reporter from the News-Star—World who will write up their trip as if they were Hollywood celebrities.

The "Hillbilly Wedding in June" will be held June 3 at Gentry's arena in West Monroe where all three couples now being voted on will pe married. The couple that gets the most votes will get the elaborate honeymoon trip and a big portion of the prizes.

A less elaborate honeymoon awaits the other two couples. However, the winner of the election will not be announced until the night of the wedding. Sponsors of the contest are considering a gulf coast honeymoon trip for the two couples who don't win the top spot.

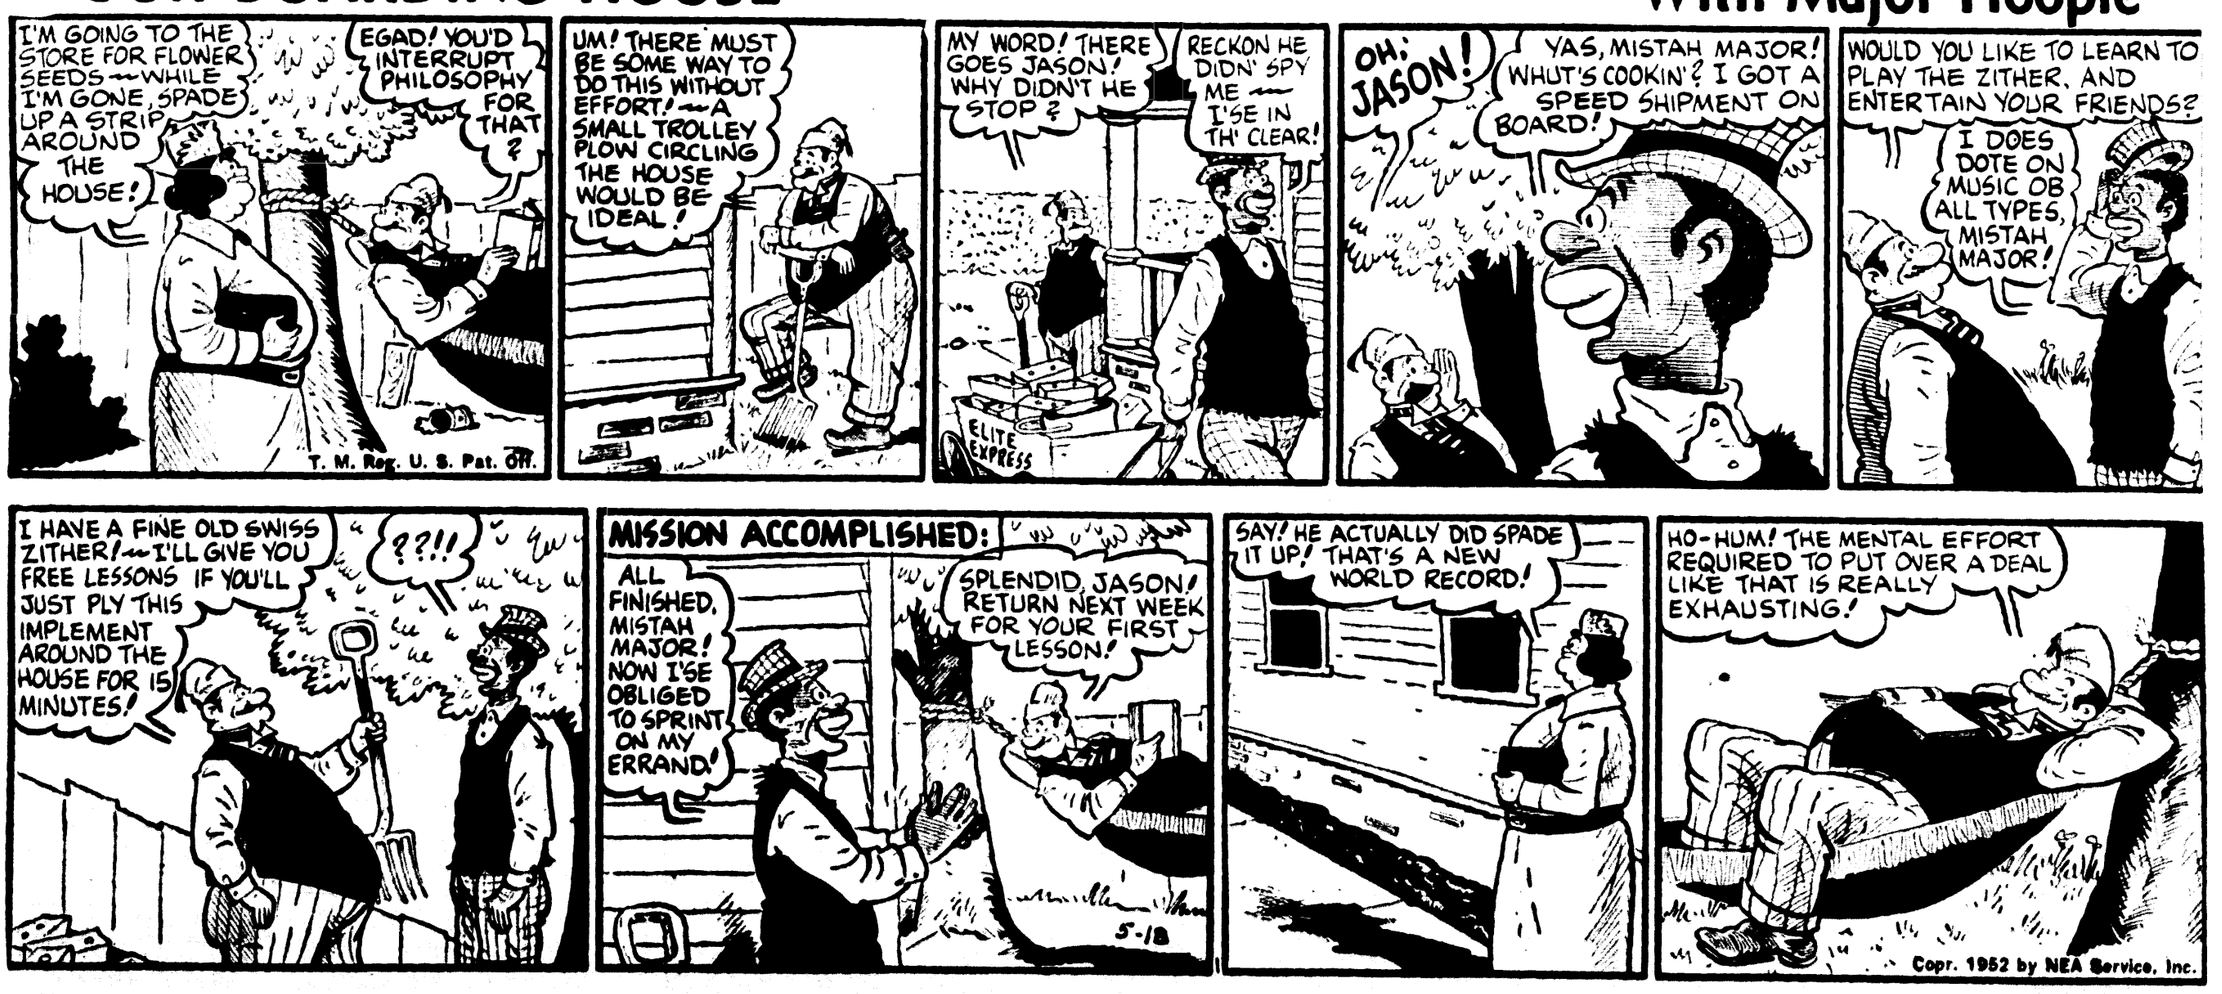
OUR BOARDING HOUSE

With Major Hoople



Going TO NEW YORK?

If you're heading East this summer, for the biggest town of them all, you're probably wondering what the lights are shining for, especially along Broadway, the mecca of U. S. visitors. The boards are full for the summer season, many of the hits in their second and third years. The following information may help you in writing for reservations:

I Am A Camera, which stars Julie Harris, is the comedy - drama by John van Druten, which is settled for a seemingly indefinite stay at the Empire Theater. Julie Harris has won numerous awards for her acting in this venture.

Paint Your Wagon, the musical of the west which has won such wide acclaim, is at the Schubert Theater. It stars James Barton. Tickets aren't too easy to secure, so get there in advance.

Pal Joey, the musical that's having a repeat performance after 12 years, is considered by many the happiest hit of the season. It's at the Broadhurst theater, and stars Vivienne Segal and Harold Lang.

South Pacific. Still at the Majestic. Martha Wright and George Britton have the Pinza - Martin roles. Will probably be running forever.

The Shrike, which stars Jose Ferrer and Judith Evelyn, won the Pulitzer Prize as the best play of the year. The stirring drama is at the Cort Theater.

Of Thee I Sing, starring the screen's Jack Carson and dancer Paul Hartman, just opened, is expected to be running some time. It's a revival of the Gershwin hit of some years back, resides at the Ziegfield, home of hits.

Entertainment doesn't end with the plays, however. There's Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus at Madison Square Garden, Guy Lombardo back at the Roosevelt Grill, nightly concerts at Lewisohn Stadium, and so many others there's little space to tell about them.

In the concert field, Carnegie Hall has scheduled throughout the summer such stellars as Metropolitan stars, symphonies, etc. You can write the management there for a full program.

While in New York, you might look over the foreign film field—movies you're not likely to see on local screens. Many of the ones scheduled for summer showing (such as Alec Guinness in "The Main in the White Suit," "The River" and "Tales of Hoffman") should be well worth your time.

At any rate, New York's still the King of Entertainment, and promises — as always — the time of your life.

SOUTH AMERICA FOR THIRTY DAYS

A 30-day escorted air cruise covering eight South American countries has been announced by American Express.

The air cruise is scheduled to leave Miami July 7, with the group flying first to Panama where they will stay at the beautiful new Hotel El Panama. On the following day tour members will see the sights of the city and the ruins of Old Panama, captured and destroyed by Morgan the Buccaneer. Winging southward over the Equator, the group will find itself in Lima, Peru. Here in the City of Kings, excursions will include a visit to the great Cathedral founded by Pizarro in 1535, San Marcos University, the oldest in the Americas, the National Museum and a drive through the residential districts to the suburb of Miraflores. A trip will also be made over the Central Highway to the popular summer resort of Chosica, with a stopover en route to visit the famous ruins of Cajamarquilla.

July 13 to 15 will see our tour members in Santiago, Chili, where a half-day tour will take visitors about the capital and on to Valparaiso and Vina del Mar on the Chilean Riviera.

Taking the air once more, the tour continues over the Andes to the capital of Argentina. Here, in Buenos Aires, an excursion will be made through the city and to the famous sanctuary of Lujan. Next country and capital on the itinerary is Montevideo in Uruguay, where tour members will see the city and its beautiful beaches.

Starting North the next stop will be Sao Paulo, commercial center and fastest growing city in the Western Hemisphere. While in the city the sightseeing schedule will include the famous Butantan Snake Farm and a trip to the port of Santos, center of the world's coffee trade.

Rio de Janeiro, the beautiful and fabulous capital of Brazil, is next on the agenda. Excursions will include sightseeing throughout the city terminating with a ride up Sugar Loaf Mountain, a trip to Paineiras, where the funicular railroad is taken to the summit of Corcovado Mountain, a full day's trip to the fashionable resort of Petropolis.

Music.....
the most perfect of all vacations!
Yours to create-a lifetime of matchless music

Few things will give you more pleasure than the music you make on the Hammond Organ. Each time you play you explore the range, the color, the magic of music as only the Hammond Organ makes it possible.

The Hammond Organ responds magnificently to the master musician, yet without any previous musical training, you can play simple but satisfying music the very first month. Thousands have already done it. A Hammond Organ in your home can be the beginning of a career, or a vocation, for your children. So versatile, so expressive is this instrument that your entire family will want to play.

The Spinet Model of the Hammond Organ takes no more space than a spinet piano . . . needs no installation. And since it never needs tuning, upkeep is little or nothing.

Vacation Snacks
Hot Weather Means Cookies

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Here are two new cookie recipes for vacation gatherings. Served with strawberry-garnished lemonade they'll make an attractive snack for porch or indoor eating.

Corn Meal Coconut Cookies

Ingredients: 2 cups sifted flour, 1 cup enriched corn meal, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups firmly-packed brown sugar, 1 cup shortening (soft), 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¼ cup milk, 1 cup coconut.

Method: Into mixing bowl sift flour, corn meal, baking powder, baking soda, and salt. Add remaining ingredients except coconut. Stir until ingredients are well blended, about 2 minutes. Fold in cocoanut; save part of coconut to sprinkle over top of cookies before baking. Drop by teaspoons about 1 inch apart on greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate (350 F.) oven 12 to 15 minutes or until browned. Makes about 54 cookies.

Oatmeal Top Hats

Ingredients: 1 cup sifted flour, ¾ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon mace, ¾ cup shortening (soft), 1 egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup uncooked quick rolled oats, ¾ cup finely chopped walnut or pecan meats, 1 six-ounce package semi-sweet chocolate pieces, 1 tablespoon water.

Method: Into mixing bowl sift flour, sugar, salt, and mace; add shortening, egg, and vanilla. Beat until smooth, about 2 minutes; mix in rolled oats. Shape in small balls about ¾-inch in diameter. Roll in chopped nut meats; place about 1 inch apart on ungreased baking sheet and make indentation with thumb or teaspoon tip in center. Bake in moderate (375 F.) oven for 5 minutes. Press indentation in center again; bake 3 or 4 minutes longer or until a delicate brown. Meanwhile melt chocolate with water in saucepan over hot water; fill centers of cookies with chocolate. Makes about 48 cookies.

VACATIONING AT HOME

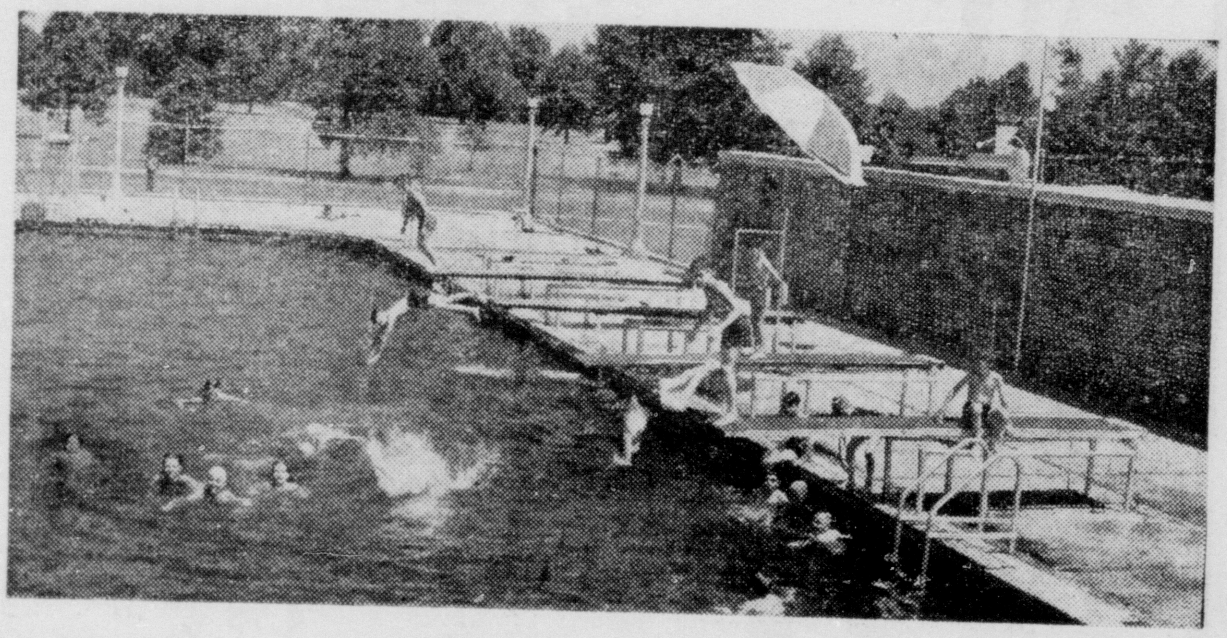
Fishing facilities in all of North Louisiana are considered by experts some of the best in the United States. With bass, bream and perch almost begging bait, vacationers can find no better place for the sport. Above, one of the most popular of Monroe and West Monroe, Black Bayou.



Swimming is still the king of the summer sports and Swayze Natatorium is a beautiful municipal gathering place. Bathing facilities are expert and the sun's right there all season.

Picnickers have been enjoying the beautiful surroundings of Bernstein Park for many years and already crowds of outers are flocking to it. The zoo holds the principal attraction for children. The trees in Bernstein Park are worth more than a passing glance.

SOUTH GOES WEST
In Ocean Springs

As Western as Montana prairie, semi - tropical as Cuba, as hospitable as the Deep South, Gulf Hills Dude Ranch at Ocean Springs, Mississippi, offers more variety in vacation wonders for its cowboys and cowboyettes, than any other spot in the country.

Ferns tucked away in cool glens, palms, ancient oaks and fragrant pines, 700 acres of them, criscrossed py 28 miles of woodland trails, merge with the broad expanse of white beach and blue waters of the Gulf of Mexico. Moonlight nights and sun bright days add the final touch to romance and adventure. Excitement or leisurely relaxation can be indulged to the heart's content.

To spruce up or not is a choice of the individual. A girl can be most stylish in a sports shirt, dungarees and a Western hat, or a bathing suit. Comfortable informality is the order of the day.

Swimming, moonlight or daytime, in the ranch's beautiful pool or in the blue waters of Old Fort Bayou, an arm of the Gulf of Mexico; golfing on the 18 - hole course, fresh water or deep sea fishing tennis, boating, and other sports and entertainment compliment the usual dude ranch activity. Down at the corral there are cowboy instructors for the tenderfoot, moonlight rides, hayrides and square dances, so swing your partner to Gulf Hills!

VACATION FOOD HINT

To make a fruit salad really glamorous, sprinkle with a few halved roasted blanched almonds. Roast the almonds in a slow oven about 20 minutes and while still hot slit into halves with a sharp knife. To give the nuts a French - fried flavor, toss a cup of almonds with a teaspoon of meltd butter before roasting and sprinkle with salt as soon as you remove them from the oven.

So MUCH To ENJOY!

By SIDNEY J. HARRIS

With at least half the gentry in the telephone book skipping off to Europe this summer, I am already weary of the type (representing roughly 90 per cent of all American tourists) who say they want to go to out-of-the-way places and see the "real Europe" that the ordinary tourist does not.

At almost every gathering someone will drag me into a corner and ask for a good small hotel in Paris "where you're not falling over tourists at every turn," or "an Italian town where we can settle for a few weeks and really get to know the people."

This is a laugh, although I never laugh openly, but answer gravely and pretend that they will really be able to do what they wistfully dream of doing. I know that after a few days they will wind up eating ham and eggs at Pam-Pam in Paris with all the other Americans.

We have the greatest capacity for self-delusion of any people in the Western world.

We actually think that good intentions can cover a multitude of inadequacies, and that earnestness is a satisfactory substitute for education.

This is why, with the best will in the world, we are so ineffectual in our European relations.

If these tourists were genuinely serious, and not just sentimental, they would first of all attempt to learn at least one European language for six months before they embark.

Speaking only English, as most of them do, it is utterly impossible to see or hear anything in Europe except what the Europeans want you to see or hear.

You will be treated cordially, but with a kind of affectionate contempt, like an overgrown spoiled child with too much money and not much sense.

You will be systematically cheated, not because Europeans are any more dishonest than we, but because they feel we can afford to be cheated. And you will bring back the same prejudices you left with.

This is because Europeans instinctively feel that we are patronizing them, not sincerely trying to understand them.

So their hospitality is tinged with resentment and they are not grateful for our help because people need comprehension more than charity.

One American talking stumbling Italian in Italy is worth a million dollars in Marshall Plan money, and is better propaganda against the Bolsheviks than all the refrigerators we can export.

WHAT TO READ ON VACATION

By Jack Ansell, Jr.

When you're out there on the sand, drinking in the sun, you'll probably be forgetting — as best you can—the little trials and tribulations of the workaday life. In case you're one of those escapees (and who isn't?) trying for a brief moment to jump out of the skin of your own life, here are a few hot-weather suggestions to aid you in jumping into the skins of some of the season's more readable characters.

Duveen by S. N. Behrman (Random House) is a skin you might enjoy roaming around in for a few hours. One of the great art dealers of all time, Sir Joseph Duveen made millions by bringing culture in the form of Old World paintings to the American millionnaires. His clients included such notables as Andrew Mellon, John D. Rocke - feller and William Randolph Hearst. Duveen's fabulous career was based on his own creed that anyone could pay thousands for a painting — but how few could pay millions? Mr. Behrman, already one of our most distinguished playwrights, has done well by Duveen, producing a first - rate biography in the form of six portrait-sketches, originally seen in the New Yorker. If you feel like roaming among millionnaires, you'll enjoy this one.

Lieutenant Hornblower (Little, Brown) is another in the seemingly endless saga of Horatio Hornblower, whose virtues still border on the grand heroic. This new novel places Hornblower somewhere between the already published vol - umes of his adventures as Mid - shipman and Captain. Here the young Hornblower is shown in preparation for his long career with Her Majesty's Navy. Still and all, C. S. Forester is one of the best sea writers of our time. He makes the sea compelling, and if at times his adventures sound somewhat foolish, they're still a lot of fun. Forester gives adventure - reading the one thing most of our adventure stories lack: wonderful writing.

Short Novels of Colette (Dial) brings six of this famous French writers shorter works into one volume. It's one of the buys of the season. Once you start reading Colette you're taken into a realm at once bitterly realistic and web-like unreal. "Cheri" and "The Last of Cheri" are the best in this new volume, although all the pieces dwell first, last and always on the physical aspects of love. One novel, "The Cat," in which a woman and a feline are rivals for a man's affections may send you racing for cover, but otherwise you're comparatively safe. Only one of the novels, "The Indulgent Husband," shows Colette at her worst, but then Colette at her worst is better than most of our writers at their best.

Jefferson Selleck (Little, Brown) is Carl Jonas' Babbitt of 1952. In trying to picture the conventional little man, Jonas runs into many a cliche that seems merely tired rather than sharp and satiric, such as followed Sinclair Lewis in his better days. But despite these cliches, Jefferson Selleck does boast a pleasant narrative and the episode of his fishing trip with home - town cronies is worth the price of admission.

Back of Town by Maritta Wolff (Random House) is one of the jazziest, raciest novels seen this way in a long time — especially to be as good as it is. Miss Wolff has the ability to throw her characters into the most degrading situations imaginable without changing their status as rather nice human beings. Her main concern in this new novel is the apparent attraction between a man and a woman who have too much pride to admit one is conquered by the other. While you're not gazing at a bronzed blonde (or vice-versa) this one might make exciting beach fare.

Just in case you haven't read The Caine Mutiny by Herman Wouk (Doubleday), here's a fine time to do it. Since this novel has headed best - seller lists for months and finally capped the Pulitzer Prize, its reputation is nothing new. But it still remains the king of contemporary fiction, even though My Cousin Rachel, the disappointment of the year, will probably be vacation queen of 1952.

Good reading, good vacation, and don't come back without a tan.

Vacationers To Enjoy '52 Boat Racing

Motorboat racing, which last year drew an all-time record number of events and competitors, is this year expected to surpass 1951 from all indications, and the American Power Boat Association anticipates sanctioning more than 200 regattas in the United States, according to its president Gibson Bradfield of Barnesville, O.

Highlighting the "big boat" inboard racing season is the annual Gold Cup race to be held for the second consecutive year on Lake Washington, Seattle, August 9. "Slo-Mo-Shun V," winner of the 1951 Gold Cup, is expected to be on hand to defend her title as well as "Slo-Mo-Shun IV," holder of the all - time world mile straightaway speed record of 160.42 mph, set in 1950. The Seattle Gold Cup committee has expanded its racing program for that week end to include two stock outboard events on the days immediately before and after the big race.

Interest in stock outboard racing which has seen a great increase since 1947 is expected to run even higher in 1952. The APBA created a new racing commission for modified stock outboards at its annual meeting in New York during the National Motor Boat Show in January. Early applications for APBA race sanctions include 25 for stock outboard regattas and 10 more for marathons for modified craft.

The opening gun of the "major league" inboard racing season which will attract national interest is the Steel Cup race for unlimited hydros during the third annual "Welcome Week Regatta" at Pittsburgh, June 7.

The Seattle Seafair Trophy Race for inboards has been advanced a month this year and will be held on Lake Washington, Seattle, on July 4. It was in two laps of the second heat of this race last year that Lou Fageol, Kent, O., driving "Slo-Mo-Shun IV," set the 10-mile competitive record of 111.72 mph. Another Independence Day inboard regatta on the Detroit River will feature the Ford Memorial Trophy Race.

During last year's all - time peak interest in motorboat racing, the APBA had more than 3000 boats bearing its identification numbers competing throughout the country in 192 sanctioned regattas — 21 more events than in 1950. Bradfield said 1952 should top this, with several drivers in the unlimited class trying to break the mile record set by Stanley S. Sayres in his "Slo-Mo IV" two years ago.

If You're Planning A Vacation, Why Not Consider Venus?

It's Only 146 Days

By Douglas Larsen
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — OK, bored citizens, dig out that atmosphere helmet. Unpack your degravity suit. We're off on another trip into space, this time to Venus.

Our navigator for this meteor-dodging junket is a nice looking young man named John M. Wuerth. He has the imposing title of project engineer in the Electromechanical Department in North American's Aerophysics Laboratory in California, where they're busily developing guided missiles.

For reasons which will be explained more or less lucidly in the next paragraph or so, we take off from earth at six o'clock in the evening at some place on the equator. The trip, if all goes well, takes 146 days.

Then, Wuerth explains:

"We will climb vertically in a rocket ship at an acceleration of 2Gs, or two times gravity, for 13 minutes. Our space traveler will be comfortable enough under this acceleration; pilots often withstand 2Gs and more. At the end of 13 minutes we will have reached 25,600 miles per hour, which is greater than the velocity needed to keep from falling back to the Earth. At this point power will be cut off and we will spend the rest of the trip coasting in an orbit of our own until we land on Venus."

What could be simpler? But in case you're confused, here's what happens:

Wuerth says it's like jumping off the back of a speeding train. The Earth is the train speeding in its orbit. The back happens to be the spot of departure on the equator at six p. m. Our departure speed is enough to get us away from Earth's pull of gravity, but we still have enough backward speed to keep us going in the general direction of the Earth in space, but in a decreasing arc.

As soon as we get out of the pull of the Earth, we get in the pull of the sun. Actually we're moving backward through space at 84,600 miles an hour. But as we're curving toward the sun, we're closing in on Venus moving in its orbit, which is inside that of the Earth's. Get the picture?

Maybe Wuerth's explanation can clear it up:

"The Earth travels around the Sun like a ball on the end of a string. The centrifugal force resulting from the Earth's motion balances the Sun's attraction, and keeps the Earth from moving closer to the Sun. To move in toward the orbit of Venus, we must reduce the centrifugal force, by making the rocket ship move slower than the Earth. The rocket ship must take off backward along the Earth's orbit to go slower than the Earth and drift in toward Venus."

Now, that brings daylight, right?

Wuerth continues our voyage:

"What are our chances of colliding with a meteorite on the way to Venus? The chances of danger from this source are less than your chances of having an automobile accident if you spent the 146 days driving around the country.

"It can easily be shown that the only critical item in getting on the proper orbit to Venus is the speed at the instant of power cutoff. An accelerometer, an instrument for measuring the rate of change of velocity, seems to be the best for this job. And with a .1 per cent error accelerometer, now commercially available, it would cause the space ship to miss Venus by almost a million miles. An improvement of the accelerometer to .0015 per cent error would assure meeting Venus at the end of 146 days."

Then you put the key questions to Wuerth. You will meet Venus traveling at about 5400 miles an hour. How can you land safely? And, of course, how do you get back?

"That," he says, "is the job for the pilot. I'm just the navigator."

COMING IN FOR A VISIT TO VENUS, the space ship noses down toward a landing, which is the pilot's job. Those two characters up front are members of the Venus Chamber of Commerce, South.. Nightmare branch office.

And Traffic Is Light

Is Anybody Staying Home?

That's the big question facing the people who operate the transportation and the hotels that make up this nation's vast resort and travel industry. From all indications, 1952 will be bigger in vacationing than the experts would have imagined in their wildest dreams. Who's staying home to tend the store, while the mass exodus out starts rolling?

Most of the worry on the part of the hotel and transportation magnets is the unbelievable push toward Europe, as well as increased tempo for domestic travel. It has even gotten to the point, so Paul Friedlander of the New York Times contends, where domestic managers breathe a few sighs of relief at the great surge toward the Continent. More room for those who stay in continental U. S. A. Remember the time when these domestic managers turned angry faces toward the travelers in Europe?
